Snores Aft... Eating

The person afflicted with sour stomach and bowels often has sleepy feeling after eating, has dizziness in the afternoon, specks before the eyes, arms or limbs "go to sleep" due to gas pressure which obstructs circulation.

These annoying symptoms are promptly relieved by taking Bell-ans Gas Tablets. Bell-ans Gas Tablets relieve indigestion, sour stomach, rumbling in abdomen, distress, nervousness caused by gas, constipation, other distress caused by gas on the stomach, and you will be surprised at what you get without it.

Bell-ans Gas Tablets are pleasant and effective. For sale by druggists and general dealers. Price, 25c. Be sure to get the genuine. Refuse substitutes. In 10c packages. J. F. Trommer, Inc., San Francisco—Advertisement.

JUDGESHIP WILL GO TO TAFT'S MAN

BY ROBERT BARRY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. — Influence of Chief Justice Taft over that of Senate politicians with President Harding was revealed today when the White House sent to the Senate the nomination of Judge Edward Terry Sanford of Knoxville, Tenn., for the Supreme Court vacancy created by the retirement of Associate Justice Mahlon Pitney.

The President, adhering strictly to the Taft recommendation for appointment of a southern Republican, turned a deaf ear to Senate supporters of Guy D. Goff of West Virginia, special assistant Attorney-General, and set aside protests registered against Judge Sanford, which reflected on the Tennessean's ability to expedite processes of justice in his court.

In naming Judge Sanford, the President went back to his original choice, after having determined ten days ago that the nature of the protests registered against the Tennessee judge were such as to weigh too heavily for an appointment.

OBJECTIONS BY SHIELDS

First, Senator John K. Shields, Democrat of Tennessee, went to the White House on invitation of the President and stated his objections to the Sanford appointment. That was followed in a few days by other protests from the Tennessee bar, which complained of Judge Sanford's congested docket.

Atty.-Gen. Daugherty conferred with the President Monday on the Supreme Court appointment. He was believed to have been with the Chief Justice in supporting Judge Sanford and to have persuaded the President that if opponents of the Knoxville man could bring nothing stronger against him than congestion of his docket and delays on cases, most of the Federal judges of the nation were similarly guilty under prevailing state of things. WILL ARREST CHURCHMEN

More Catholic Dignitaries in Mexico to Face Trials, Says Attorney-General in Interview

BY JACK STARR HUNT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 24.—El Universal, quoting Enrique De la Humeau, Attorney-General, says that Mexico is determined to punish all members of the clergy guilty of participation in the recent ceremonials at Mt. Cubilete, which resulted in the expulsion of the Papal Nuncio.

Eleven high prelates of the Mexican church participated in the ceremonies besides Mgr. Filippi. They will be jailed if found guilty, according to the newspaper, which quotes de la Humeau. The list of clergymen involved includes a number of high church dignitaries such as archbishops and bishops.

ARRESTS PROMISED

The Attorney-General has ordered the strictest investigation, El Universal says, and declares arrests may be expected shortly.

Archbishop Guadalahara, in an interview, says the Catholic Church is not forming any party. This was recently reported as the real reason for the disfavor of the government toward Mgr. Filippi.

The Archbishop further denies that Catholics are in any way connected with the Fascisti movement, which lately has been linked with the church. The Archbishop confirmed reports that Mgr. Filippi's recent ceremonials were performed under a tent with high sides, and not exposed, which the constitution prohibits.

Mexico City enters the fourth day of her street-car strike with the company and the men deadlocked and President Obregon mediating in an attempt to reach a solution. Jitneys are reaping a harvest in furnishing the city with transportation, and the strike is felt but little.

THIEVES GET $10,000 LOOT FROM HOME

Burglars obtained more than $10,000 from the home of Mrs. Earl Wilson, 102 South Kingsley Drive, yesterday, forcing an entrance to the home during the absence of the family some time between 2:30 and 10:30 p.m.

Five $1000 Liberty Bonds were among the items reported to the Wilshire police. Jewels including diamond rings, pearl necklaces and gold chains were taken. One ring valued at $1200 was reported missing.

Detectives Peterson and Bain, who investigated, found that an entrance to the house had been made through a rear window.

BITUMINOUS COAL PRICES ARE DROPPING

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Bituminous coal prices, which have shown a strong advancing tendency in recent weeks, are turning downward, according to complications given out today by F. R. Wadleigh, Federal fuel distributor. During the week ending the 22nd inst., available statistics indicate, the average price of the products at the mines was $4.32 per ton, as compared with $4.42 the previous week and $4.54, the average price reported for the week ending the 8th inst.

The drop, Mr. Wadleigh said, is considered in trade circles, to be due to the vanishing of fear concerning a possible strike in the coal fields, mild weather and better transportation conditions.

ULTIMATUM FOR TURKEY

British Will Remain in Gallipoli Until Anzac Graves Are Assured; Mosul Unsettled

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LAUSANNE, Jan. 24.—"We are in occupation of Gallipoli now and until the Anzac graves are assured us we shall remain there." In these strong terms, which have had no equal in the conference save M. Tchitcherin's threat against India—"our cavalry are on the heights of Pamir"—the British today talked to the Turks.

The dispute is not so much over possession of the graveyards themselves which the Turks are willing to give the British, but over the fact that the British demand all the territory lying between the nineteen cemeteries — some five square miles — which the Turks refuse, saying it is a strategic part of the narrow peninsula, and suggesting the graves be concentrated in one cemetery on the battlefield, as has been done in France, or the cemeteries be made smaller.

Th British declared the Turkish proposal involving the graves was an "insult" and "absolutely and definitely refused to discuss it." They added—as with Mosul—they would make their claim an integral part of the treaty—which seems to be the new method adopted in bringing pressure on the Turks.

Coming a day after the Mosul row, the incident gains in significance, especially since tonight in

PEAKS RISE ON BOTTOM OF PACIFIC

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24. — Using the Sonic depth finder, a device recently perfected in Navy experimental laboratories which determines the depth of the ocean by recording the time required for a sound to reach the bottom and return in the form of an echo, the United States Navy has just completed a survey of the continental "shelf" along the Pacific Coast from the Farallones to Point Descanso, Mex. This announcement was made today at Twelfth Naval District headquarters.

RESULT OF SURVEYS

The survey was undertaken to determine the causes of earthquakes in this area and the dangers to navigation which lurk in the shallow shelf that skirts the continent from the 100-fathom depth to the drop where the floor of the Pacific commences. Among the vital discoveries made was the existence of a ridge of submarine mountains, 4500 feet high, with their crest 300 fathoms under the surface of the sea, 120 miles southwest of the Coronado Islands, according to Navy men. A bank just north of isolated Bishop's Rock and about eighty miles southwest of San Clemente Island also was revealed. The depth here was found to be only thirty fathoms, although former charts showed 700 fathoms.

NAVY TAKES PART

Prof. A. C. Lawson, professor of geology and mineralogy at the University of California, and representatives of the Carnegie Institute, at whose request the survey was commenced, and of the California Institute of Technology, were aboard the destroyers and watched the work of the remarkable depth finder. The survey was made under the direction of Commander S. F. Hein, U.S.N., commanding the U.S.S. Hull, and navy radio men operated the instruments.

FRENCH TO ISOLATE RUHR VALLEY FROM INTERIOR GERMANY

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ESSEN, Jan. 24.—The French plan to cut the Ruhr off from the unoccupied portion of Germany tomorrow morning, according to all indications. Several batteries of field guns rattled through Essen late tonight and took an eastward course, evidently headed toward the frontier to tighten the custom cordon about the Ruhr. This maneuver, it is believed, will develop into a thorough blockade against Germany.

Two hundred French customs officials, ready to take their posts, arrived at Duesseldorf and went into conference with French military authorities. It is thought they will be sent to the boundary of the Ruhr.

GEN. WEYGAND EN ROUTE

Gen. Weygand and several high officers of the French army hurriedly left Paris on a special mission to the Ruhr. Gen. Weygand, according to authoritative sources, will take complete command of the district. One of his first steps, it is understood, will be to take over the railroads of the area if the strike of rail workers continues. Detachments of French railroaders already have left for the Ruhr and will be pressed into service if events warrant.

Although many workers in the Thyssen and other mines returned to their posts of duty Wednesday, the railroad situation became more aggravated.

The strike on the carriers, which at first affected only the newly occupied area of the Ruhr, has now spread to the Rhineland where the French have had garrisons since the armistice.

Many railroaders at Duesseldorf, the general headquarters of the French, refused to run trains and the same situation obtained at Hamborn. Employees of the carriers at Rath left their posts rather than carry French troops and supplies for the legions of invaders.

Some venture the belief that Germany has decided that a railroad strike would be more effective in thwarting the French effort of getting coal out of the district than a strike of mine workers would be.

MASTERS IN RUHR

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DUESSELDORF, Jan. 24.—If an isolated American correspondent can safely adjust his gas mask for propaganda and wade through successive waves of both German and French "press information" he may impartially announce that the French and Belgians, and even the Italians, are still masters of the situation in the Ruhr Valley.

German sabotage is going strong and to date twenty-three German officials have been expelled from the Ruhr for obeying orders from Berlin. About the general strike, which was to paralyze industry and to cause no end of annoyance for the French, the Germans declare 75,000 men have walked out. The French conservatively estimate 20,000. Giving the German sources the benefit of the doubt it would amount to 75,000 strikers in a region where 2,000,000 workers are employed. Thus one readily can see that the strike is a failure. Further proof that Berlin has failed is shown in figures obtained today from French coal-car checkers at the Krupp works at Essen.

The Krupp factories require 22,000 European coal cars each day to keep the plant in operation.

Late Bulletins on Ruhr Crisis

BRUSSELS, Jan. 24. — A fresh regiment at full war strength left Antwerp today to reinforce the Belgians in the Ruhr. The men were loudly cheered as they departed. A strong detachment of railroad men has also been sent to the Ruhr. A dispatch from Aise la Chapelle says that the Belgians arrested two more bank managers today.

MUNSTER, Jan. 24.—Ten thousand young men from the occupied region swarmed to the Sixth Division headquarters of the Reichswehr seeking to re-enlist following an announcement in a Gelsenkirchen Communist paper this morning that the government was offering a bonus of 5000 marks for recruits to defend the fatherland from invasion.

PARIS, Jan. 24.—The Ministry of War today issued a communication to the effect that five detachments of railroad workers each of 750 men, had been sent to the Ruhr, owing to the partial strike movement on the German railways.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—A Reuter dispatch from Essen says that after their decision to isolate the Ruhr, the French are taking complete control of the railways, but so far as possible are leaving the Germans to operate the trains. The French declare, however, that there are sufficient French drivers in the region to maintain the principal services if necessary. Six hundred French drivers and firemen have already reached the Ruhr.

Chicago Steps Out as Lovely Winter Resort

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—Chicago this winter is the warmest winter resort in the North Central States, according to temperature figures vouched for by the Government Weather Bureau here. While the Eastern States and the Rock Mountain region have both been swept by severe winter storms, Chicago and the Middle West have experienced one of the mildest winters on record.

During the first twenty-three days of the year, Chicago registered an excess temperature of 129 degrees above normal. During 1922 the excess reached 661 degrees, and more than seventy degrees of that total was piled up during the last ten days of the year.

Chicago's weather is influenced the year around by Lake Michigan, whose water is warmer than the air in winter and cooler in summer, but while the proximity of a large body of warm water might attract winter storms, it has failed to do so this year.

George Wipp, negro, 18 years of age, is minus his right ear as the result of a shot fired last night by another negro known as Sunshine. Wipp told police that he had fought with Sunshine earlier in the week. Last night, as he was standing outside a hotel at 420 North San Pedro street, Wipp asserts that Sunshine crept up behind him with a shotgun and fired.

Harding Will Return to His Duties Today

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—President Harding may be expected to be at his desk in the executive offices tomorrow for the first time since he was taken ill with the grip more than a week ago, if fair weather prevails, Brig.-Gen. Sawyer, the White House physician, said tonight. The President would have been at his office today, he said, except for inclement weather.

Mr. Harding attended to a number of matters today in his study, signing the nomination of Judge Edward T. Sanford of Tennessee to be associate justice of the Supreme Court to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Associate Justice Pitney, and nominating a number of postmasters and some other Federal officers.

He also signed the Interior Department appropriation bill and some minor bridge bills.

MINERS AND RAIL HANDS SWARM OUT

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

DUESSELDORF, Jan. 25.—The railroad strike has spread with great rapidity since the mine directors were fined at Mayence, and today it was effective over the greater part of the Ruhr.

No north, south or eastbound passenger trains left Duesseldorf after 6 o'clock this morning and the Paris-Berlin train was stalled at the station here. Service to Essen was completely interrupted.

STRIKE TROUBLE GROWS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Jan. 25 (4 a.m.)—A general strike of German miners, railway men, boatmen, telegraphers and civil officials began at midnight in the Ruhr.

The order was flashed throughout the region occupied by the French the minute the news of the conviction of the magnates reached the committee of labor unions sitting permanently in Elberfeld.

The strike of 35,000 railway men began at 3 o'clock, the workers leaving their jobs as the trains reached their destination. At midnight not a single train was running.

The postal and telegraph services gradually collapsed during the afternoon upon sharp orders from Berlin.

The boatmen have been deserting their work all day Tuesday and Wednesday and the cessation was complete at midnight.

The civil officials, particularly the tax collectors, have closed their offices and gone on holidays.

Three-fourths of the miners are expected to strike this morning as they promised in case of the conviction of the magnates.

CAR STOLEN FROM TRAIN BY BANDITS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

YUMA (Ariz.) Jan. 24.—Three masked men held up a special Southern Pacific westbound freight train near Dome, fifteen miles east of Yuma, early tonight, detached a car, looted it of woolen goods and escaped, presumably in an automobile, according to word received at the Sheriff's office here.

News of the robbery reached the Sheriff at 8:35 o'clock and in a short time he and a posse had started on the trail of the bandits.

Telephone and telegraph wires between Yuma and Dome were out of commission tonight and only a brief report of the robbery was available.

ESTIMATES VALUE OF BERGDOLL PROPERTY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24. — The personal property of Grover C. Bergdoll, draft dodger, who escaped from the military jail at Castle William, Governor's Island, N. Y., and fled to Germany, is estimated at $207,802, Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, his mother, disclosed this in a return to the board of revision of taxes today. She valued her own personal property at $152,700.

AMERICANS QUIT COBLENZ

Whole City as Well as Representatives of Allies Turn Out to Say Good-by to Doughboys

[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

COBLENZ, Jan. 24.—An impressive international drama in miniature was acted today at Ehrenbreitstein Fortress with the soldiers of the Allied armies playing parts written by the will of nations. America and France were the stage managers.

At noon Old Glory was slowly lowered by two veterans of Chateau Thierry and the American military force was officially withdrawn from the restless Rhineland. As the tri-color ascended, with music and full honors, French control of German soil was appreciably widened. During the transfer of command no word was spoken save a few sharp orders.

ALLIES TAKE PART

Representatives of England, Belgium and Italy played minor roles while below the towering walls of the fortress sat Germany, an unwilling spectator. Perhaps the Germans will be cheered by Gen. Allen's farewell message in the Amaroc News, referring to the American's "sympathy for their former foes," and the hope that in the days to come the Germans will not have "any feelings of bitterness or rancor toward us."

Three thousand persons witnessed the ceremony, which lasted barely fifteen minutes. On the broad roof of the barracks and on the parade grounds Gen. Allen, Gen. Mordacai, High Commissioner Tirard and distinguished Allied officers and members of the Rhineland commission assembled while two picked companies of French Blue Devils and two companies of Americans faced the flagpole whence the Stars and Stripes stood out in a strong breeze. Preliminary salutes, then retreat were sounded on a bugle.

FLAG COMES DOWN

As the huge flag started down the French band played the Star-Spangled Banner." Gen. Allen caught the flag in his arms and then it was carried away by an honor guard.

The tri-color was all ready to replace it, but there was a hitch in the proceedings due to trouble with the windlass which the Germans interpreted as not an unhappy omen for themselves. French soldiers lost their rigid pose when they heard the noise of the runaway windlass and at first thought the cable was broken and it would not be possible to raise the flag, but in a minute the tri-color of the new masters of Ehrenbreitstein swung out overhead. As it moved up the band played the "Marseil-

ANOTHER 'LEAK' IS DISCOVERED

Paper Says Mileage Books Were to be Sold

Suggested Plan is Taken as Tentative Decision

Commerce Commission is Roiled by Act

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Repetition of a "leak" similar to the recent Southern Pacific case today has aroused the Interstate Commerce Commission to the need of vigilance in connection with its decisions which affect railroad systems and rates. Industrial organizations and other interested parties on the west coast flooded the commission with protests and inquiries when a suggested plan of settlement for the Central Pacific Railroad was given premature publication and misconstrued as a tentative decision of the Federal body.

The latest "leak" occurred today when a local paper published a photograph of Senator James Watson of Indiana and A. M. Loeb, president of the National Council of Traveling Salesman's Association, showing this man reading a document purported to be the official report of the Interstate Commerce Commission giving a 20 per cent reduction on 2500-mileage books.

"PLAYED" IN CAPTION

The caption for the photograph read, "Mileage Book Privilege Restored. An announcement of the Interstate Commerce Commission of a 20 per cent reduction on 2500-mileage books is received by Senator James Watson of Indiana, author of the law."

It seems unlikely that Senator Watson, who is the Republican leader in the Senate, would pose for such a photograph unless he had some documentary evidence of the commission's decision of the interchangeable mileage ticket investigation. The belief exists that the photograph was taken with a confidential copy with the understanding that the photograph was not to be released until the commission report was given to the public. The fact that the Senator posed with the representative of the Traveling Salesman's Association gives further weight to the conclusion that the document had something to do with mileage books.

DENIAL NOT MADE

Apparently the premature publication was resented by Chairman Mayer who issued an official statement tonight to the effect that "Deliberations on this case have not yet been entirely concluded." He makes no specific denial that such a copy is in existence, but says if a copy is really in the possession of persons other than the commission "such copy can have come there only as the result of grave impropriety."

In the Central Pacific case a confidential list of suggested plans were mailed to intervening parties asking for their opinions in the matter. No copies of this decision were made available by the commission here. As a consequence, several interested parties gave out the statements to the local press in their vicinity indicating that it was a tentative decision of the commission. Members of the commission officially denied that the memorandum was other than the suggestions and resents misinterpretation.

ENGLAND'S MARKETS HIT

Central and Eastern European Collapse Will Affect World Exports, British Banker Declares

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Jan. 24.—Presiding today over the annual meeting of the London Joint City and Midland Bank, Ltd., Reginald McKenna, formerly Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared the commercial breakdown of Central and Eastern Europe was not only destructive of the markets there, but must hamper this country's export trade more or less the world over.

Referring to the financial policy of Great Britain, Mr. McKenna said it was one of gradual deflation, which had its influence on trade and employment.

Under the existing conditions, he believed, the depreciation of the dollar was bound to continue.

"The United States is the only great market for gold," he said. "The bulk of the world's output is sold to that country and as the amount is greatly in excess of the normal currency and credit requirements, the effect of the oversupply is to force down the value of gold, which means a rise in prices in the United States and a fall in the value of the dollar as measured in sterling.

"Even if prices rose here they would not rise as fast as they must in the United States under the influence of an excessive gold supply and if there were no deflation in either country sterling would slowly appreciate until it finally reached par."

Mr. McKenna asserted that there were signs that the worst of the period of depression in this country had passed and that, if the trade outlook caused a further rise in the general level of confidence, as seemed likely, a cumulative increase in business might be expected.

laise" with a gradual crescendo.

Five minutes later the French garrison had replaced Companies D and M of the Eighth Infantry which passed through the fortress gates for the last time.

ANOTHER VANTAGE POINT

Arrival of the French in the Coblenz area gives them another strategic vantage point in the economic fight. The Rhine with its bordering railroads is an artery in the transportation of coal vital to the industrial life of the Rhineland.

Speaking of today's events, Gen. Allen at a luncheon at his home with Allied officials said: "The spectacle we have just witnessed was not grandiose nor imposing, but its significance is of the greatest importance in connection with affairs of the Old World and the New.

As the Eighth Infantry swung through the streets to two waiting trains with colors flying, French troops formed a guard of honor along the route and their bands played farewell music. The Eighth, under command of Col. Bates, will board the transport St. Mihiel Thursday morning.

finder as an aid to navigation, which Navy authorities believe will be of incalculable value to shipping interests, was concusively proved by its behavior during the operations, those on the destroyer say. Approaches to unlighted islands in the plotted area, which would have been extremely dangerous without the device, were easily made.

Installation of the devices for the survey was commenced at Mare Island Oct. 16, 1922, and completed November 15, and the operations were commenced under orders from the Navy Department soon after.

REILY AT CAPITAL FOR CONFERENCES

DECISION TO BE REACHED ON WHETHER HE CONTINUES ISLAND GOVERNOR

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Gov. E. Mont Reily of Porto Rico arrived here tonight from his home in Kansas City, where he has spent a few weeks, and it is believed that a decision regarding his remaining in Porto Rico may be reached after conferences with President Harding and Secretary Weeks. Although no definite statement has been made, it has been said that Mr. Reily intended to return to the island. It was not indicated tonight what his course would be.

In the event that Mr. Reily should resign, it is said, Maj.-Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, retired, has been under consideration for appointment as Governor of the possession. His military experience in the tropics and as former chief of the War Department's Insular Bureau, which supervises Porto Rican affairs, it is declared, makes him particularly fitted for such a post.

LINER RESOLUTE DUE AT SAN FRANCISCO

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—The Resolute, a United American Steamship Company liner, is due in San Francisco on an around-the-world tour tomorrow. She will depart for Honolulu tomorrow night.

The Resolute flies the flag of Panama, so liquors can be sold on board. She is credited with being the second largest steamship sent to this port and, it is believed, the first liner to circumnavigate the globe under the Panama flag.

Among the passengers are R. H. M. Robinson, president of the United American Lines, Mrs. H. F. Hurlburt, wife of the president of the American Bar Association, and Mrs. Nina Wilcox Putnam, authoress. Eighty passengers will join the Resolute here.

CONFECTIONERS PICK OFFICERS FOR YEAR

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—J. J. Collins, San Francisco, was elected president of the Western Confectioners' Association at the eighth annual convention here today. Other officers elected were: George W. Lehy, Los Angeles, first vice-president; A. J. Bales, Portland, second vice-president, and Nicholas Nelson, San Francisco, secretary and treasurer.

BRITISH PAY TRIBUTE TO AMERICAN

Ambassador Page's Memory to be Honored With London Monument

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The London Times tomorrow will publish over the signatures of the four British Prime Ministers and Viscount Grey of Fallodon, a tribute to the late Walter Hines Page, former American Ambassador to Great Britain.

Besides Viscount Grey, who was Foreign Secretary during Mr. Page's term of service at the Court of St. James, the signers are Mr. Bonar Law, the present Prime Minister; the Earl of Balfour Herbert H. Asquith and David Lloyd George.

The tribute, which takes the form of a letter to the editor of the Times, also contains an appeal for funds for the erection of a permanent memorial to Mr. Page, the form of which will depend upon the amount of subscriptions received. The letter refers to the late Ambassador as "one of the best friends Great Britain ever had, and a far-seeing crusader in the cause of Anglo-American co-operation."

"In the difficult period of the war before the United States entered it," the letter continues, "and when many contentious issues inevitably arose between the British and American governments, it was Mr. Page's handling of these issues as much as any other factor that kept him within the bounds of reason and good temper.

"There is nothing in Britain to mark the fact that Mr. Page lived here for five years as United States Ambassador and that in the great crisis he served his own country and ours, and civilization itself, with noble competence.

"We desire to repay that omission. We confidently invite subscriptions to perpetuate a name and services that never can be thought of on either side of the Atlantic without deep affection and gratitude."

Mrs. Dunn Done Lost Her Dress; Dunn Now Done

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—A tissue-paper dress, worn by Mrs. Jessie Dunn at a masquerade ball, and which was pulled to pieces by "the boys," figured in the testimony today by James J. Dunn, who is contesting his wife's divorce action.

According to Dunn's testimony, his wife told him she had lots of fun at the ball. "The boys began pulling off pieces until nothing was left but just me," Mrs. Dunn is quoted as saying.

TAFT INFLUENCE IN APPOINTMENT

rate, the President went back to his original choice.

So far as could be ascertained tonight, no fight will be made in the Senate against confirmation of Judge Sanford. It was indicated, however, that criticism would be registered against the part Chief Justice Taft played in the appointment. One Senator was known to be preparing to charge Mr. Taft with political activity unbecoming his office.

CANDIDACY OF KENTUCKIAN

Circumstantial stories have been to the effect that the Chief Justice sought to interest Republican Senators first in the candidacy of William Marshal Bullitt of Louisville, who was Solicitor-General of the United States when Mr. Taft was President. On learning Mr. Bullitt had no chance, the Chief Justice was said to have favored Judge Sanford, who was Assistant Attorney General during the Taft administration. He became judge of the Eastern and Middle districts of Tennessee through appointment by President Taft.

Some time ago when it became apparent Mr. Harding would have two Supreme Court places to fill even after he had named Chief Justice Taft and Associate Justice Sutherland of Utah, the Chief Justice was said to have advised that the President go to the Northwest for a Democrat in filling the vacancy created by resignation of Associate Justice William R. Day and then pick a Southern Republican for the Pitney place. Mr. Harding gave most cordial approval of the plan, although attaching the condition that if he did not find a suitable candidate among the Republican ranks of the South he would name a man from Pennsylvania or New Jersey.

NEW JERSEY CHOICE

The New Jersey candidate was Vivian M. Lewis of Paterson, Vice-Chancellor of New Jersey, who was the Republican opponent of Woodrow Wilson for Governor of New Jersey in 1910. Judge Robert Von Moshzoskar of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, always was a strong candidate. He probably would have been named except for the influence of the Southern Republican idea in the President's mind. Ohio presents a candidate in Judge John M. Killith, United States District Judge sitting at Toledo. A delegation headed by Bishop McDowell of the Methodist Episcopal Church; Prohibition Commissioner Haynes and Wayne B. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon League, urged his appointment on the President.

When it was believed the protests registered against Judge Sanford had persuaded Mr. Harding of the inadvisability of the Tennessee man being chosen, Judge Goff, because of his strong Senate backing, and Henry W. Anderson of Virginia, Republican nominee for Governor in 1921, were thought to have a decided edge in the race. The two Democratic Senators raised personal objections to Anderson, Atty.-Gen. Daugherty was not believed to have been friendly to Mr. Goff's candidacy. Whether he actually fought him is not certain.

NATIVE OF TENNESSEE

Judge Sanford was born at Knoxville, July 23, 1865. He was educated in law in the University of Tennessee and at Harvard. He was admitted to the Bar in 1888. From 1898 to 1907 he was a lecturer in the law department of the University of Tennessee. He was assistant attorney-general of the United States from January, 1907, to 1908, when he obtained appointment from President Taft as United States District Judge in the eastern and middle districts of Tennessee. He is a former vice-president of the American Bar Association and a writer and lecturer.

Stories are heard to the effect that in return for support of Judge Sanford's confirmation or for not opposing him, Senator Shields will be permitted to name a successor. He has been very eager to have Thomas N. Greer, of Shelbyville, Tenn., named for the new Middle District of Tennessee. Those stories have not been confirmed. Nor will it be believed the President entered into such a trade with the Democratic Senator until Mr. Greer's appointment shall have been announced.

Ogden, Not to Be Outdone, Reports Pansies in Full Bloom

OGDEN, Jan. 24.—Walla Walla, with its blooming peonies and strawberry plants, has nothing on Ogden. One woman reported today she has been picking pansies from a plot in her front yard for two weeks.

English Court Jails Detective for Frame-up

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Jan. 24.—Cecil Carey, a London police detective, has been sentenced in the Old Bailey to nine months' imprisonment for a frame-up against a criminal, thus showing how careful the British laws are to protect against injustice.

Carey caught a thief who stole a bag of cash from a London club, and as the bag contained less than £2, making the offense petty larceny, he instructed the club manager to put £40 ($194) in the bag, so the man could be charged with grand larceny, calling for a long sentence. The club manager was sentenced to three months.

Two policemen are now on trial for accepting bribes from street bookmakers.

The demand for coal yesterday was 18,000 cars of which 10,000 were shipped. This shows that in the stronghold of resistance the sabotage was only 15 per cent effective. In other factories the strike percentage is very small, including only those workers who felt inclined to take a holiday.

French officials admit that the stubborn resistance the Germans are making has made reorganization of the Ruhr iron and steel mills difficult and the Germans in banks and offices in Duesseldorf will look you straight in the eye and say the iron and steel mills are not running. This is hard to believe especially after just having seen a score of mills working day and night south of Dortmund. The Germans today refused to load coal barges on the Rhine-Herne Canal with coal destined for France, consequently the French will tighten the cordon of customs officers and military outposts and see that not one barge or coal car slips through the occupied area to central Germany.

ANALYSIS DIFFICULT

The problem of the Ruhr thus presented is a difficult one to analyze. The French press bureau today reorganized and information is being given to the smallest details including a brilliant lecture on the principles of economic control.

The Girls Lycem School in Duesseldorf has been requisioned by the French and a good school room with mathematical problems still on the blackboards utilized for a press room. Newspaper men take places at the desk like good little school boys while the French Foreign Office official explains why coal and iron is the index of national prosperity.

Thus the lesson today was on iron from which it appears Germany produced 2,000,000 tons more during 1922 than in the banner year of 1913. Germany, therefore, is more prospreous than either France or England and ought to be able to pay her bills. Especially as France and England only produced about 45 per cent of capacity last year.

Since the occupation of the Ruhr the playing of the German national hymn "Die Wacht Am Rhein," has been forbidden, though an incident occurred last night in a Duesseldorf cafe which was a surprise even to the Germans. The orchestra suddenly started with the forbidden anthem when six Belgian officers at a table sprang to attention. The Germans, stupefied, asked if the Belgians had turned their allies and why they stood up. The Belgian officers replied:

"It is because the watch on the Rhine is for us—not for Germans."

Three Cousins of Hermine in Divorce Spree

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, Jan. 24.—An epidemic of divorce has broken out in the family of the ex-Kaiser's Hermine, no less than three of her princely cousins, each named Henry of Reuss, having shaken off the marital yoke, according to the latest Almanac De Gotha.

In addition to Prince Henry XXXIII, whose divorce from Princess Victoria Margarite of Prussia was announced some time ago, his brothers, Henry XXXII and Henry XXXV have jumped the marriage track. Henry XXXV, whose former spouse was Princess Marie of Saxe-Atenburg, now has married his brother's ex-wife, Princess Marie Adelheid of Lippe, to keep her in the family.

ULTIMATUM FOR TURK

his regular talks with the American press, the official, characterizing the proposal as "ridiculous," hoped the correspondents would treat it the same way.

It is the first time in the history of the Angora government that the press has been asked to ignore a proposal.

Though progress in the Greeks and Turks over the change of population has been slow, advices have reduced the gap between the Turks from $1,000,000 to £15,000,000. The principal cloud seems to be the Turkish conference demand that the Greeks and the British and Turks must agree on the terms which govern or no treaty.

Marquis Curzon, who is in conference today with Premier Poincare, Premier Mussolini, secretary of the League of Nations, presumably will discuss the matter of carrying out the decisions respecting the mandates of the League, the council of which meets Monday.

ARIZONA BILL HITS KU KLUX

Measure on Minimum Wage for Women Passed

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, Jan. 24.—A stiff anti-Ku Klux bill has been brought out by Representatives L. W. Douglas. The wearing of a mask is made a misdemeanor, unless in a room where permission to do so has been given. But it shall be a felony for persons, masked or unmasked, to conspire to injure, threaten, oppress or intimidate any citizen in the free rights secured to him under the Constitution, or to go about in disguise on the highway or to use masks to avoid identification in the commission of any public offense. Arizona laws on the subject are declared weak and no results came from indictments found by a Maricopa county grand jury.

The House passed its bill prohibiting employers from interfering with the rights of employees to run for or accept public office. The measure was brought out for the especial benefit of Senator Moore of Navajo cunty, a Santa Fe Railway employee.

WOMEN'S WAGE BILL

The McKay bill fixing a minimum wage of $16 a week for women passed, as did the Bernard bill changing to felony the offense of dealing in or giving away narcotics, and a bill establishing a State verterinary examination board.

Possibly of large importance is the Ludwig bill, which passed the House 31 to 12, clearing the election slate in giving election to a candidate who secures a majority vote at the primary. As only two parties usually are contesting and inasmuch as the Democrats have an apparent majority of 30,000 votes in the primary registration over the Republicans, it might throw Arizona into the same class as Alabama or Texas, where the main political struggle is at the primary.

WOMEN IN POLITICS

Another political bill, offered in the Senate by Claypool, directs that women shall form half of the organization of a political party, this rule carried through the precinct, county and State bodies.

The Senate Irrigation Committee was given the Roberts' resolution, looking toward an amendment of the State Constitution that would permit issuance of State bonds for the erection of a dam on the Colorado River at Glen Canyon and calling for a joint commitee report on the Colorado.

The House concurrent resolution indorsing former Gov. Campbell for appointment as Secretary of the Interior was turned over in the Senate to the Committee on Public Institutions.

In the Senate Committee of the Whole, after much acrimonious debate in which Senator St. Charles made reference to copper-collared members of the body, there was recommendation that the office of Water Commissioner be abolished forthwith, though there was failure to take decisive action on the Commissioner's position on the Colorado River Commission. This procedure is understood merely to be an end toward the ousting of Commissioner Norviel, one of the few remaining Republicans around the State House.

URGES STRONGER DAM

The Governor sent the Senate a letter from L. C. Hill of Los Angeles, consulting engineer on the Lyman Dam, near St. Johns, with the statement that certain features should be added if the structure be made reasonably safe against floods in the little Colorado River.

The State has loaned about $500,000 to the dam organization, which has defauted on interest payments and which threatens to throw the enterprise wholly upon the State as a creditor, despite a local investment of $500,000.

Senator Colter stated that the suggestions of Mr. Hill have been carried out or will be at once from funds remaining on hand. Woodruff and Holbrook would be endangered by a dam break.

STATE LOANS UNPAID

At a meeting of the State Loan Board today it was developed that only about a third of the State land loans of $1,500,000 have been repaid and that overdue interest accounts amount to $129,000.

The Legislature will be asked to authorize employment of a special collection agent.

New bills include a copy of the California Teachers' Pension Law, a labor union measure against the present statute permitting courts to direct physical examination of claimants for damage, prohibiting acceptance by police officers of employment as private watchmen or detectives; demanding that barber shops be equipped with plumbing for hot and cold water; repealing the law compelling county officers to reside in county seats.

Church Would Stop Printing of Racy News

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Jan. 24.—When the National Assembly of the Church of England meets next month the delegates will be asked to sanction a strong protest against the publication of salacious testimony in divorce court proceedings.

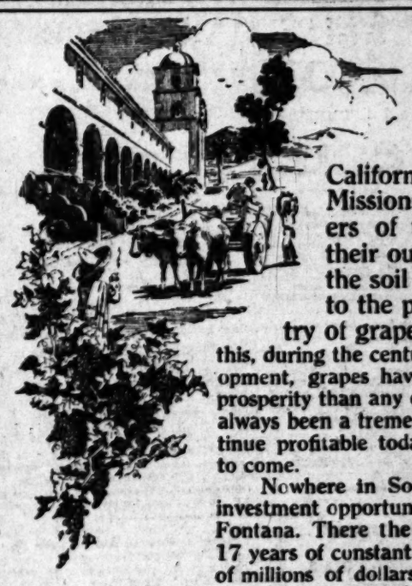
A majority of the London newspapers publish the racy details of divorce cases much more freely than the average American daily, and Canon F. Dormer Pierce will ask the assembly not only to protest against it, but also to request the government to "take such steps as may be necessary by national censorship or otherwise to restrict publication of this evidence."

CARS SKID; MAN KILLED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—Automobile accidents caused by cars skidding on streets made slippery by sleet which fell during the night, resulted in the death of one man and injury to scores of others.

Weather forecasts for the next twenty-four hours indicated even more slippery streets tomorrow, with increasingly colder temperatures.



GRAPES

have been one of the most profitable crops grown in California since the days of the early Missions. When the sturdy founders of the Golden State established their outlying settlements they found the soil and climate perfectly adapted to the pleasant and profitable industry of grape growing. From that day to this, during the century and a half of California development, grapes have contributed more to the State's prosperity than any other product of the soil. They have always been a tremendous source of revenue. They continue profitable today and should remain so for ages to come.

Nowhere in Southern California is there a greater investment opportunity in vineyards to be found than at Fontana. There the Fontana Farms Company, through 17 years of constant development, and the expenditure of millions of dollars has perfected one of the greatest vineyard properties in the world.

Southern California's MOST FAMOUS GRAPE LAND

These vineyards, under one of the best irrigating systems in the West, are offered for sale at only $500 per acre upon easy terms, payable over 5 years.

The Fontana Farms Company furnishes all cultural care and water, free of charge, for three years from date of planting.

Irrigated vineyards yield big returns—from 6 to 8 and even 10 tons to the acre, and last season prices paid ranged from $75 to $140 per ton.

Fontana offers one of the very best land investment opportunities in California today. You should obtain full information at once.

Scott's Mineralava

(Beauty Clay)

This new beautifying preparation is not a cosmetic. It does not cover imperfections—it removes them. Mineralava Beauty Clay, when used in conjunction with Mineralava Face Finish, will actually build underlying muscles and tissues into a youthful firmness, dispelling wrinkles and flabbiness. It does more—it brings color to the surface, natural blood-tinged color.

The cost is small—less than 20 cents a treatment. The investment is little—Mineralava Beauty Clay costs but $2.00, and Mineralava Face Finish but $1.50.

Easy to Apply

The Beauty Clay is applied with a brush (one with every bottle) and dries into a fragrant mask in twelve minutes. It is then washed off (easily done) and Face Finish, a skin food and tonic, applied. Then you have a perfect base for powder.

APPROPRIATION BILLS MISSING

Holding Back of Measures Retards Legislature

Committees Seek to Learn About Budget

Plan for Adjournment on Tuesday is Launched

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—What has become of all the appropriation bills this session? That is the question that is engaging the attention of the chairmen of the Finance Committee in the Senate and the Ways and Means Committee in the Assembly. It is also, to some extent, engaging the attention of the State administrative forces, who wanted a chance to compare requests for funds sought by appropriation with requests contained in their budget bill now in the making. Last year the Financial Committee of each house handled more than 400 bills, according to members who served on them. This year so far only forty bills calling for any unusual expenditure of money have made their appearance.

Members of the two houses admit they have bills tucked away calling for appropriations; when asked why they are withholding them they say they want to know more about the budget. Inasmuch as the budget is being guarded from the eyes of all but the Board of Control and its confidential employees, members realize that they cannot see it until its reported to the Legislature, perhaps early next week, but they continue to await its appearance before presenting their bills.

MAY DELAY ADJOURNMENT

An effort was made today to bring some of them out by introducing a resolution for adjournment next Tuesday for the constitutional recess. The resolution went over until tomorrow, under the rules. Administration leaders admitted tonight that it might be amended to fix the latest date possible for adjournment under the constitutional limitations, which would be February 6.

The only bills carrying appropriations of moment so far are road bills. A number of those were reported out to the Assembly today by the Highway Commission and re-referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

One reason assigned by legislators for delaying the introduction of appropriation bills was their own uncertainty as to just what the budget would cover. This was explained by the Board of Control today, where it was said that the budget would list all items relating to the continuance of existing State functions, and including their reasonable expansion where necessary. For instance, a new building to house additional inmates of a going institution, and funds to maintain it would be a budget item, while an item for a new building to house an added function ordered by the Legislature would not be properly a budget item and would require a separate appropriation.

BUDGET ALL ITEMS

Under this interpretation all items for the maintenance, expansion and operation of going State boards, institutions and activities generally will be budgeted.

Legislators are viewing the approach of the budget with some apprehension, because they anticipate that it will be bulky, and, because of its technical contents, will be heard to analyze. Some of them have suggested to the Board of Control that it ought to be accompanied by a sort of digest or analysis, that would make its contents quickly understandable to persons not familiar with accounts. This suggestion was not received with any enthusiasm by the board, which retorted that it had enough to do on the budget, without adding any further burdens.

The Legislature will adjourn for the thirty-day constitutional recess on Tuesday, if the plans of its leaders work out. This was established when Henry Carter, floor leader, and administration spokesman, offered a resolution fixing the date.

This does not necessarily mean, however, that the Legislature will actually adjourn on Tuesday. If consideration of the budget bill is incomplete at that time, it is possible, under the customs of the Legislature, to stop the clock, thereby establishing a legal fiction that Tuesday is continuing, and to run over into the latter part of the week. If that is done, however, the session has to be continuous. There can be recesses, but no adjournments.

PASS FEW BILLS

The Assembly today received the usual grist of bills. Nothing was finally passed by either House except a charter for Santa Rosa, which had passed the Senate and today went through the Assembly, and some amendments for other cities.

The Senate also received a few bills, and a resolution by Inman of Sacramento for a committee investigation of the reasons that actuated the Motor Vehicle Department to discharge about twenty inspectors recently. This resolution also lay over for a day.

Both houses received visits from "forty-niners," who invited them to attend a celebration of the anniversary of Gold Discovery in California, to be held today under direction of the Sacramento Whiskerinos Club.

The delegates were Assemblywoman Woodbridge of Roseville, Placer county, who was gowned and bonneted in the style of '49, and Charles H. Wilkinson, an Assembly attache from San Francisco, who wore the garb of gold mining days. Mrs. Woodbridge was escorted to the bar of each house by Elkinson, better known as "Lumberjack Charlie," and there the Assemblywoman extended the invitations.

Richardson Not to Intervene in Hanging Cases

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—A statement intimating that Gov. Richardson does not intend to intervene in cases of persons in California convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged, was issued today at the executive offices. The statement is assumed to indicate that the Governor will not intervene to prevent the execution Friday of Uliah Mohammed at San Quentin prison and of Felipe Rasquere at Folsom.

The statement said:

"Opponents of capital punishment have been making a strong effort to induce Gov. Richardson to make it a general rule to set aside the law and commute the sentences of all prisoners who have been convicted by a jury and sentenced to be hanged.

"In answer to this request, the Governor has stated that he has taken an oath to support the constitution and the laws of the State; that the laws provide for capital punishment; and that where a man has been fairly tried and convicted and sentenced, he does not feel he can nullify the law without violating the oath. If the people desire to change the law regarding capital punishment, they can do so either by the initiative or through legislation."

Standing Rule Change Sought in Legislature

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—The Assembly planned to adopt today a change in standing rules, which would do away with the old custom of going into committee of the whole each time an appropriation is discussed, and then reporting back to the House for action. A substitute rule will be adopted, providing that the appropriations will be considered in committee of the whole only when five or more members so request.

The change was made to expedite business. It was explained that under the rules, persons not members cannot speak in a regular session, but they may be heard in committee of the whole, and as it is frequently desirable to hear such persons on appropriations, it had become customary to go always into committee. With the budget carefully worked out, it was thought by members that this would no longer be necessary.

Standing rules applied for several sessions were up for adoption, with this one change.

URGES COMPULSORY HALF-FARE FOR PUPILS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—A bill amending the public utilities act to make mandatory the granting of half-fare rates to school children by street railways, was introduced in the Assembly today by Assemblywoman Saylor of Berkeley.

Mrs. Saylor said that under the law at present this was optional with the companies, and some did it, while others refused. The bill would place the matter in the hands of the Railroad Commission.

Half fares are now allowed school children in San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Fresno and numerous other cities, but are not allowed in Oakland and Berkeley.

SPEED OFFICER TRAPS HIT IN ASSEMBLY BILL

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—Assemblyman Pomeroy must have been pinched. That was the expressed opinion of legislators who read his amendment to the vehicle act, introduced today. It would forbid speed officers from operating traps, would require them to wear "distinctive uniforms," when on duty, and would also require them to "remain in plain sight," and not hide away up crossroads.

Mr. Pomeroy got a cheer from every motorist who read his bill.

STRICT NEW MOTOR VEHICLE ACT URGED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—A complete new motor vehicle act for California, indorsed by the principal State-wide motor and road organizations, was introduced today by Senator Arthur H. Breed.

Examination of the fitness of applicants for operators' licenses, and substitution of a $2 registration fee in place of the present horsepower tax, are features.

VEHICLE INQUIRY SOUGHT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—Senator Inman in a resolution today asked an inquiry into curtailment of the activities of the State Motor Vehicle Department. In the interests of economy, Will H. Marsh, new chief of the department, last Saturday reduced the department's force of inspectors.

SANTA FE PACT PASSAGE URGED

Committee Asks Immediate Ratification

Johnson's Opposition Given Little Consideration

E. Warmington, representing the Palo Verde Valley, told the committee that ratification of the pact by the seven interested States is absolutely necessary is the future and prosperity of the Palo Verde and Imperial Valleys are to be assured.

"The Boulder Canyon project has nothing to do with this pact," said Mr. Warmington, "and delay in ratification at this time may defer action for many years."

This opinion was shared by Atty.-Gen. Webb, who asserted that the past is a wonderful work, which, if not ratified now will result in litigation for years to come.

"The other States," said the Attorney-General, "have been exceedingly good to California — this State is the greatest beneficiary under the pact. If ratification is made contingent on favorable action on the Swing-Johnson bill I fear you will not be able to act on the compact at this session."

Assemblyman Davis in a statement preceding a vote by the committee explained that ample opportunity had been given opponents and proponents of the pact to attend the hearing and present their arguments. Although telegrams were read from Congressman Swing and Mark Rose of Imperial Valley, none of the opponents appeared in person. Mr. Davis declined to vote either for or against the motion to report the compact for immediate favorable action and the matter was voted out unanimously by the other committee members.

APPROVED IN UTAH

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALT LAKE, Jan. 24.—The Utah State Senate today by unanimous vote passed the bill to approve the Colorado River compact, signed at Santa Fe, N. M., last November. The bill will be considered by the House of Representatives in committee of the whole tomorrow afternoon.

BAKER BILL ASKS SHIFT IN DISTRICTS

Assemblyman Declares Change Will Equalize Labor Members on Board

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—A plan for reapportionment of the four equalization districts of California was advanced by a bill introduced today by Assemblyman Edwin Baker of Los Angeles. The object of Mr. Baker's bill, he explained, was to equalize the labor of the four board members, rather than to attempt to strike a balance of population in the suggested districts.

The law was last revised in 1907, since which date the centers of population have materially altered.

The State is divided into four equalization districts. These are now represented by members elected from Los Angeles county, Alameda county, San Francisco city and county, and Shasta county. The changes suggested by the Baker bill would leave these members undisturbed, by permitting their home cities to be left in the same numbered districts as at present, but would alter boundaries to equalize the work.

The first district, under the new plan, would center about San Francisco as at present, and would include coast counties south to and including Ventura, and also Kern county, in the lower end of the San Joaquin valley. The census population is 855,846.

The second would include Alameda and Contra Costa, San Joaquin, Sacramento and thence south to include most of the San Joaquin valley and the mountain counties east. The census population is 991,932.

The third would include a portion of Contra Costa and of Sacramento counties, and would be otherwise almost unchanged from its present lines, which include a large part of the north end of the State. Its census population is 404,839.

The fourth would include Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Orange, Riverside, San Diego and Imperial counties and would have a census population of 1,247,142.

INFLUENCING JURY INDICTMENT BASIS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—Harry Levitan, a Sacramento resident, who is said to be an agent, under San Francisco leadership, of the Russian soviets, was indicted today by the county grand jury on a charge of seeking corruptly to influence the vote of a prospective juror at a recent Industrial Workers of the World trial here.

It is charged Levitan approached Mrs. B. M. Fountain, a member of the jury panel, and attempted to persuade her to vote against conviction if she were selected as a juror.

Letters and documents found in Levitan's possession, according to the police, indicated he was engaged in seeking support for the soviets.

BOND ISSUE GRANTED FOR POWER COMPANY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—The Central Mendocino County Power Company was granted permission by the State Railroad Commission today to issue and sell common and preferred stock and bonds totaling $265,000, the proceeds of which will be used to buy a water and electrical distributing system from the Willits Water and Power Company, together with 2360 acres of watershed lands.

LITTLE GIRL AIDS COURT TO DECISION

Both Parents Demand Her; She Asks for School, and Judge So Decrees

Howard Worthington wants the custody of his daughter Eleanor, 14 years of age.

Mrs. Worthy L. Brelsford, his divorced wife, who married again and had her second marriage annulled, also wants the child.

Both appeared in Superior Court yesterday before Judge Kestch, who told them to decided jointly on a school to which the girl shall be sent, and continued the case until Tuesday.

Testimony was to the effect that the divorce and custody of the child had been awarded to Worthington. Before the final decree was handed down Mrs. Worthington married Worthy L. Brelsford in Arizona, and eight years later obtained an annulment of her second marriage on the grounds that it was not legal.

Eleanor who had been living with her father, took up residence with her mother, and lived with her for several years. Now the father wants her to return to him. He asserted in court that Mrs. Brelsford is not a fit person to have custody of the child, charging that she was still on intimate terms with Brelsford, whose wife she no longer is.

William Sells, Mrs. Brelsford's father, was a witness for Worthington, and there seemed to be some animosity between father and daughter.

When Eleanor was questioned in chambers by Judge Kestch as to which parent she would rather live with, she said:

"If I live with my father I don't get my mother's care and affection. But if I live with my mother she has to be at work all day and does not have sufficient time to care for me. I would rather go to a girls' school."

So the judge told the parents to choose a school for her.

Martin Forrest is Mrs. Brelsford's attorney, and Clark and Ham represent Worthington.

SAYS NO ON RECONCILED TELLEGENS

Opera Singer's Actor-Husband Denies Communicating With "Other Party"

"I'll drop dead if there's been any communication between me and the other party in that suit!"

That was the answer of Lou Tellegen, the actor, last night, to the rumor that he and Geraldine Farrar, the opera singer, were to be reconciled following a postponement yesterday until Monday of the hearing of their divorce-suit action in New York.

Mr. Tellegen, who is appearing at the Orpheum here in a playlet, "Blind Youth," furthermore declared he did not send a bouquet of flowers to his wife when she gave a concert recently in Lynn, Mass.

He says it is true, however, that the divorce hearing has been postponed until Monday.

Of the death yesterday of Mrs. Henrietta Farrar, mother of the opera star, he says that he was first informed by newspaper men.

"I have sent no telegram of condolence to my wife," he added.

The honeymoon of the two stars was spent in Los Angeles. Mr. Tellegen will work here during the coming season in a motion picture to be made from Oscar Wilde's "Portrait of Dorian Gray."

WAITED FOR CAR, SEIZED AS THIEF

SUSPECT IS SAID TO HAVE CONFESSED TO MANY BURGLARIES

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, Jan. 24.—When Eddy Shaw came into the police station early this morning to get warm while waiting for a car, he did not leave when the car left, for in the meantime he had been identified as the man who entered a hotel room early Sunday morning and stole $65, according to the police.

Shaw was identified by Night Clerk Beecher of St. Mark's Hotel as the man who entered the room of William Newberry and took $65 from the sleeping man's clothes. The police say that Shaw confessed to a number of burglaries in the bay district, among them the home of Dr. Apts, 112 Strand street, Ocean Park, which was robbed Tuesday night.

According to Detective Watson, Shaw deserted from the U.S.S. Pennsylvania about six weeks ago and is responsible for a number of burglaries in Venice, Ocean Park and Santa Monica.

HOLD FOUR SUSPECTS

Four Arrested at San Diego for Venice Authorities

Suspected of complicity in a hold-up, four young men were arrested at San Diego last night and are being held for the police of Venice, where the hold-up occurred.

The men are Herbert J. Carter, Alvin Webb, Louis Taylor and Jack Hueisch.

They are suspected of having chloroformed Milton Henry on the 17th inst., and robbed him of an automobile, according to the story told the Venice police by Henry.

AUTO RUNS DOWN AGED CHURCHMAN

Monsignor Stockman May Die as Result of Injuries Received

Struck down last night by an automobile, Monsignor P. G. Stockman, 57 years of age, known in church and secular circles of Southern California for the past half century, may die as the result of injuries inourred in the accident.

Monsignor Stockman was crossing the street at the intersection of Western avenue and Thirtieth street, when he was hit by an automobile driven by J. G. Schott, 975 South Hoover street. The injured man was picked up by a private car and rushed to Receiving Hospital, where Dr. Dunsmore diagnosed his injuries as a fractured skull, bruises, cuts, contusions and possible internal injuries. Little hope was held for his recovery, and a police investigation of the accident has been started.

After graduating from Lausanne University, Monsignor Stockman came to the United States from Belgium more than fifty years ago and journeyed to Los Angeles shortly after his arrival. He was ordained as priest here, and some time later went to San Bernardino, where he was in charge of all Catholic churches in that district.

After a number of years in San Bernardino, he went to Santa Barbara. He is a noted theological author, having published several volumes, and is the possessor of a law degree from Lausanne. At one time he was chancellor of this diocese.

He retired from active work about six months ago, and since that time has been chaplain of the Academy of the Immaculate Heart in Hollywood. His home is at 2064 West Thirty-first street.

Officers for State Bakers Are Elected

Delegates to the State Convention of Bakers will meet today in the Angelus Hotel ballroom, to be followed by a banquet and jollification from 6:30 p.m. to midnight at the Elite Dining Hall, 623 South Flower street.

Officers were elected yesterday by the Southern California Wholesale Bakers Association and the Southern California Retail Bakers Association in the headquarters offices, Coulter Building.

The wholesalers elected the following officers: Albert Gordon, president; R. R. Beamish, vice-president; C. P. Brower, treasurer; William Francis Ireland, secretary and chairman; J. A. MacKetchnie, T. J. Van de Kamp, W. H. Eseman, Fred Olson and George Barnes, members of the executive committee.

The retailers' officers are, F. C. Kramer, president; Gus Zillman, vice-president; Charles Schultz, treasurer; William Francis Ireland, secretary; Robert Callender, John Legler, Raymond Keyzer, Henry Walsma and N. Ramseyer, members of the executive committee.

McAdoo Denies He Has Entered President Race

"I have never talked politics at any time."

This was William Gibbs McAdoo's way of denying last night that he had said in New Orleans he would accept the Democratic nomination for President if it is offered to him. In the last few days telegraphic dispatches from the East have accredited Mr. McAdoo with issuing the statement in New Orleans.

Mr. McAdoo arrived in Los Angeles late last night from New York where, as counsel for a group of eastern business interests and local capitalists, he completed a deal which will give this city a motorbus system similar to those of big eastern cities if the City Council sanctions it. He was accompanied by Mrs. McAdoo.

"I'm glad to get back, and now I'm going to stay here," he said with a smile.

Retired Banker of Chicago Dies of Auto Injuries

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Jan. 24.—Theodore F. Bliss, retired Chicago banker, died at Pasadena Hospital tonight from a fractured skull suffered when he was struck by an automobile driven by Henry Gertmenian, 519 Columbia street, South Pasadena.

The accident occurred at the intersection of California street and Los Robles avenue, as Mr. Bliss was crossing the street. Gertmenian was not held by the police.

Mr. Bliss, who was 78 years of age, leaves a widow, who was reported to be prostrated from grief at their home, 630 South Los Robles avenue, and two daughters, who are in the East.

BAD CHECK CHARGES AGAINST SALESMAN

IVAR McMULLEN ASSERTED TO HAVE FLOATED $2000 FALSE PAPER

Charged with having passed worthless checks in Los Angeles in the last three weeks for amounts totaling about $3000, Ivar McMullen, alias John Timmons, was arrested last night by Officer Catlen of the Sheriff's office and detectives from the Burns Agency, in the Delta Building at Fourth and Spring streets.

McMullen is 39 years of age and asserts he is a salesman for a local concern. It is believed by the police that he is wanted in Seattle and possibly other northern cities on similar charges.

SPECIAL SHOW FOR AGED FOLK

Couples Married Fifty Years Admitted Free at Egan Theater Matinee

One of the most unusual theatrical performance ever given in Los Angeles will be a special matinee rendition of "The First Fifty Years," at the Egan Theater tomorrow at 2:15 p.m. There will be no admission charge and the only stipulation is that the guests must have celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

The general invitation is the result of the wishes of the two principal characters in the play, Evelyn Vaughan and William S. Rainey, and it has been heartily concurred in by Mr. Egan and acting manager Lee Parvin.

In anticipation of a filled house Mr. Egan and Mrs. William H. Crane will act as a reception committee to meet all guests at the theater and, invitations have been extended to Frederick Warde famous actor in "The Mission Play," and Former U. S. Senator Cornelius Cole to attend.

As the play itself is calculated to render enjoyment for people who have successfully weathered the years of married bliss to the golden wedding, the Egan theater management is delighted to bring as much joy as possible into the lives of many who perhaps do not get as much of pleasure in later life as in past epochs. The play itself treats of the seven stages in marriage from inception to the golden anniversary and it is perhaps calculated more than anything else to please those who have spent many years in wedded bliss. "The First Fifty Years" is from the pen of Henry Myers a Columbia graduate and its two chief characters, Evelyn Vaughan and William S. Rainey have made of its rendition a classic.

Those in Los Angeles who have celebrated their golden wedding anniversary are due for a genuine treat tomorrow afternoon as the the guests of Egan's Theater. Miss Vaughan and Mr. Rainey will hold a reception for the guests at the conclusion of the performance.

Price Offered by Brother for Killer Bandits

A reward of $1000 for information leading to arrest and conviction of bandits who murdered his brother, Charles, was announced last night by David Weingarten, according to his attorney, John L. Richardson.

Charles Weingarten was killed last Sunday night by bandits in a hold-up at 419 South Spring street.

REMAINING BROLASKI INDICTMENT QUASHED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—On the ground that the ends of justice do not require further prosecution against him, an indictment against which Harry Brolaski, now serving a two-year prison sentence for violating the Volstead Act, pending in the United States District Court, was ordered dismissed today on telegraphic authority from Atty.-Gen. Daugherty in Washington.

A motion asking for the dismissal of the Brolaski indictment, in which Douglas N. Newton was named as a codefendant, formally was presented today before Federal Judge Van Fleet.

The dismissed indictment names Brolaski, Newton, Mrs. Glad E. Warburton, formerly deputy prohibition director for California; John P. Sullivan, J. L. Ramsner and William M. Dean as consnirators in a plot to defeat the prohibition law. The indictment against all of those except Brolaski and Newton will stand, according to U. S. Atty. Williams.

HUSBAND IS LOST

Mrs. Charles E. Jennings, 707 Wilson avenue, Salt Lake City, wants to know where her husband is. He came to Los Angeles three months ago, and she has had no word from him in five weeks. At that time he was ill. Anyone knowing his whereabouts is requested to communicate with Mrs. Jennings.

MOTORIST ROBBED

While driving late yesterday afternoon on an unfrequented part of Angeles Mesa, Orie C. Hester, 261 Newland street and Miss Allene Carson, 1001 Westlake avenue, were held up by two bandits. Hester was robbed of $20 in currency and his watch while Miss Carson lost a diamond ring.

Dont' Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once. Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, it does the work without the blister.

Just rub it on with your fingertips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

35c and 65c, in jars and tubes.

A New Series by
EMILE COUE
"THE MIRACLE MAN OF FRANCE"

[Copyright, 1923, United States, Great Britain, Canada and South America, by North American Newspaper Alliance and New York World (Press Publishing Company.) All rights reserved. Unlicensed reproduction in full or in part expressly prohibited.]

ARTICLE II

I am trying to collect my thoughts and a host of impressions that are tumbling over each other in hopeless disorder; and I am thinking how much easier it would be to write of my American trip when it is over, and when my undisciplined and perhaps contradictory ideas have had time to settle down and classify themselves in that automatic way which Nature, or our subconscious mind, follows to perfection. But I am caught in the whirl and hustle of American life, and must hasten to feed the printer with these possibly disjointed notes.

After all, it is not so hard for one accustomed to feel and obey the influence of suggestion whenever the latter does not clash with his conscious convictions. And what a stupendous force is this collective or accumulated mass of suggestion which one feels vibrating in this high-strung City of New York! I have been here but a few days, yet I have already seen and marvelled at this caldron of energy and labor and seething activities. Time and space scarcely seem to limit them.

SCOPE IS IMPRESSIVE

Had I time to muse and meditate I could probably, following naturally my own particular trend of thought, trace it all to the effect of evergrowing masses of suggestion emanating from successive generations of vigorous-minded ancestors who helped build the mighty American nation. One of the features that strike me is the universality of the scope of American activity. Restlessly, insatiably it explores every sphere: mechanical, scientific, artistic, intellectual. I pick up the newspapers, and I find pages of advertisements announcing lectures on every conceivable subject. Obviously they draw large audiences, or they would not be so numerous. There is nothing like it in my county or, indeed, any other European country. Even the churches advertise sermons or lectures by leaders of religious thought on subjects which a stranger would deem outside the sphere of any church. For instance, I see that there is to be a pulpit address about myself and autosuggestion on Sunday next. All this denotes an eagerness to attain unscaled heights of culture and knowledge which is somewhat disconcerting when compared with the undeniable evidences of rank materialism visible all around us.

Reflecting on this contradiction, it seems to me that New York's gigantic skyscrapers, with their feet deep dug in the earth and their heads in the heavens, are a vivid symbol of the spirit of America.

BEAUTY IN SKYSCRAPERS

There is beauty, and even spirituality, to be found by the thinking man in many of those monster edifices, although the severity and ugliness of other facades shock the eye of the European visitor. But I cannot help thinking of the princes of intellect and vitality who direct the huge organisations of industry whose tentacles stretch to every corner of the globe. They and their forbears have written the history of America. As an apostle of suggestion and autosuggestion I realize the immense influence they have had and will continue to have in shaping the destinies of their contemporaries. Unconsciously, perhaps, the latter, in incalculable numbers, respond to their suggestion, and imitate them with varying degrees of success. Indeed, I consider that present-day America is an amazing, living example of the force of suggestion. Every American is stimulated by the irresistible current of energy generated by the nation's master-minds. And no one can fix the limits to which their creative force will carry them. We French have an expression "to arrive," meaning to reach success. I think no American ought to fail to "arrive," for not only does he inherit ideas of energy and labor which people his subconscious mind, but he is also subjected to a formidable bombardment of good suggestions from his very infancy. He knows he is going to succeed, and will let no obstacle check his march forward.

Altogether, what I have seen so far of America convinces me that Americans have practiced autosuggestion to a certain extent for a long time past. Borne on that national current of energy of which I have spoken, each individual automatically seeks to wrest the maximum of what life has to offer. Doubt of his own powers is unknown to him (of course, I am speaking of the average man; there must naturally be a number of weaklings in every nation.) He shares and at the same time feeds the dynamic force and radio activity which drives the whole nation in the pursuit of progress.

GOBLETS OF PAPER

The other day I called on a friend who was staying in one of the biggest hotels in New York, may, in the world. While waiting in the hall I made a most interesting discovery. I saw a man put his hand into an aperture in the wall beside one of the comfortable armchairs, turn a sort of pipe, and take from it a little white goblet which he filled at the drinking water fountain adjoining. After he had drunk, to my astonishment, he casually threw the goblet into another hole in the wall. Then I inquired and was told that it was a cardboard goblet, and that this automatic system is quite common. Well, I have never seen anything of the like, and I think it a very wonderful illustration of American progress and love of thoroughness in everything. Above all, I admired the lesson of hygiene. Splendid as such a system appears as a convenience to visitors in the hotel, how much more valuable is the influence it must carry, by suggestion, to the minds of all who use it. The notions of hygiene are necessarily spread with a thousand times more effect than by means of the most eloquently expressed pamphlets or even lectures.

INTERESTED IN FILMS

I suppose I shall find things to criticize, nevertheless, during my stay in America, though I confess that so far I see little which I cannot admire. I may, perhaps, talk of motion pictures one day at greater length. But I want to say right now that in the cinema a new art has been born in America. Paris and London are left far behind by the masters of the mise-en-scène here.

There is just one thing, however, that causes me regret. It is to see in the streets too many people—men, women and children—wearing glasses. Maybe it is due to a proper care for sight. But, until I am given a better explanation, I am inclined to attribute it to the strain of reading some newspapers. It seems to me, indeed, that the terribly small print in the papers, so unnecessary, one would think in such leviathan productions, must use up the best and most perfect eyesight with deplorable rapidity. Curiously enough I have not yet been asked to aid anyone with faulty sight. Reason makes me believe that one day a strong newspaper editor or owner will work a revolution and make American newspapers readable—in a sense other than the one which at present they attribute to the word.

(The next article by Prof. Coue will appear in The Times of Sunday, Jan. 28.)

For Coughs and Colds

"I want to say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been used in my family on occasion, without numbers, for coughs and colds and has given the best satisfaction of any cough medicine we ever tried," writes Mrs. C. Metzger, Greenville, Ill. You will look a long while before you find a better remedy for coughs and colds or one that is more safe and pleasant to take.—[Advertisement.

1468 Gland Tests Made by Physician

Proving again the efficacy of glandular treatment, the head physician of one of California's State Institutions has announced that 90% of over 1000 patients received unusual and sometimes marvelous benefits through the stimulation of the vital glands. Not only have patients experienced a rejuvenation of mental and physical powers, but chronic ailments have disappeared bringing about a general betterment of health.

Hundreds of men and women are now turning to glandular treatment to help regain lost strength, vigor, vitality and health. Since Science has prepared a gland compound in convenient, compact tablet form—Glandogen—it is a simple matter to take glandular treatment. Glandogen is a scientifically prepared laboratory tested gland compound, combining the extracts of vital glands of healthy, young animals with other efficacious ingredients. It is obtainable at Henderson-Chambers Drug Co., 3rd and Main; Blaney-Chambers Drug Co., 9th and Spring and 5th and Los Angeles; and the Chambers Drug Co., First and Broadway.—[Advertisement.

Una Empresa de la Costa del Oeste Compra Cuarenta Teatros

A Los Angeles le ha correspondido el honor de que aquí se instale la sede social de la mayor serie de teatros en el mundo, destinados a cines. "Los Teatros de la Costa Occidental, S. A." anuncia que ha comprado todo el circuito Turner & Dannken, en el Estado de California. La operación significa muchos millones de dólares, y una gran victoria para la industria de las películas en el Oeste. Las personas interesadas no han querido mencionar ninguna cifra determinada, pero se sabe que la transacción monta a más de $5,000,000.

Michael Gore, Sol Lesser y A. L. Gore, presidente, vicepresidente y secretario, respectivamente de "Los Teatros de la Costa del Oeste, S. A.," estuvieron varios días en San Francisco conferenciando con los directores de la cadena de teatros Turner & Dannken. Ayer se recibió un telefonema de Sol Lesser, informando de que se había cerrado un trato, por el cual la mencionada compañía de la costa del oeste quedará en posesión de todos los teatros de Turner & Dannken.

La Secretaría de Marina Aprueba el Plan de Rodman

Por telegramas recibidos ayer por el Diputado Osborne y el Concejal Langdon, procedentes del Ministro de Marina, se ha sabido que este alto funcionario aprobó las recomendaciones del Consejo Rodman sobre estaciones costeras, en favor del traslado, del puerto de Los Angeles al de San Diego, de la base de submarinos. Los telegramas del Ministro fueron en respuesta a los del Concejal Langdon, Presidente de la Comisión del Puerto, de este Ayuntamiento, y del Diputado Osborne. En los mensajes de estos dos señores se formulaba ante Washington una protesta por la remoción de la base submarina, y se hacía ver que Los Angeles ha dado durante años, y sigue dando, valioso espacio en su puerto para una base submarina temporal, con la esperanza de que se estableciera aquí la base permanente en un espacio de 146 acres, ya separado por la ciudad con ese objeto. El Ministro Denby, sin embargo, decidió el cambio a San Diego, y atentamente expone a los caballeros citados las razones que para ello tuvo el gobierno.

Italianos Rechazados por Agentes Federales

En un raid a la casa de Joseph D'Aiuto, Calle Lama, 541, llevado a cabo por Agentes Prohibicionistas Federales, éstos, en número de cuatro, tuvieron que rechazar a una furiosa turba de italianos que se amotinó contra ellos ayer tarde. Una mujer fué lastimada por uno de los agentes, y esto acarreó un conflicto entre los gendarmes de la ciudad, que acudieron a una alarm de motín, y el Agente Prohibicionista C. H. Wheeler, a quien la mujer acusa de golpes. D'Aiuto fué aprehendido por los Agentes Federales, quienes le ocuparon licor y dos alquitaras.

ENGINEERS' UNION TO START OTHER BANKS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 24. — The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which Monday purchased a large interest in the Empire Trust Company, today announced that within a week it would apply for a charter for a bank in New York City, to be owned exclusively by the labor union, with branches located throughout the metropolis.

Purchase of the Empire Trust Company stock accompanied by the election to its directorate of two of the brotherhood's high officials "in no way interferes with our plan of opening several banks in the city of New York," Warren S. Stone, president of the union, announced. He, with William B. Prenter, are the new directors of the Empire Trust.

SANTA MONICA

AMERICA'S HOTEL SPOT DELUXE

Santa Monica is at the apex of civilization. Los Angeles will continue to develop rapidly until it becomes the world's greatest city. Natural resources, location and climatic conditions compel it. Agriculture, mineral production, art, industry, trade, commerce and climate will continue to draw an ever increasing flood of cosmopolitan humanity to Southern California.

The cream, the higher and finer elements of this great thought and activity, will rise toward Santa Monica. Convenience to all things, ocean, mountains and city, comfort, beauty, inspiration, recreation and equable climate, will draw it.

Here on the front edge of this great city there is very little left to be desired of nature or in convenience to metropolitan advantages.

With the mounting needs of the metropolis and the demands of the hundreds of thousands of guests—divided equally between winter and summer—one of Santa Monica's first and very great needs is hotels. We need beach hotels, tourist hotels, hotels for retreat and for permanent residents.

We present below a unique idea for a hotel that will serve all of the last three classes. It gives you everything you want when you want it with nothing to think or bother about at any time in order to have it. It gives the privacy and seclusion of a private home and retreat and enables you to be in the midst of social life in a moment. if you choose. You have all that a private home can give you with none of its cares or burdens—a private home with complete service of every kind. Or, if you wish, you may have rooms in the main building. There is also a club for men where they may either have rooms or go in retreat. There is a unique separate tea room. There is a pipe organ from which music may be thrown into the theater or out over the beautiful grounds.

All buildings look out upon the ocean, mountains, canyons, palisades, crescent coast and that divine masterpiece painted anew every evening in the western sky.

It is only forty-five minutes from Broadway over what is now planned to be made into the finest boulevard in the world—Wilshire developed into "Archway."

We need big thinkers, big seers, big doers. We need men and women who can take an idea like this and make it a fact.

ENTIRE COUNCIL FACING RECALL

Covina Awaiting Result of Bitter Election

City Clerk's Fate Hangs on Ballot Result

Press and Public Divided on Issues

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

COVINA, Jan. 24.—A municipal election involving questions of Democrat and Republican, wet and dry, church and antichurch, Ku Klux and anti-Ku Klux, and calling into the argument local lodges of fraternal organizations, is the one absorbing topic in Covina tonight. Tomorrow the voters will be asked to decide the question of the recall of the entire City Council. The result of the election will also determine whether the present City Clerk will retain office, in the event of which it is almost certain that Robert Crenshaw, who was discharged from the office of city marshal, will be given back his place.

DRAFT EVASION CHARGES

An angle of the fight that is arousing much interest is the statement of Dailey S. Stafford, City Clerk, that if he is not recalled he will become a candidate for City Attorney. If this should happen he would oppose Tom Reed, one of the most popular young men of the city, and bring into the fight charges of draft evasion hurled during the last general election.

The trouble started several months ago when it was charged before the Council that the marshal was friendly to bootleggers. He was dismissed. Almost immediately the City Clerk attempted his defense and circulated a petition to which many signatures were attached asking for the marshal's reinstatement. The reinstatement being refused, the Clerk and his friends brought on the recall.

The present City Council, which is defending its actions and asking for a vote of confidence, includes Glen C. Harnish, Asbury H. Longworth, Smith Budd and Jacob F. Overholtzer. They are being opposed in the recall election by Jacob Bashor, John Coolman, Joseph F. Laycock, James Smith, D. W. Swarts, Michael Rebham and D. A. Smith.

The local newspapers were both favorable to the Councilmen when the fight first started, but in recent weeks one of them has been called to the support of the men favoring the recall, which has added fuel to the fire.

One of the largest votes in the city's history is expected tomorrow and it is said the election can settle only in part the many questions involved.

Editor Expected to be Appointed to Tulare Post

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VISALIA, Jan. 24.—Appointment of a successor to the late Levi W. Bardsley of Tulare, Supervisor for the second Tulare county district, who died Sunday night after a long illness, rests with Gov. Richardson, according to reports here. No intimation has been given officially as to who might be advanced for the post, although it has been unofficially intimated that H. A. Charters, editor of the Tulare Register, might receive the seat and he is reported to be close to the Governor. No expression from Mr. Charters has been heard. The district includes Farmersville and Exeter, which are expected to name a representative. The office carries a salary of $125 per month with expense of $80. An increase sanctioned by the Legislature cannot become operative for two years.

MURDER DEFENSE TALE HIT

Witness Denies Negro Was Attacked Prior to Shooting at San Bernardino

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 24.—From T. L. Williams, one of the four men whom Timothy Wiley, a negro, vows attacked him before he killed W. V. Paschal on the streets last August, came a story of the slaying today.

Testifying for the State Williams said the negro, employed in the Santa Fe stockade commissary during the strike, turned and fired into a group of strikers while they were peacefully walking on the city's principal avenue. Not a word nor a threat was spoken by the strikers, Williams said.

Williams denied on cross-examination that Cyril Stirns, one of the strikers wounded in the row, fired at the negro. He likewise denied that the strikers were following the negro to beat him because he was working in the railway shops.

Superior Judge J. W. Curtis's courtroom was crowded to standing room throughout the day and scores of men thronged the corridors in the Courthouse awaiting an opportunity to get into the courtroom.

The jury was selected just before the noon recess. It includes J. Solo of Upland, H. S. White of Chino, A. P. Moreman of Upland, E. J. Lenhart of Upland, John McQueen of Ontario, R. L. Silcox of Upland, L. M. Lukehart of Chino, A. Perry of Ontario, O. N. Steel of Ontario, Isaac Weed of Ontario, A. H. Hayden of Ontario, B. F. Hoagg of Chino.

The slaying of Paschal by the negro was one of the sensational incidents of the walkout of railway shop men and the turbulent days that followed last summer.

AUTOS SKID, ONE IS HURT IN COLLISION

Woman Thrown to Pavement May Die; Six Others Have Narrow Escape

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, Jan. 24.—One woman was hurt seriously and six others narrowly escaped injury when two motor cars collided this afternoon at Euclid avenue and E street, as a result of skidding on rain-soaked pavement.

Mrs. Samuel Jones of Azusa, is the injured woman. She is suffering from a broken collarbone and a fractured right shoulder, received when she was hurled to the pavement from an automobile driven by her husband. The car turned turtle after colliding with a machine driven by Mrs. Ell Weaver of I street and Campus avenue and occupied by four women.

Mr. Jones was driving south on the west driveway of Euclid avenue and apparently failed to observe the Weaver car moving west on E street. He then applied brakes, but his car skidded, hit the other auto broadside and turned over. Mrs. Jones was taken to the office of Dr. G. Ben Henke, 317 North Euclid avenue, and later was removed to her home.

Both machines were badly damaged, but occupants of the Weaver car escaped with a severe shaking up.

Baby is Thrown Out With Trash and Incinerated

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Jan. 24. — The charred body of an infant burned beyond possibility of recognition was found at San Juan Capistrano and county officials are puzzled as this is the second similar instance within three weeks. Upon investigation it was learned the infant had been thrown into the waste paper basket in the women's rest room at a garage and carried out with the trash and burned last night. When the fire was out the half burned body was discovered and authorities were notified. Garage employees were unable to furnish any information.

FAMOUS RANCH ON OTAY LAKE IS SOLD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 24. — The Rancho Janal, a tract of 3200 acres adjoining upper Otay Lake, has been sold by W. E. Gird to R. E. Harrison, a real estate broker, acting in the interests of a group of Los Angeles and San Francisco men, it was ascertained today, when transfer papers were put through the usual legal formalities. The consideration is said to be in the neighborhood of $150,000.

The property adjoins the big tract recently acquired by the General Petroleum Company, and a short distance to the north oil drilling operations are under way.

Rancho Janal is an old Spanish grant, having been the property of the Estudillo family, one of the prominent families of early California history. In pioneer days thousands of sheep and cattle grazed on this ranch and adjoining territory, but a good many years ago the late E. S. Babcock became the owner and turned this acreage into a grain belt which produced large quantities of wheat and barley. The soil always has been noted for its richness and productiveness. Babcock built a beautiful hunting lodge adjoining the upper Otay Lake, where in years past he entertained some of America's biggest financiers as well as titled foreigners of international fame at duck and quail shooting.

YOUTH ATTEMPTING SUICIDE RECOVERING

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Jan. 24. — Earl House, 23 years of age, who tried to commit suicide, is thought on the road to recovery, according to hospital reports today. Young House entered a drug store in Anaheim last night and bought some chloroform on a pretense of using it to clean his clothes, went into an alley and drank the contents of the bottle. He was rushed to a hospital, where antidotes were used. He refuses to talk and no motive was assigned for the act. He has a sister in Long Beach.

ASSERTED BIGAMIST HELD

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Jan. 24.—Alenogenes Hernandez today was bound over to the Superior Court by Justice of the Peace U. E. Whit on a charge of bigamy and is being held in jail in default of $2000 bail. Hernandez was arrested last week after it was discovered that he had recently married another woman, although he was married to one wife and is the father of five children from his first wife. His first wife swore to the complaint.

San Fernando Garden Truck Shipment Heavy

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN FERNANDO, Jan. 24.—Figures for 1922 shipments of fruit and vegetables from San Fernando show that 1695 carloads went forward as follows: Lemons, 541 cars, oranges, 314; potatoes, 306; lettuce, 268; cabbage, ninety-four; beans, ninety-eight; cauliflower, forty-four; grapes, seventeen; miscellaneous garden truck, thirteen. These figures to not include numerous auto truck loads or of sales mide direct.

While figures are not available from other sections of the valley, it is estimated that Van Nuys, Lankershim and Owensmouth sections far exceeded the amount shipped from San Fernando. Bean shipments from Owensmouth were extremely heavy, while apricot and peach shipments from Van Nuys and Lankershim districts made up a big total.

It has been definitely determined that thus far no damage has been done fruit crops for next year by frost, although the unusually mild and even warm weather has forced budding of the trees. Pruning is being done on a more extensive scale than ever before and it is said the crops this year will equal or exceed those of 1922.

Youth Accused by Girls' Father Is Locked Up

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, Jan 24.—Paul Hale, 18-year-old Cucamonga district youth, charged with contributing to the delinquency of Pearl and Ethel Rush, Ontario schoolgirls and daughters of Harry Rush, 429 East Mailand street, was ordered to the County Jail to await preliminary hearing when he was unable to produce $500 bail fixed by Judge George R. Holbrook at his arraignment in the police court this afternoon.

Hale and the two girls were returned here today from San Diego, where they were arrested several days ago, by Chief of Police W. O. Hardy and Officers M. J. Rushen and Scott Webber, who went down for them. The arrest of a second local youth who is said to have accompanied the trio to the southern city is expected. The girls were sent to the county detention home. Hale was arrested on complaint of the girls' father.

VETERAN MASON OF REDLANDS IS DEAD

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Jan. 24.—Samuel S. Waldo, 90 years of age, second oldest Mason in the city died at the home of his daughter Mrs. C. R. Lee this morning of heart disease. He had been confined to his bed for about a month. Mr. Waldo was born in Vermont in 1833 and came to Redlands twenty-seven years ago. Mrs. Waldo died here seven years ago. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. C. R. Lee of this city and Mrs. C. M. Cook of Long Beach, and a son, B. A. Waldo of Seattle.

HURRY HIGHWAY WORK OUT OF THREE RIVERS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

THREE RIVERS, Jan. 24.—From the end of the concrete at Three Rivers work is rapidly progressing on the State highway to the Sequoia National Park line and it is expected that by spring the entire road may be used. Concrete, however, will not be laid until the roadbed has had time to settle.

A concrete bridge over Middle Fork near power-house No. 3 is half finished. Work has been started on another on Salt Creek.

ARCADIA PLANS OIL CAMPAIGN

Citizens at Meeting Decide to Develop Fields

Tract of 900 Acres Said to be Able to Produce

Project Will be Pushed as Community Affair

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ARCADIA, Jan. 24.—Determination to develop the possibilities of what experts say will be a highly profitable oil field in the vicinity of Arcadia was the result of a largely attended massmeeting here tonight.

More than five hundred citizens, all of whom are property owners, attended a meeting at the City Hall and listened to the report of C. H. Wilhelm, mineralogist employed by a citizens' committee who recently made a survey of approximately 900 acres which is supposed to constitute what is to be a producing oil field.

After the report had been read and discussed at length it was decided to form a holding company, to canvass the territory for leases and then submit the proposition to one of the larger oil companies in an endeavor to have them develop the field.

C. L. Durbin, local banker, was named as head of the committee to proceed with the preliminary work. He will have associated with him C. O. Cannon, H. Vosburg, Charles Pearson and William Taylor.

Interest in oil production in this territory was first excited by continued reports of oil and oil producing sand being found in water wells. A meeting of citizens was called and a fund raised which was used to have a survey made.

While there is a great interest manifested in the possibility of finding oil in new territory there is nothing of the boom condition usually accompanying probable oil development. Owners of property in the vicinity have grouped together and it is probable that whatever kind of a proposition is made to one company for taking over the property will be made to all. It is the intention to make of the find a general help to the community rather than a personal benefit to a few

BIT OF SOAP AS MIGHTY AS A MOB

Riot Call and Downfall of Long Beach Citizens Laid to Cleanser Salesman

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Jan. 24. — A cake of soap sent every ambulance in Long Beach clanging through the streets last night. It was blamed for the riot call which dispatched the police force to the scene of a reported disaster. It was blamed for the downfall of a score of this city's best citizens.

It happened thus:

The cake of soap was clutched in the upraised palm of a wandering soap agent. The agent was crying out his wares in vociferous tones. He was standing on a frail platform which he had erected over an excavation, eight feet deep. Around him, on the platform, were grouped a number of persons.

He emphasized the merits of the cake of soap by jumping on the platform. The platform quivered, squeaked and crumpled to the bottom of the hole in the ground. The score of onlookers fell with it, piling up in a tangled heap in the depths.

All the ambulances in Long Beach were called. But the fallen ones were dragged back to safety before their arrival.

Casualties: Two missing and one injured.

The injured: E. Gillenwater, 1051 Gladys avenue, whose right eyelid was pierced by a nail.

The missing: The salesman and the cake of soap.

MRS. PAUL IS VICTIM OF STROKE

Upland Pioneer Dies in Home Following Attack of Paralysis Monday

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

UPLAND, Jan. 24.—Mrs. Frances Paul, 72 years of age, widow of Col. James L. Paul, wealthy Upland pioneer, who suffered a stroke of paralysis Monday evening, died shortly before noon today at her home on Euclid avenue.

Mrs. Paul had planned to dine Monday evening with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Paul. She was dressed and waiting for the arrival of a car to take her to her son's house when overtaken by the stroke. She was found in an unconscious condition by her son, who called for her. She remained unconscious until she end.

Mrs. Paul had made her home here for thirty-six years. She was prominent in society, church and philanthropic circles. She recently was elected president of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian Church for the twenty-first consecutive year. About a year ago she donated $75,000 toward the establishment of the San Antonio Community Hospital, ground for which is shortly to be broken in East Tenth street.

Col. Paul died here April 5, 1911. He was president of the Commercial National Bank at the time of his death. Besides her son, Mrs. Paul leaves one daughter, Mrs. Edward C. Harwood, and several grandchildren. Funeral services which are in charge of the J. B. Draper company, are to be conducted from the First Presbyterian Church Friday at 2:30 p.m., with Rev. R. C. Stone officiating. Interment is to be in Bellevue Cemetery, Ontario.

"Gun Toter," Said To Have Told How Mean He Was, Surrenders

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENTURA, Jan. 24.—J. H. Graves, Simi's asserted bad man, packed a gun and used to tell what he would do if an officer ever laid hands on him, according to Simi residents. But when Undersheriff Walker and Deputy Clements caught Graves selling bootleg whisky late last night and ordered him to throw up his hands, he lost no time in doing so. He is now in the County Jail and the Sheriff's office has his automatic.

SPORTSMEN FORCED TO DROP CLUB

Unique Organization is Abandoned at Alhambra; Lease Expires

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ALHAMBRA, Jan. 24. — With the announcement today that the Los Cazadores Club has been disbanded, the final chapter has been written on the records of one of the most unusual and notable organizations in the south.

The club was formed in 1914 by R. G. Field, who was the first president, and other ardent sportsmen who desired a meeting place for hunters, fishermen and other lovers of outdoor sports, where yarns could be exchanged and plans for excursions made.

It was a success from the outset and drew to its membership the leading business and professional men of the city. The name Los Cazadores, meaning "The Hunters," was adopted, and thousands of dollars were spent in furnishing the clubrooms. Trophies of the chase adorned the walls, and nearly every tribe and race in the world contributed toward the equipment.

The monthly dinners of the club became a part of the community life, famous for the cuisine and for the good fellowship which reigned. Noted speakers discussed the vital questions of the day at these gatherings.

With the expiration of the lease on the clubrooms, it was found impossible to obtain suitable quarters elsewhere, and although a committee has been working for the past several weeks to find another location, its efforts were fruitless, and the decision to adjourn "sine die" was made.

The last official act of the club was to give all the movable furnishings of the rooms to the local American Legion post, and to donate the funds in the club treasury to the Alhambra auxiliary of the Los Angeles Children's Hospital.

Supervisors of Kern County Are Sued for Auto

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 24.—Suit for $2435 against the Kern County Supervisors has been filed here in the Superior Court by George Haberfelde, Inc., asserting the amount is due on an automobile purchased by Supervisor Stanley Abel.

The Kern County Taxpayers' Association objected to the payment of the warrant for the car, saying the machine was purchased for Abel's personal use and that it was too expensive for the county to buy. According to the complaint, the county purchased the car Sept. 14, 1922, and turned over as first payment a used Chandler for $700, leaving a balance of $2435 due.

Since that time, the complainant declares, the car has been in the use of the county, while vouchers and other documents issued by the County Auditor for payment on the machine, when presented to the Board of Supervisors, have been rejected. The Supervisors still refuse to allow payment for the car.

The garage company has retained Erwin W. Owen as attorney. Before its conclusion the suit is expected to develop into one of the hottest and longest legal battles ever witnessed in a Kern county court.

MONROVIA, Jan. 24.—An attempt to get away with $20,000 in Liberty bonds failed and Kenneth G. Smith, formerly of Denver, whose clever scheme was planned to net him a handsome fortune, is in the Monrovia jail charged with burglary. He will doubtless face Federal charges for having used the mails in an attempt to defraud, local officers declare.

Smith was arrested this afternoon by Constable J. L. Quiggle and City Marshal E. A. Bovee in front of the Monrovia postoffice. The man had just signed the name of J. M. Bruckner to the postoffice registry and had received what he thought was a package containing $20,000 in Liberty bonds.

As he left the office he was stopped by the officers. Smith confessed so officers say that on December 16 or 17, he stole a watch and pocket-book from the clothing of a man at the Redndo Beach bathhouse. In the pocketbook he came across a certificate of deposit showing that a Mr. J. M. Burckner had $20,000 worth of Liberty bonds in the First National Bank of St. Paris, Ohio.

After some deliberation, Smith wrote to the bank enclosing the deposit certificate to which he had forged Bruncknер's name with the request that the bankers send him the bonds by express to Monrovia, Cal. In the meantime Bruckner had advised his bankers that his certificate of deposit had been stolen and warned them against anyone presenting it.

When the bank received Smith's request for the securities communication was at once established between the bank and Sheriff Traeger of Los Angeles county with the result that the bank president was advised to mail a decoy package to Smith under a registered number. Smith who makes his home in Monrovia, having come here several months ago, this morning received official notice that a registered package awaited him at the local postoffice and this afternoon called for it, signed Bruckner's name to the registry and was given the parcel. He was arrested before he had gotten out of the postoffice lobby.

SUSPECT TAKEN IN LONG CHASE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 24.—Believed to be the ringleader of a band which smuggles Chinese into this country from Mexican, James Kurtz, 30 years of age of San Diego, was arrested tonight by a posse that chased him for forty-six miles.

Two automobiles believed to contain Chinese are hidden in the hills, the police declare, and a thorough search of the back-country is being made for them.

Kurtz was captured at Temecula, forty-six miles southwest of Riverside, when his powerful automobile became mired in a mudhole. Police declare he was the scout for the two cars of contraband Chinese. Undersheriff Sweester overtook him at a Box Springs grade as Krutz was traveling north, and Kurtz turned his car and started south again at a high rate of speed. His expensive machine outdistanced the official car, and would have lost it but for the mudhole.

Sheriff Sam Ryan, a squad of deputies and immigration officials, with a posse totaling seventy-five officers, waited all day for the three cars, having been advised of their route. After Kurtz's capture, the posse centered its activities in searching the hills back of Moreno, where it is believed the Chinese are in hiding.

Golf Champion Tells How He Turned Trick

Rancho Club Golf Pro.

Yesterday afternoon as Abe Espinoza and I came to the seventeenth tee we were told that Jock Hutchison had finished with 292. This meant that I would have to play the next two holes in one under par to win. I had not been putting particularly well and I was worried. I played well on the seventeenth green and sank a two. On the eighteenth I was down in two putts and the championship was mine.

Then my caddie came up and told me how it happened that my putting touch came back to me. His name is Louie Acosta, he caddies at Flintridge and you can ask him to verify this. He had a rabbit's foot in his pocket. Before giving me the putter on the seventeenth green he rubbed this rabbit foot on the face of the club. He repeated the procedure on eighteen. If you believe in superstition there is the reason I won yesterday. Superstition or no superstition I had a wonderfully good caddie and he did more than his share to help me win.

The Daddy of All Polo Players

Hugh Drury of Del Monte

When it comes to age, Hugh isn't telling anybody anything, but the old boy is still knocking 'em dead when he wraps his legs around a frisky young steed and sets out in pursuit of the pill. Drury is rated as about the strongest player on the Coast and will be here this week to play with Del Monte against Midwick tomorrow and Sunday.

VINCENT STILL CHAMPION

Wonder Boy of U.S.S. Arizona Defeats Macgowan With Mitts—Hector Grabs Middle Title

The Navy took off its hat to Billy Vincent last night. The wonder boy from the U.S.S. Arizona took the welterweight belt of the United States Battle Fleet from Terry Macgowan in a seven-round battle that turned the 3000 sailormen from the superdreadnaught California into a howling, squirming mob. It was by a wide margin the best scrap of the battle fleet finals. Grizzled old Navy men who were out at Manila with Dewey agreed with yelling young gobs who wore their first Navy haircut that it was the best bout the Navy had seen.

Billy Vincent won his fight in the last round. After Macgowan had come within an inch of retaining his title with several of the long lefts to the body that make him the best scrapper in the destroyer force, Vincent knocked down Terry with a right uppercut at the opening of the third round. It was the blow that opened up four rounds of the purest hammer-and-tongs stuff ever seen in Navy circles.

BIG SURPRISE

Mike Hector of the U.S.S. Melville was the big surprise of the show, stopping Rogge, U.S.S. Tennessee, and annexing the fleet middleweight belt by superior ability and head work. It was Hector's first appearance in a championship event, but his foot work and lightning punches stamp him as a real boxer.

Joe Fischer, the U.S.S. New Mexico's idol and the man who has held the all-Navy lightweight title for seven successive years, is still the Navy's best. He checkmated every one of Frank Renner's long-range attempts to draw him out and in the last two rounds punished the destroyer forces, entry unmercifully. It was Fischer's last fight.

In the curtain-raiser, Joe Stiers, of the U.S.S. Pennsylvania, took the bantamweight championship with ease from Eddie Sargent, of the air squadrons. The light heavyweight belt will stay with the dreadnaught force year, Frye, of the Idaho, whipping Shanks, of the destroyers, in six rounds of hard slugging. Jimmy Hackley, the flagship Procyon's featherweight champion, was awarded the fleet belt in his class by default, Lucas, air squadrons, being over weight, while Ted Schneider, U. S. S. Mississippi, won the heavyweight title and Elino Rautita, of the same ship, the flyweight belt in the same fashion.

FAST MATCH

In the wrestling eevnts, the one fast match was between "Chubby" Brundage, of the U. S. S. Mississippi, and Wilbur Kendall, air squardons, for the welter title. Brundage won with a three-quarters Nelson in six and a half minutes.

Other wrestling results were: Campbell, middleweigh; U. S. S. New York, won from Grazier, air squardons, Mulliken, U. S. S. California retained the heavyweight belt.

The light-heavyweight championship went to Mulliken and the lightweight to Lawing, air squadron, by default. During the card it was announced that the basketball squad from the U. S. S. Mississippi had won the battle fleet title by defeating the destroyer squadrons 46 to 31 at San Diego.

DEL MONTE POLOISTS DUE TODAY

Northern Quartet Faces Midwick Four Tomorrow and Sunday

The next polo games on the local schedule are set for tomorrow and Sunday afternoons, on the grounds of the Midwick Country Club. These matches will be between teams representing Midwick and Del Monte.

The ponies of the Del Monte team arrived at the club stables yesterday, coming direct from San Mateo, where they engaged in a successful match last week against the San Mateo team. The Del Monte polo squad will arrive in town today. Among them will be Harry C. Hunt, who is well known to California polo followers as one of the dashing forward players of the game and who has played at the No. 1 position for several seasons with the Del Monte team. Hunt, as well as Richard Schwerin and William W. Crocker, who are also on the Del Monte squad, are all three prominent San Franciscans who devote considerable time to polo at Del Monte. Eric Pedley and Hugh Drury, the other two members of the squad, both reside at Del Monte. Pedley started his polo career at an early age under the guidance of his father, who was one of the original members of the Riverside Polo Club, where polo was first played in California some forty years ago. Pedley is regarded as one of the most polished mallet men in the game today. Hugh Drury has a universal reputation as a polo player of distinct class, having received his polo experience in England, Ireland, India and in this country for the last fifteen years. Drury is not only a past master in the strategy of the game, but is a finished mallet man and a daring horseman.

The Del Monte team is excellently mounted on ponies which possess some of the finest blood from the Northern California stock farms. These ponies have been played and schooled all through the summer months at Del Monte and they, as well as the players, should be in fine condition and practice for the winter season.

Definite announcement will be made later of the line-ups for tomorrow's and Sunday's games.

The excellent attendance and the interest shown by the public in last Suday's game at Midwick indicate that there will be a much larger turnout at polo this year than ever before.

ILLINOIS DECLINES BRUINS' INVITATION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BERKELEY, Jan. 24. — The University of Illinois track and field team declined today an invitation to a meet with the University of California here in April. The faculty of the Illinois school, the message said, does not approve of such a long trip.

Upon refusal of Illinois, the local authorities received a challenge from the University of Nebraska for a field and cinder meet in April. California is considering the offer.

OXY ARRANGES GRID SCHEDULE

Coach Joe Pipal burst into the calcium last night with the announcement of the 1923 Occidental College football schedule. The Tigers this year have substituted Stanford University for U. S. C. on their schedule and will probably dedicate the new Stadium at Exposition Park with the game. Following is the complete schedule:

Oct. 6—San Diego Teachers at San Diego.
Oct. 13—Redlands at Occidental.
Oct. 20—Stanford at L. A. Stadium.
Oct. 27—No game.
Nov. 3—Whittier at Whittier.
Nov. 10—Caltech at Occidental.
Nov. 17—S.B.U.C. at Occidental.
Nov. 24—Pomona at Pomona.

MERCURY SWIM GREAT SUCCESS

Big Crowd Watches L.A.A.C. Waterdogs Clean Up

Mary Wheeler Takes a Win in Backstroke Event

Colin Smith Grabs Speedy 100-Yard Dash Race

The 1923 Southern California aquatic season opened with a bang in the Los Angeles Athletic Club tank last night with the Mercury Club grabbing the lion's share of the honors in a great invitational meet that was witnessed by a large early-season crowd.

The meet was crammed full of thrills and big surprises. The best race of the evening was pulled off in the girl's fifty-yard backstroke, Marybelle Wheeler of the L.A.A.C. winning out by a wet eyelash from her teammate, Olive Hatch, after the latter had led from the starting gun to within several inches of the finish line. The time was 1:28 2-5.

Jack Settler of the Mercury Club walked off with the diving honors after as pretty an exhibition ever seen in the club tank. Leo Fraser of the Ambassador Swimming Club was second. Sam Cohen of the Bimini Club brought down the house with a burlesque diving exhibition that was alone worth the price of admission. The summary:

Girls' fifty-yard dash: Won by Thelma Finn (V.); Helen Vernon (L.A.A.C.) second; Viola Hartman (L.A.A.C.) third. Time, 39 4-5s.

100-yard handicap: Won by Colin Smith (L.A.A.C.); E. Bushnell (V.) second; Reggie Harrison (V.) third. Time 1:11 1-5.

Special race for girls: Won by Helen Rush; Edna Rust, second. Time, 28 2-5s.

Fifty-yard backstroke for girls: Won by Mary Wheeler (L.A.A.C.) Olive Hatch (L.A.A.C.,) second; Marion Goldstone (Bel.,) third.

Four-man 800 feet relay: L.A.A.C., first; Venice, second; Hollywood High, third. Time, 2:36 2-5.

Fancy diving: Won by Jack Settler (L.A.A.C.); Leo Fraser (Ambassador,) second; Pete Morrison (unat.) third.

Romanoff Is Defeated by Greek Champ

Jim Londos, the Greek wrestling champion, easily disposed of Constantine Romanoff at the Holly stadium last night in two falls. The first fall was won with a Japanese arm hold in 33 minutes and the second fall by a head lock in 15 minutes. Romanoff weakened badly toward the end and was hardly any match for the Greek.

In the preliminaries Lagini and Young Williams drew in twenty minutes' time limit. In the second preliminary Vaselli won both falls from Washburn in 35 minutes and 10 minutes, respectively. A good-sized house witnessed the bouts.

WEST VIRGINIA LINES UP FOOTBALL GAMES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MORGANTOWN (W. Va.) Jan. 24.—The West Virginia University football schedule completed today with the scheduling of the University of St. Louis in an intersectional game here on November 17, shows two major changes from the program of last year, when the mountaineers were undefeated.

Pennsylvania State College will be met at the new Yankee Park, New York, on October 27, taking the place of Indiana University, whose two-year contract was extended for one year as a favor to the Hoosiers. And the St. Louis game taking the place of that with Virginia, the schedule is regarded as a much more difficult one than that of last season, and is as follows:

Sept. 29, West Virginia Wesleyan at Fairmont; Oct. 6, Allegheny College at Morgantown; Oct. 13, University of Pittsburg at Pittsburg; Oct. 20, Marshall College at Morgantown; Oct. 27, Penn State College at Yankee Stadium, New York; Nov. 3, Rutgers College at Polo Grounds, New York; Nov. 10, Washington and Lee University at Charleston; Nov. 17, University of St. Louis at Morgantown; Nov. 24, open; Nov. 29, Washington and Jefferson at Morgantown.

AMERICAN MAJORS WIN AT HONOLULU

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HONOLULU, Jan. 24. — The American Major League baseball players, visiting here on their return home from a tour of the Orient, today won the fourth and final exhibition game against the Wanderers, 6 to 1.

The Wanderers scored the only run of the Hawaiian teams that played against the Americans. Score:

Wanderers	1	8	2
Americans	6	9	3

Batteries: Williams, South and Benham; Hoyt, Pennock, Bush and Sewell, Hoffman.

The visiting players will sail for the mainland tomorrow on the Korea Maru.

Rival Basketball Squads Hold Wild and Woolly Combat for Honors

The California Bears and the U.S.C. Trojans pick up the quarrel they dropped on the gridiron some weeks ago and resume it on the basketball court at the Trojan institution tomorrow night and likewise Saturday. Les Turner, Trojan coach, has built up a fine quintet in a month of strenuous practice and has fond hopes of crowning the brethren who hail from the north. It looks like a particularly tough contest.

Les Turner

Announcement was made yesterday that Charlie Bone, star Trojan guard, would not be able to compete in the Friday game, and unless there was a great deal of improvement in the condition of his ankle bone, which was broken recently, he would not be able to play again this season. The rest of the team seems to be in the best of condition and the spirit of optimism which pervades the school speaks well for the Trojan's chances, according to coaches.

There will be no freshman game on Friday night, due to the fact that the varsity and the frosh both use the same system of play and Les Turner is taking no chances with his secret plays.

Saturday night holds the strings to something of a puzzle. Oxy Frosh had been secured to play the Trojan Frosh, but at the last minute it was found that the Occidental team would be ineligible to compete in any more Southern California conference freshman games if they played the U.S.C. youngsters. Frantic efforts have therefore been made to schedule a game with Chaffee Junior College, Long Beach High School and a number of other teams, but so far to no advantage.

Golfers Will Tee Off Today in Texas Open

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Jan. 24.—With regular San Antonio weather prevailing, the 225 entries lined up cheerfully for the opening of the amateur professional best ball match in the second annual Texas open championship tourney which opens at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The municipal course is in the best possible condition.

The $8000 purse is the largest ever offered in a tourney in the history of golfdom.

Amateurs entered in the tournament include: H. H. Richards, Seattle, Wash.

DEMPSEY GETS A HUGE OFFER

May Get a Million Dollars for Three Bouts

Tom O'Rourke Said to Have Tossed the Bait

Writer Takes a Hard Wallop at Jess Willard

BY HUGH FULLERTON
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Jack Dempsey was today the recipient of a $1,000,000 offer to engage in three ring battles during the year, according to a well-founded rumor. It was reported that the world's heavyweight champion was made such a proposition by Tom O'Rourke at a conference attended by the veteran matchmaker, the title-holder and his manager, Jack Kearns. If the bouts are held it is believed they will be staged some time before Labor Day at the Polo Grounds. The possible opponents will probably be chosen from the list of contenders who have been clamoring for a crack at the title. The likely opponents include Tom Gibbons, Jess Willard, Floyd Johnson, Joe Beckett and Harry Wills.

For the last four days I have been watching Willard. Jess is one of my pals and an old friend and neighbor, likable big cuss. But, as far as I can find, he is about the only person connected with boxing who thinks he has a chance to beat Dempsey.

FRIGHTFUL IDEA

After watching Willard in dressing-room, in gym and in street clothes, the idea of him fighting Dempsey is frightful. He is a big, fat, old man, in better condition than most of us would be at his age, but still bad.

He weighs now about 280 pounds and he says he wants to take off about twelve pounds. His skin is clear, clean and healthful and his body shows that he has been working.

His fat is reduced. There is little fat on his abdomen, but the loose folds of skin and muscle show in ridges. His shoulders are heavy, his legs fat and dimpled at the knees. His arms are heavy.

Each afternoon he works about 25 minutes, but confidentially, he is doing more work than that. He shadow boxes—at the end of two minutes he is puffing and snorting and his arms are hanging heavy. He cannot shadow box for two minutes and hold his arms up.

His left hand is a joke—he paws with it like an old horse pawing the air. He has one good punch left, a right uppercut which, if anyone should be foolish enough to stick a jaw against, would make him a champion. He has terrific power in that punch—but if he missed three of them he would not have another one left.

There is no doubt after watching Willard work that Gibbons, Wills, Dempsey, Martin and perhaps others could beat him—not because they are good, but because Jess is done as a battler. He would have one chance and that would be to land one of the first three right uppercuts he swung on the chin of an opponent. Anyone who could dodge him for two rounds would make him beat himself.

CRUCIAL TEST FOR PIMENTAL

Will Have Chance to Show His Worth Tonight

Crack Bantam to Take on Sailor Picciano

Corking Boxing Bouts at L.A.A.C. Gymnasium

Local fight dopesters are still scratching their heads in an effort to determine the reason why Joe Pimental has suddenly become one of the top-notch scrappers of the L. A. A. C.

Joe Pimental

It will be remembered that Pimental tagged along for nearly a year on the losing end of every battle. Two months ago, however, he up and trimmed Manuel Martinez, Pacific Coast amateur bantamweight champion and since that time has won all of his fights by the knockout route.

Pimental is slated to box his first main event tonight when eight attractive bouts will be staged in the Los Angeles Athletic Club and Matchmaker George Blake has lined up eight sailors for the occasion. On the other end of the principal tilt of the evening will be Sailor Picciano of the U. S. S. Mississippi.

REAL CAUSE

The cause for Pimental's remarkable rise to ring fame is vested in the word confidence. After having taken drubbings extending over a long period of time beating Martinez furnished the only apparent asset that was lacking in Pimental's make-up as a ringster.

At the present time Pimental is considered by those who should know as one of the hardest hitting bantamweights that the L. A. A. C. has had in years. He is a nice boxer and is always in good condition. If he wins tonight, Pimental will have beaten the best bantams on the Coast and big things will be expected of him in the future. Sailor Picciano is a rough mauler and a lively encounter may be expected.

RYAN VS. ZUKLE

Two other slashing events are looked for when Sailor Ryan and William Zukle meet and Joe Schlocker trades blows with Sailor Walsh in the semi-wind-up. Every contest on the card looks to be a main event and a large number of reservations for seats have already been received by Charley Kepper of the L. A. A. C. Ernie Clark will referee. H. M. Walker and Fane Norton will be the judges. The complete bill:

William Zukle vs. Sailor Ryan, U.S.S. Idaho, 140 pounds.
John Barry vs. Sailor Jones, U.S.S. Idaho, 140 pounds.
Frank Pizzelli vs. Sailor Rat, U.S.S. Mississippi, heavyweight.
John Conroy vs. Sailor Reeves, U.S.S. Idaho, 115 pounds.
Al Hayberg vs. Sailor Nunnerich, U.S.S. Idaho, 140 pounds.
M. Martinez vs. Sailor Scarlet, U.S.S. Idaho, 115 pounds.
Joe Schlocker vs. Sailor Walsh, U.S.S. Mississippi, 135 pounds.
Joe Pimental vs. Sailor Picciano, U.S.S. Mississippi, 115 pounds.

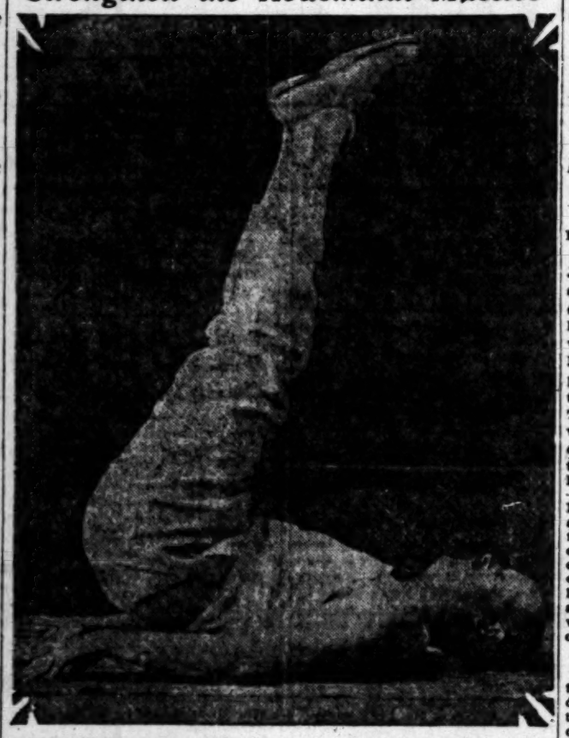
Strengthen the Abdominal Muscles



The abdominal muscles which hold the vital organs in place—the most important muscles in the body—are frequently neglected. The exercise illustrated here is explained in full, together with the need for attention to the development of the abdominal region, in the accompanying health talk by Barclay L. Severns, health expert.

BY BARCLAY L. SEVERNS

TOO much cannot be said regarding the abdominal muscles. No part of the human body is so neglected, and there is no part that needs daily attention as much. It is the home of the vital organs, and the organs are kept in place by those muscles; so it needs little argument to impress upon you the importance of keeping them strong.

Muscles that are seldom brought into play cannot be strong, as a muscle must be used regularly to develop.

MY EXERCISE

In the majority of cases the work required by men in the office brings into play the arms and legs only. The best way to test the strength of the muscles at the waistline is to try the exercise illustrated above, slowly raising the legs without bending the knees, until the toes are even with the head, then lower them very slowly until they are within three inches of the floor; slowly raise again and repeat. If you have not been accustomed to doing it, you will wonder if your muscles ever were strong in that region.

The exercise done in this manner will draw the blood to the abdominal section, urging the muscles to use more and ever more of the nutrition in building bone and muscle and nerve instead of merely storing up the fat.

If you were troubled with a sore throat you would not expect to get results by exercising the abdominal muscles. Yet the majority of human beings are troubled with weak stomachs or constipation, and they exercise (if they exercise at all) the leg or arm muscles and expect results.

EQUALIZES CIRCULATION

The purpose of abdominal exercise is to equalize the intestinal circulation, which is liable to derangement.

Further, it prevents corpulency. When the latter occurs, along with weak muscles, the person suffers from dragging down of the abdomen and, as it enlarges, the danger of umbilical hernia in some form or other is very great. Hernia is sure to occur sooner or later in nearly all who do not support the extra weight, which the abdominal muscles, in their overstrained condition, cannot do.

When the extreme danger of fatal results, to say nothing of the physical inconvenience and suffering occasioned by umbilical hernia, is considered, it is a matter of sincere regret that more attention is not given to its prevention.

Everyone familiar with it is aware that the straining of the abdominal muscles in persons who become corpulent is productive of more cases of umbilical hernia in both male and female than all other causes combined.

FACTS MADE CLEAR

Two facts are made clear. The muscles should be strengthened and exercised regularly to make them strong; also, the fat should not be allowed to accumulate and, as the proper exercise, done regularly, will keep away the fat and strengthen the abdominal muscles, it proves that nature's way is the best.

However, most people seem to think it is too much trouble, and they have so little time, they prefer to wait until these weaknesses claim them before they are willing to devote any time, or give any serious thought, when in most cases it is too late. The consequence of such dilatory methods means very often years of intense suffering; likewise a great deal of inconvenience during that period.

The importance of this subject is so great that a full page at least, if not more, could be used if one wished to go into details fully. Nothing, in my opinion, is more important to perfect health than regular exercise of the abdominal section. Many reasons have been touched upon in previous articles, and numerous others could be added if space would allow, but the one point to be remembered, as stated at the beginning of the article, is this—it is the section or home of the vital organs.

FIRST POSITION: Lie on back, hands at side, feet together.

FIRST MOVEMENT: Legs rigid, toes pointing out; raise slowly to position. (Shown in cut.)

SECOND MOVEMENT: Lower slowly to first position; repeat five times for a week; increase as muscles grow stronger.

Inhale as legs are raised; exhale as lowered.

BOBBY JONES RANKED SECOND

Golf Expert Places Him Close to Sweetser

Factor of Luck in Game of Little Consequence

Ball Goes Exactly Where One Shoots It

BY CHARLES (Chick) EVANS, JR.

In placing Robert T. (Bobby) Jones as America's second best amateur golfer I risk a hurricane of criticism from the Atlanta boy's legion of staunch admirers who will be quick to remind me that Bobby cannot be knocked off his pinnacle because of his misfortune in one championship match. They will remind me of the putt which Bobby insisted he called upon himself, and cite his record in the Chicago open championship last summer.

I know all about the putt which Bobby insisted the scorer marked against him and no one is more familiar with what he did in the open here in Chicago. In fact, no one pulled harder for Jones in the open than I did because I naturally wished to see an amateur win it and I went out of the running while Jones was still a very fine chance for winner.

BEATS JONES

However, Sweetser not only won the championship last year, but he defeated Jones in doing so. More than that, Sweetser was called upon to play super golf to defeat Jones in their match, and he delivered super golf. Jones's admirers must recognize these facts, I think, as I do.

It always looks as if Jones meets with luck that is mostly hard when he comes on for the championship matches, but I maintain that with the real championship golfer, as with any other branch of championship sport, the factor of so-called luck is of minor consequence. I always have gone to the championships with the fixed idea that I was not playing against luck at all, but against a lot of very fine players.

NO CASE OF LUCK

In other words, when you refine the proposition right down you get to this: The golf ball goes exactly where you send it. Luck has nothing to do with it. If it falls into a trap that guards the green it does so not because of your bad luck, but wholly because of your bad judgment. You didn't hit the ball hard enough, or perhaps you hit it too hard.

So the best that can be said on the big point between Sweetser and Jones, which must revolve around their match in the semifinals at Brookline last September, is that while Bobby was very good, he was not quite good enough for Sweetser. I matched my game with Sweetser's the next day, and I wasn't good enough.

USES RESTRAINT

It should be said for Jones, however, that last fall he completely transformed his mental attitude toward the game. He determined not to get mad regardless of his fortune. This was not good for Jones. It would not be good for any golfer in a championship match. I get mad at my clubs now and then and always have done so. Doing so releases stores of energy within the player which will not otherwise come to his assistance. Not doing so takes away some of the dash the player otherwise may have. Jones always had lots of dash in his game.

This typical Jones dash might have turned up another story at Brookline had the influence of Jones's friends not put a stopper on it. But so goes the game of golf. It is only by such very narrow margins that one can distinguish between the finished players, as I am trying to do.

SPORT SHRAPNEL

By HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

There is room for at least one improvement in football, and that is in the department of nomenclature.

Undergraduates seem to fail lamentably in their conception of the fitness of things in the matter of hanging nicknames on their gridiron heroes. In baseball, nicknames are even more prevalent, which is only natural in a game which had its genesis on the sandlots. However, as a rule these appellations given baseball players are much happier than those with which the college football player is decorated. They are more apt and less meaningless.

What makes it the more puzzling is that these same undergrads regard football as something sublime, even sacred. And yet they litter this institution up with inane geugaws. Imagine pinning the sobriquet of Hobo on a fine athlete and student such as Howard Kincaid. One was pleased to note a tendency to drop this, last season. Breaks of that sort do the game no good. Not that it would matter to you or to me, possibly, but there are a lot of overly nice people, so-called, in the world. Not only do these jump on football on the slightest provocation, but they are ever ready to attribute to it alleged ills for which it is in nowise responsible.

We will move along to the cases of lese majesty, if not cases which border on the ridiculous. There was Sprott of California, a truly great player. One can but puzzle over the processes of an intellect which would devise such a handle as Pesky for an athlete of that type. Then we read of Fat Clark and Fat Adams. Bunchy, perhaps, but no football player in training remains fat if he remains on the team. What does the word fat picture to you? Possibly more rotundity and wholesomeness, but it might conjure up a waddle, sagging adipose tissue and a wheezy respiration. Fine inspiring halo of impression to drape about a gridiron gladiator!

But there have been happier and more sentient efforts, albeit in the minority. "Cannonball," or "Ironsides" Baker was descriptive of that athlete, as was "Locomotive" of Smith, the old California halfback. Smith actually emulated the locomotive in driving through the opposing line. Those names suggest power. There might be others suggesting speed or shiftiness. But there is no place in the lexicon of a great college sport for the "Hobcea," the "Peskys" and the "Fats," or related lingual atrocities.

Is this purely a Coast ailment? I do not recall that Mahan, Coy, Thorpe and other great ones were similarly afflicted by their friends and admirers.

According to an eastern dispatch, Dempsey's demands for any kind of a real fight will be $650,000 for fifteen rounds in New York, and $500,000 for twelve rounds in New Jersey. He will require that the promoter deposit $50,000 to prove that he is not looking for mere publicity. When the articles are signed Dempsey must get one-third of the purse, and the remaining two-thirds must be handed over before he steps into the ring.

And only last week Dempsey published a story outlining a system by which the citizen can defend himself against burglars.

Not a bad idea to have a promoter post $50,000. But it should be expanded to require every champion and his manager to post $50,000 every time they are suspected of merely looking for publicity.

One hardly would look for a good baseball yarn to come out of China. Still it is a topsy-turvy old globe. And here comes one from the Orient, as related by Harry Kingman at a banquet over there. It reached me through the medium of an American paper published in Shanghai, and relates to Nap Rucker's debut at golf. Kingman, who is a Pomona boy, was with the New York Americans under Frank Chance when Rucker was with Brooklyn.

After most of the other players had taken up golf, Rucker continued to view it with fine scorn for several months. But eventually he, too, fell for the lure of the links. When he returned from his first attempt, one of the players with a wink at his comrades, asked Nap how he had made out.

"Rotten," replied Rucker. "I made the first hole in fourteen strokes and the second hole in sixteen, but after that I blew up."

Hope to hear by a future mail how Kingman made out against the big leaguers touring the Orient. He was slated, according to this paper, to lead an all-star team against them.

Two Skeeters to Appear on Fight Program

Two high-class mitt wielders who hail from Jersey City will make their entrance into Southland fistic circles tomorrow night in the ring of the American Legion Hollywood arena. Joe Kane, who meets Young Dick Hoppe in the semi-wind-up, is a prominent junior lightweight who has exchanged punches with some of the best eastern boys in the business. Ray Neuman, who also calls Jersey City his home, has been lined up for the special event with Leo Matlock. Neuman was until recently Pennsylvania. He will enter the ring at 160 pounds.

With Bert Colima in the main event with Sailor Ritter, the fans are assured a rare treat. Colima has for many years been heralded as the best 158-pounder in this vicinity, but his opponent tomorrow night is so tough that Bert's friends fear that their boxer's brilliant career may come to a sudden finish.

The balance of the program as prepared by Matchmaker Frank Crowley is as follows: Alex MacDonald vs. Al Guillot, 120 pounds; Frankie Dolan vs. Johnny Williams, 118 pounds; Sailor Liston vs. Young Stanley, 145 pounds; Sailor Reaume vs. Bud Omar, 124 pounds.

Harry D Wins His Eleventh Straight Race

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 24.—Harry D, the most consistent winner in the C. B. Irwin string, marked up his eleventh victory his afternoon at Tijuana by taking the sixth and feature race on the card. It was a nip-and-tuck affair between Harry D and Incognance which lasted from the flip of the barrier until the former got up to win by a head. The time for the five and one-half furlongs, 1:08, was very fast in view of the sloppy condition of the track.

Another Irwin horse, Bowsprit, caused an upset in the fifth by winning by four lengths over Delante, another outsider, which bested the odds-on favorite, Spot Cash. Corncutter's victory in the fourth gave the Irwin stables a third purse during the afternoon.

Alason grabbed the third at fancy odds in a race in which the popular choice, Coomba, finished third.

First race, five and a half furlongs: Rose Atkin (Rose,) won; Olympiad (Martin,) second; Jolly Sailor (M. Anderson,) third. Time, 1:16 3-5.

Second race, five and a half furlongs: Miss Dunbar (Stout,) won; Bertha (Wilson,) second; Phyllis E. (Ballis,) third. Time, 1:16 2-5.

Third race, five and a half furlongs: Miss (Petzold,) won; Maudie Wilson (Jones,) second; Coomba (Gargan,) third. Time, 1:11.

Fourth race, four and a half furlongs: Corncutter (Long,) won; Fund Hope (Martin,) second; Quincy Ward (Schaefer,) third. Time, :56.

Fifth race, one mile: Bowsprit (F. Horn,) won; Delante (Petzold,) second; Spot Cash (Ballis,) third. Time, 1:43 3-5.

Sixth race, five and a half furlongs: Harry D. (Martinez,) won; Incognance (Long,) second; John Jr. (Claver,) third. Time, 1:08.

Seventh race, mile and one-sixteenth: Catherine Marrone (Ballis,) won; Johnny Dundee (Walls,) second; Louanna (Studer,) third. Time, 1:49 1-5.

Eighth race, five and a half furlongs: Kinglike (Slaughter) won; Tanby A (Claver) second; Chief Barthell (Stevens) third. Time, 1:06 2-5.

Torrance War Veterans Bust Into Ring Game

The Bert S. Crossland Post, No. 170, of the American Legion, located at Torrance, is the latest to toss its tin helmet into the ring. The post is putting on a boxing card every other Wednesday night and promises a series of good Queensberry entertainments for the future. Crossland, for whom the post was named, was killed in one of the final battles of the war at Waeregem, Belgium, as a member of the Ninety-first Division. J. D. McDonald announces the following card for Wednesday night, January 31:

Main event—"Sailor" Jimmy Hadley, San Pedro, vs. "Irish" Jimmy Clayton, New York and Pittsburg, 122 pounds.

Semifinal—"Young" Ditto, San Pedro, vs. "Red" Manning, Philadelphia, 130 pounds.

"Kid" Nino, New Orleans, vs. Joe Jackson, San Pedro, 122 pounds.

"Battling" Mike, San Pedro, vs. "Thug" Nino, New Orleans, 118 pounds.

"Chief" Cyrus, Torrance, Cal., vs. "Kid" Mince, Los Angeles, 118 pounds.

Eddie Farren, Los Angeles, vs. "Sailor" Tiny Reyes, U.S.S. Idaho, 115 pounds.

JACK AND ED IN MIXED TILT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WICHITA (Kan.) Jan. 24. Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, has "decided to accept the best offer soon" for a mixed bout between Dempsey and Ed ("Strangler") Lewis, according to a telegram from Kearns received here today by Tom Law, wrestling promoter.

Whether a $300,000 offer of Wichita oil men, through Law, for a mixed bout will be accepted depends upon other offers which he receives, Kearns stated in a telegram.

MINOR, FEW KINKS SHY

As Rule He Lacks Speed in Major Leagues; Difference Soon Shown; Drilling of Recruits

"MY THIRTY YEARS IN BASEBALL" ARTICLE XVIII
BY JOHN J. McGRAW,
Manager of New York Giants. (World's Baseball Champions 1921-22)

[Copyright, 1923, by the Christy Walsh Syndicate.]

Persons unfamiliar with baseball—even our most faithful fans—would be astonished to know the difference between a minor league and major league player. Just because a young man does well in a minor league and has a great record is no certain indication that he is of major-league caliber. The line of demarcation is very plain to one who has made the game his profession.

"The difference between a major leaguer and a minor leaguer," I heard some one say one day, "is one step in going to first base."

That is a pretty good definition, though, of course, it is not complete.

Often you see a minor leaguer who looks like a world beater and you have no doubt that he would be a star in the big league. That is true—sometimes. As a rule, though, you are thrown off your judgment by lack of comparison. With that particular minor league team the player really is wonderful. Put him in the line-up with a major league club and you will see the difference immediately. What you thought great speed then looks slow.

JUST ONE STEP

To your surprise you will often find that he is always being thrown out at first by just one step. He lacks just that little difference in speed. It may be some other fault, like getting away from the plate; like facing pitching in a new form. That one little thing is missing. That is what my friend meant by "one step" in getting to first.

The first thing I notice in youngsters when they report is their speed. If they have it I pay more attention. If they haven't—unless they should happen to be phenomenal hitters—they might as well go right on back.

Very few recruits from the minor league know anything about the art of base running. As a rule they have been allowed to go along in a hodge-podge way and do the best they can. If they play well enough to win games that is considered sufficient. Very little attention is paid to perfecting their style—making them finished ball players.

Sliding is extremely important in baseball and I spend as much time on that, if not more, than any other branch of the training. Merely sliding into the bag is not sufficient. They must know the hook slide, or "fall away," and they must be able to do it either to the left or the right.

The idea of this slide is for the player to go into the bag feet first and throw his body either to the left or right as falls, so as to avoid being touched with the ball. The runner hooks one foot to the bag, which serves as a pivot for his body to swing around.

If the runner does that slide perfectly the biggest spot the baseman has to touch is the calf of his leg. He does not like to touch the spikes—cold steel.

Sliding practice is a tough grind. Players do not like it because there is no excitement about it. Those who are determined, though, stick until they have mastered the trick.

We use a sand pit about five feet wide and ten feet long. In regular turn they go into this time and time again until all are tired out.

One of the most determined players I ever saw was "Baby Doll" Jacobson, now with the St. Louis club. He is a giant in stature and always was a good hitter. For a big man he is rather fast on bases. He was a very poor slider, though, at first.

It was tough on a big fellow like him to hit the sand with his whole weight, but he stuck at it for hours at a time. Not once did I ever hear him whimper. In time he got where he could do the hook slide as well as any of them. You know, there is no longer a jolt to sliding when the trick is mastered. Men like George Burns and Jack Murray could slide all day and not be hurt.

Murray, if you remember, was so adept in sliding that if no effort was made to touch him he would come right up on his feet, using the bag as a brace. Ty Cobb is another beautiful slider. As a matter of fact, baseball has improved so much in the finer details that a major-leaguer has to be a good slider to hold his own in the hot competition.

Half the battle in training players in spring practice is to be able yourself to do the thing that you want them to grasp. Nothing so impresses your pupils, old or young, with the correctness of your ideas and system as personal demonstration. When a man is past 45 this trick of sliding into a sandpit is not easy. I often illustrate by doing it myself, just the same. In my days on the Orioles I was

MERCURIES IN BATTLE FOR LEAD

Overseas Meet Clubmen; Sampson Soccer Eleven Tackle Sons

Four soccer games are scheduled for Sunday afternoon with a double header at Maier Park, Vernon, a third at Ross Snyder playgrounds and a fourth at Long Beach. At Vernon L.A.A.C. meets the Overseas in the curtain-raiser timed for 1 p.m., with the Samsons and Sons bringing up the rear at 3 p.m. L. A. Unitedas tackle the Rangers on the Ross Snyder field, while the Scots travel to Long Beach.

The clubmen will fight to retain their precarious lead of half a game, and according to all indications, they will be pressed to the limit to do so. The Overseas of today are a vastly improved team, with a splendid team spirit. Their partial victory last week gave them courage, and they are after the scalps of the clubmen.

Samsons hold a wholesome respect for the Sons, and expect to find the going hard. And there is a reason. The wearers of the rose now have Laurence Elliott, Harold Brown and Sammy Brown, there former L. A. United Stars. Elliott is playing at the pivotal position and will undoubtedly prove troublesome for the Compton defense.

L. A. Unitedas are generally conceded a win from the Rangers, and an excellent opportunity to jump into first place. The Long Beach game should be a sizzler, with neither side favored to win.

an excellent slider. That was one of my strongest points. Knowing the trick so well I can get away with it even with my increasing weight. Many nights, though, I go to bed a very sore muscled man.

LIKES TO HIT

It is much easier and more enjoyable to direct batting practice. No ball player ever loses his love for smacking a baseball on the nose. The feel of it is just as satisfying to me now as it was thirty years ago. I have never lost my "eye" and can judge a ball just about as accurately today as I ever could. Batting is not such a jolt to the system and I find little difficulty in holding my own with the young fellows in that department of the game. I usually take part in every practice game where we choose up and play the regulars against the rookies. I play with the rookies, of course, and we give the regulars some pretty tough battles.

In these practice games I have an excellent chance to observe the spirit of the many players. If they've got pep it comes out. If they haven't the lack is so apparent that everybody notices it.

FIRST STUDY

My pitchers are always my first study, the catchers and fielders being taken up later. There are so many boxmen and some so green that to size them up intelligently and fairly is a long and difficult task. A manager can not afford to make a mistake. Unless he is extremely watchful he is likely to overlook some young fellow with great possibilities.

There are times, too, when some of my old pitchers have not fully grasped our system until well in the championship season. It is not that the system is complicated. It is usually due to these pitchers having so much to unlearn. They have been permitted to get set in bad habits and some of them never entirely get out of them. The most trouble, naturally, is with the rookie boxmen. The majority of them, according to my experience, have not been coached even in the first rudiments of the science.

TO RUN WILD

They have been allowed to run wild—go as they please—by their former bosses, who permitted them to work out their own salvation. If they happen to get by with a few victories apparently that has been considered good enough. Faults are passed over.

To give you an idea—Louis Drucke came to us a much touted rookie. He certainly seemed to have everything. In the regular season we suddenly discovered that the opposing teams could run bases on him as they pleased. A runner on first would know exactly, it seemed, when Drucke was going to throw to first or pitch to the plate. They called the turn invariably. By close observation we soon found the fault. He had a peculiar habit of lifting his right heel from the ground just before he pitched to the plate.

He did not do this when he was going to throw to first. The other players had discovered it and were running wild on him. As soon as he corrected the fault his work improved 100 per cent. That little mannerism probably never would have been discovered in the minor leagues. Our opponents in the major leagues, though, spotted it in a week.

Pitching faults are numerous. I will take up one more and then get back to our Oriole days.

MISS EDNA WEBSTER CLAIMS ICE RECORD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—Miss Edna Webster of Toronto, who is in Chicago to participate in the international ice skating races the last of the week, today claimed to have broken a world's record for women skaters for 220 yards straightaway from a standing start when she covered the distance in 22 3-5 seconds. Some snow was on the ice when she made the attempt for the record.

—friend of economy: enemy of dirt

The real job of Old Dutch is to get your cleaning done in the most economical way. And it does this job well.

That's because Old Dutch is a natural-born cleanser—made from a substance mined out of the earth. Its soft, flat flakes erase the dirt and by virtue of their flat shape cover much more cleaning surface—do much more work, leave a clean sweep.

Naturally, a cleanser that is so efficient is cheaper to use. A package goes so far; one sprinkle of Old Dutch does so much.

Old Dutch leaves no greasy film or scratched surface to collect dirt and make cleaning difficult.

WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER

The Profiteers
by E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

John Philip Wingate, a prominent figure in New York's Wall Street, has an enemy of years' standing in Peter Phipps, who heads British and Imperial Granaries in England. The B. and I., as Phipps's company is known in the stock market, has for its purpose the cornering of the country's wheat, and to date has succeeded, with a consequent shortage of bread throughout England. Wingate comes to England, meets Kendrick, his London broker, and announces his intention of breaking Phipps on the market. At a social gathering, Wingate renews a war-time friendship with Lady Dredlinton, whom he met in France. The fact that Lady Dredlinton is unhappy does not escape the attention of Wingate, and he resolves to secretly loves her he searches for the cause, and finds it in Lord Dredlinton, her husband, a member of the B. and I. board. Wingate meets Andrew Slate, a friend of his college days, whose business of law practice is confined to the manipulation and defense of questionable characters, and retains him as part of his future plans. Next day Wingate has a self-invited luncheon guest in Fleming Lane, a musical-comedy star. Later in the day Lady Dredlinton calls at Wingate's apartment to discuss with him the part she is to play in the undoing of Phipps and the B. and I. The visit provides Wingate with an opportunity to make known his true regard for her. The following evening Lady Amesbury gives a dinner party.

"Lady Dredlinton seems to be achieving great popularity in every direction," Phipps said sourly.

"And a jolly good thing, too," Lady Amesbury declared. "If ever a woman earned the right to kick the traces away for a bit Josephine has. Don't you mind anything I say, my dear," she added, as Josephine looked up at the sound of her name. "You settle down to a nice comfortable flirtation, if you want to. You owe it to yourself, all right, and then there's some coming to you. And I'm your husband's aunt who tells you that."

"I'm not at all sure," Phipps observed, "that you don't underrate your nephew's ability."

"The only thing I know about his ability," was the blunt reply, "is his ability to borrow a few hundreds from any one fool enough to lend it to him, and then invent excuses for not paying it back. He's good at that, if you like. Still, don't let me set you against him, Mr. Phipps. Every shilling he gets out of you and your company is so much saved to the family."

Lady Amesbury, who, notwithstanding her apparent inconsequence, had a keen eye for her guests, directed her conversation at a time into another channel, and finally changed places with Sarah in order to come into closer touch with a spiritualist from Sweden, who was on the lookout for a medium. Sarah turned appealingly toward Wingate.

"Jimmy and I want to be taken to the theater tomorrow night," she announced. "He doesn't get any money till Wednesday, and I haven't earned enough this week to pay my garage bill."

"I'll take you both," Wingate promised quickly, "if Lady Dredlinton will make a fourth."

"Delighted," Josephine assented. "I have a box at the Opera," Phipps announced, leaning forward. "Give me the pleasure of entertaining you all."

Josephine shook her head.

"Tannhauser! I am sorry, Mr. Phipps, but I couldn't possibly stand it. Ask us another time, won't you? Tomorrow night," she went on, turning to Wingate, "let us be absolutely frivolous. A revue, I think."

"And dinner first at the Milan," Wingate insisted.

"And supper afterwards and a dance at Ciro's," Sarah put in. "I must tell Jimmy the glad tidings."

Peter Phipps made his adieux to Lady Amesbury early and drove in his electric coupe first to Romano's, then to the Milan and finally to Ciro's. Here he found Dredlinton, seated in a corner by himself, a little sulky at the dancing proclivities of the young lady whom he had brought. He greeted Phipps with some surprise.

"Hullo, Dreadnought!" he exclaimed. "What's wrong with my garrulous aunt? Has the party broken up early or weren't you a success?"

"I wasn't a success," Phipps confessed grimly. "Look here, Dredlinton, are you sober enough to talk horse common sense?"

"Sober? My God, can you tell me how any one can get a drink here?" was the injured reply. "I was just off somewhere else. One bottle of champagne, if you please, between two of us, and the liqueur brandies were served with the soup. Call this a Christian country!"

"Then if you're sober, and for once you seem to be," Phipps said, "just listen to me. Listen hard, mind, and don't interrupt. Have you ever wondered why I put you on the Board of the B. & I.?"

"My title, I suppose—and social position."

"Rot!" Phipps answered scornfully. "Your title and your social position aren't worth a damn to me. I put you on because of your wife."

Dredlinton stared at him.

"Why, you didn't even know her!"

"Never mind. I knew her to look at. I wanted to know her. Now I do know her, and it hasn't done me much good."

Dredlinton sat a little more erect in his place. Behind his cynical exterior, his evil brain had begun to work.

"Look here, Phipps," he said. "I don't care about this conversation. If a man happens to admire another man's wife, her husband is scarcely the proper confidant."

"Oh, yes, I know your theory!" Phipps scoffed. "You're willing enough to hide your head in the sand and take the goods the gods send you. That doesn't suit me. I happen to need your help."

"My help?" Dredlinton repeated. "The poor little spider to help the mighty Phipps! You're not finding difficulties in the way of your suit, are you?"

"If I do, it will be the worse for you," was the gruff reply. "As you're going on now, Dredlinton, it will be your wife, and your wife alone, who'll keep you out of jail before many weeks are past. How about that cheque to Farnham and Company last week? Farnham's say they never got it, but I hear it's come back through the bank with a queer endorsement upon it."

Dredlinton caught at the tablecloth. The malicious gleam in his eyes gave way to a look of positive fear.

"I can't remember—anything here—without any books," he muttered. "Tell me what it is you want, Phipps? I am ready to do anything—you know that."

"Your wife's friendship with this fellow Wingate has got to be nipped in the bud," Phipps declared.

"Yes, but how?" Dredlinton demanded. "Josephine and I aren't anything to one another any more—you know that. She goes her own way."

"She lives in your house," Phipps said. "You remain her husband nominally and have therefore a certain amount of authority. You must forbid her to receive Wingate."

"I'll forbid her, all right," Dredlinton assented, "but I won't guarantee that she'll obey."

"Then you must give orders to the servants," Phipps insisted. "I don't need to suggest to you, Dredlinton," he went on, "what means you should use to make your wife obey you, but there are means, and if you're not the man to realize them, I'm very much surprised in you. I will begin with a concrete case. Your wife, together with that fellow Wilshaw and Miss Baldwin, have accepted an invitation from Wingate to dine and go to a theater tomorrow night. You must see that your wife does not go."

"Very well," Dredlinton promised, "I'll manage it somehow."

"See that you do," Phipps enjoined earnestly. "Your wife is one of those misguided women with a strong sense of duty. Unless you behave like a damn fool, you can re-establish some measure of control over her. Do so. There are certain circumstances," he went on, his face wrinkled a little with emotion, his voice deep and earnest, "there are certain circumstances, Dredlinton, under which I might be inclined to behave towards you with great generosity. I leave you to guess what those circumstances are. I will show you the way later on."

Dredlinton felt hope stir once more through his shocked and terrified senses. He lit a cigarette with fingers which had ceased to tremble, learned a little back in his place and stared at his companion curiously.

"Phipps," he asked, "what the devil do you and this fellow Wingate see in my wife?"

"What a man like you would never look for," was the harsh reply.

CHAPTER XII

"Throw your coat down anywhere, Miss Baldwin," Wingate invited, as he ushered that young lady into his rooms soon after eleven o'clock on the following evening. "Now what can I give you? There are some sandwiches here—ham and pate-de-froe-gras, I think. Whiskey and soda or some hock?"

"A pate sandwich and some plain soda water, please," Sarah replied, taking off the long motoring coat which concealed her evening clothes. "I have been fined for everything except disorderly driving—daren't risk that. Thanks!" she went on. "What ripping sandwiches! And quite a good play, wasn't it?"

"I am glad you enjoyed it."

"It was a swindle Josephine not turning up," Sarah continued, as she stretched herself out in Wingate's easy-chair. "Domestic ructions again, I suppose. How I do hate that husband of hers."

"It was disappointing," he admitted.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ATLANTIC CITY, Jan. 24. The National Kraut Packers Association, which has an exhibit on the steel pier, suggests "sauerkraut pie" as a new and delicious way of serving that time-honored food.

It requires a rich pie dough rolled thicker than usual and big enough to line a deep pan. This is filled with sauerkraut and a slice or two of bacon cut in small pieces and fried to a light brown, its greases spread over the filling. The dough is placed over the filling and painted with the yolk of an egg. The pie is then baked and eaten.

Chicago to New York in twenty hours

Overnight service between Chicago and New York was considered a luxury of travel when the Twentieth Century Limited was added to the fleet of famous limiteds on the New York Central.

But men of affairs soon found that a train that saved a business day—and that insured a restful night's sleep on the water level route—was as indispensable as the telephone and the telegraph.

Today the Century is a business necessity.

One train each way more than met the demand for reservations in the early years of the twenty-hour service. Now the Century leaves La Salle Street Station and the Grand Central Terminal day after day in two, three and four sections. A record of five sections out of Chicago was established on January 7.

The Twentieth Century Limited is the pride of the employees who operate it and guard it night after night, and it is the standard bearer of a service known the world over as the highest development of railroad transportation.

"A Friend at Court"

This expression has a broad meaning. It is applied to one who takes your part—a friend who "knows the ropes", and who gives you the benefit of his knowledge and experience in assisting you to settle your individual affairs. In this sense, you have "a friend at court," when your insurance is handled by Cass & Johansing, Insurance Brokers.

We Represent YOU—The Insured

Bear in mind that in our relations with you we act as your counsellor and friend—studying your needs, advising you as to the kind of insurance you should carry, and—on your authorization—purchasing this insurance under the most favorable terms and at the lowest possible cost to you. There is no extra charge for this service. You pay the same premiums as if you bought your insurance direct from the Insurance Companies. Insurance is a matter for specialists. There are a number of ways of making your insurance doubly sure and of securing a greater degree of protection at less cost, with which the average business man could hardly expect to be familiar. This is a part of the expert service which we render you.

We will particularly appreciate having you call personally at our offices.

COLOMBIA LEADS IN PLATINUM

American and British Capital Back of This Interesting Industry

[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

Russia is no longer the principal source of the world's platinum supply. This position is now held by Colombia. It is a direct result of the World War. Prior to 1914 the Ural Mountains gave up an average of 300,000 ounces each year; today the output from Siberia is estimated at between 30,000 and 50,000 ounces.

Instead of British and Russian capital dominating the platinum industry, American dollars and English sterling are the leading factors in Colombia's platinum production. Native labor gathers and washes the metal from river beds, and American-made and managed dredges do the heavy work. A third dredge is about to start operations for the American-British syndicate that controls the greater part of Colombia's platinum output.

Platinum, under certain conditions, is the hardest of metals. Combined with 10 to 20 per cent iridium, it reaches this state. Platinum is also very soft, and one cubic inch may be drawn to invisible fineness and a length, estimated by experts, at 50,000 miles. Its uses are varied and constantly growing. Dentistry is one of the principal outlets. Electrical work, fine jewelry and surgical instruments all require platinum.

Scarcity of platinum is reflected in its relatively high price. It is now quoted by producers at $115 to $118 an ounce. The peak price during the war was $165 to $170 an ounce. The price was "pegged" later under government supervision at $105 an ounce. Iridium, the most useful alloy of platinum, sold as high as $610 an ounce in 1919, but later fell off to half that price. Although platinum output is small, the production of iridium is much less, being estimated at no more than 3 per cent of the platinum yield.

In the operations of the South American Gold and Platinum Company, the largest individual producer in Colombia, platinum is found in granular form as washed down by river waters and concentrated in the gravel beds. The gravel is taken up in an endless-chain series of buckets to crushers. Then it is put across tables where saving devices are installed and the best possible recoveries obtained. An official of this company likens the operation very much to gold dredging. In the Urals dredging and hand labor are also utilized in producing platinum.

World's production of platinum in 1912 was 315,029 ounces. At that time 90 per cent came out of Russian possessions. The slump since that time, forced by the war and after-effects, has been prosistent, as output fell to 118,583 ounces in 1916, with partial recovery the following year. With Russia eliminated as a producer of size the world's platinum output got down to between 40,000 and 50,000 ounces in 1919. Since that year, though, Colombian operations have been pushed, but have not offset the loss in Russian output.

In the first nine months of 1922, the latest period for which statistics are obtainable, there was imported into the United States 72,421 ounces of platinum; in the same period of 1921 imports were 61,941 ounces. American production is virtually nil, it being estimated that possibly 500 ounces are derived each year as by-products from others ores.

MAY COTTON CROSSES INTO NEW TERRITORY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Today's cotton market succeeded early in getting across the 29-cent level for May options, in the face of heavy profit-taking from bull interests, but failed to hold the gain. May touched 29.05 for a net gain of 27 points. Business was active in spots. At the outset the list moved up 11 to 23 points on the active list and 40 points on January. Trade demand, spot house support and buying for mills, sent the market further upward. Considerable realizing and some professional selling for a turn developed and by midday the list had reacted to a level in some cases under its opening. In later dealings realizing increased, and at one time in the afternoon the market showed losses of 8 to 30 points, but final bids were unchanged to 10 lower on near months and 25 points net lower on October and December.

Spot quiet, 28.60, 15 points decline for middling upland.

Southern spot markets: Galveston, 28.60, 10 points decline; New Orleans, 28.62; 25 points advance; Savannah, 28.75; unchanged; Norfolk, 28.75, unchanged; Memphis, 28.50, unchanged; Houston, 28.55, 10 points decline; Little Rock, 28.00, unchanged.

LONDON MARKET

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Jan. 24.—A strong tendency obtained in the stock exchange today in several departments, despite somewhat disturbing continental news. Specialties continued active, especially mines, but rubbers became more uncertain. British funds strengthened in the gilt-edge market. Dollar rails advanced. British-American Tobaccos advanced to 88s, 3d. Leading oils were still on offer. Shells, 2 15-16; Mexican Eagle, 1 13-16; Royal Dutch, 2 1/8. American mines were all strong. Prisces, 22s, 6d; Mexican Corporation, 11s, 3d.

There were signs of deflation in the money market, supplies of credit being excessive but hardly any overnight money went below 1 per cent. Day-to-day loans were 1 1/2 and fixtures 2. Discounts were steadier. Three-month bills were 3 1/4. Foreign exchange: New York, 4.65 1/2; Paris, 12.30; Berlin, 95,000 to 100,000.

Bank Assets Grow; Great Britain Controls Tire Situation; Traction Expansion; Listings

The State banks of California increased their assets by $115,953,000 between September 15 and Dec. 29, 1922, according to figures released yesterday by Jonathan S. Dodge, superintendent of banks. In commenting upon the situation, Mr. Dodge said:

"The figures just compiled show a very favorable condition and bear eloquent testimony to the prosperity of our State. In this period of two and a half months our State banks have increased their deposits by over $112,000,000, their cash resources by over $21,000,000 and their bond investments by a similar amount, while they have reduced their borrowings by nearly $6,000,000. The increase is to be noted both in the savings and the commercial banks, the former showing a gain of over $68,000,000 in deposits while the latter report an increase of over $44,000,000.

"While the deposits were thus increasing, the number of depositors was also augmented, being now 2,661,648—1,653,222 in the savings banks and 1,008,371 in the commercial banks.

"San Francisco reports total depositors, 739,541—498,985 in the savings and 240,556 in the commercial, while Los Angeles has a total of 774,104—502,049 in the savings and 277,055 in the commercial.

"The great increase in assets and deposits may be taken to mean that the marketing of crops has proceeded in a satisfactory and orderly manner and that our banks are well prepared to meet the coming season."

Following is a comparison of the principal assets and liabilities of the State banks in Los Angeles as of December 29 and Sept. 15, 1922:

HOLDS WHIP HAND

Unless some method is discovered to nullify the Stevenson restrictive production scheme instituted by British interests, American manufacturers of rubber products will be forced to buy on a market that is steadily rising to levels seen only during the war years. Quotations have already touched 37 cents a pound, with indications that higher prices will prevail, and on the basis of the rising quotations, automobile tire prices are destined to be moved up sharply.

The shortage of crude rubber is entirely artificial, due to the efforts of the British planters in restricting the amounts that are allowed to be placed on the market. An enormous surplus of the commodity is actually in existence as was evidenced a few months ago by the lowest prices ever quoted for crude rubber in this country. In order to save their industry, the Stevenson plan was adopted by the planters, and has proved successful as far as it applies to price, but from the point of view of the American rubber manufacturers, the plan is a straight perversion of the normal action of supply and demand. According to computations made recently by Senator Medill McCormick, if the monopoly is maintained the revenue accruing to the British will be sufficient to amount to an excess charge of $600,000,000 annually, or enough to pay the entire English war debt to this country in eight years.

MARKET REVIEW

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Practically all financial markets lapsed into inertia and purposeless fluctuations today; evidently wearied with the alternation of violent up and down movements which had turned out to have no basis except erroneous rumor. Even the foreign exchange market pretty much lost the power of initiative; the day's changes in European rates were neither uniform nor important. It is a favorite tradition of Wall Street that when any speculative market comes to a dead halt after a violent swing in one direction, its next movement is likely to be in the opposite direction. The difficulty of applying this or any other rule in the present case is that no one is able even to conjecture exactly how and in what way the existing Franco-German deadlock will terminate.

Not only has none of the predictions of a fortnight ago materialized, whether favorable or unfavorable, but there is no indication of when or how their correctness will be really tested. If the German resistance had been a little less passive and the French coercion a little less cautiously applied, tangible results might be in sight. If, however, this present conjunction of the irresistible force and the immovable body continues a little longer, it is possible that both the politicians and the markets will be discussing practicable compromise.

Today's foreign exchange market gave no sign of it; the only rate which really moved, that for the pound sterling at Paris, advancing 50 centimes after having fallen a full franc on Tuesday and advanced nearly two francs on Monday. Such gyrations hardly indicate anything but excited speculation, which is not sure of its own mind. European stock markets were quiet and steady today; our own, with business only a little larger than the very small trading of the two preceding days, moved uncertainly; advances and declines, mostly fractional, being about equal numerically.

During part of the day the recovery in railway shares which had attracted some attention on Tuesday, was carried further, but this, too, lost its momentum before the closing. The weekly car-loading report as published today threw some fresh light on the railway situation. The total was not only much the largest of any week since the middle of December and 160,000 cars or 22 per cent above the same week in 1922, but it far exceeded the corresponding week in any year since the war.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Jan. 24. — Heavy selling of oil shares, particularly the California issues, imparted a reactionary tone to today's stock market after an early display of firmness founded on another bullish demonstration in railroad stocks. Professional interests again dominated trading, which was a little more active than yesterday. The foreign situation continues to exert a restraining influence on business, but domestic conditions and influences appear to be the deciding factor in the determination of quoted values.

Irregularity also prevailed in the bond market, which was featured by the strength of tax-exempt issues in reflection of the House of Representatives' adoption of a resolution to submit to the States a proposed constitutional amendment prohibiting the further issuance of tax-exempt securities. Foreign exchanges eased slightly. Some new high records were made in the cotton market, but prices reacted on profit-taking at the close.

Weakness of the oil shares was due largely to speculative disappointment over the announcement that the Standard Oil Company of California had declared a dividend of only 50 cents a share on the new stock, which is equivalent to the rate on the old. The new stock closed at 55¾, a net loss of 2¾, after getting as low as 54¾. Speculative belief that other Standard Oil companies might also continue the old dividend rates prompted selling of Standard Oil of New Jersey, which sold down within a fraction of 40, and at a net low level for the year.

The recent cut in California crude-oil prices because of an oversupply also was a contributing factor, California Petroleum dropping 1⅝ points and Pacific Oil 1¼. General Asphalt broke 2⅝, and the preferred 2, while losses of 1 point or more were sustained by the Pan-American issues and Pierce Oil preferred.

Strength of railroad shares was attributed to a continuance of record car loadings, the satisfactory nature of the December earnings statements, and the signing of a bituminous coal agreement removing the possibility of another strike in the soft-coal fields. Some excellent gains were made in this group during the morning, particularly by the low-priced speculative issues, but these were materially reduced or wiped out later. At their best Atchison sold at 101⅝, Baltimore and Ohio at 44¼, New Haven at 30⅝, St. Paul common at 23, and the preferred at 35¾; Northern Pacific at 74¼, Norfolk and Western at 113, Southern Pacific at 90¼ and Southern Railway, the most active, at 30⅝.

Beechnut Packing dropped more than 4 points on further selling as a result of the official announcement that no increase in dividend was contemplated, and Fisher Body, which indulged in a sensational 38-point drop yesterday, moved today within a radius of 5 points, closing at 168¼, a net loss of 3½ points. Postum Cereal, R. H. Macy, Nash Motors and Mackay preferred also were conspicuously weak, while United Fruit, up 3¾, and Kresge, up 8, were among the few outstanding strong spots. Call money held at 4½ per cent throughout the day. Time money and commercial paper markets were fairly active, with no changes in rates.

Foreign exchanges were dull and irregular, British, French and Italian rates yielding slightly. The Indian rupee established another high record at 33⅜ cents.

Day's total sales, 743,000 shares; twenty industrials averaged 97.16; net loss, .27; high, 1922, 103.43; low, 78.59; twenty railroads averaged 88.11; net gain, .34; high, 1922, 93.99; low, 73.43.

May wheat closed 11⅛ to ⅝ yesterday or more than two full points over its low of the day. Do you remember our suggestion in Wednesday's advertisement? If you do, and acted on the advice, you are in a pretty position. You can trade with us in any amount from 1000 bushels and up. There's money in it. Main 45.

Ten-Million-Cubic-Foot Gas Holder of Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation. Built 1922

Growing up with Los Angeles

X.

An Obsolete Rule

—Rule of The Los Angeles Electric Company, adopted June 1, 1891.

Just another illustration of the growth of the community and its public utilities.

¶ With 3800 miles of main line wire on its electric system, the whistle as a signal to linemen of Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation is a thing of the long ago.

This is one of a series of advertisements.

We offer the unsold portion of an issue of $84,052 Merced County, California, Road Improvement District No. 2, 6% Bonds maturing from 1927 to 1946, denominations $1000 and $1202.60. The assessed valuation of the district is $712,500 and the actual value as appraised is $2,860,000 —more than 33 times the amount of the bond issue. Lands in the district consist of well improved, intensively cultivated farms and orchards.

The bonds are a direct ad valorem tax lien on all the real property in the district, ranking equally with other tax liens, and are senior to mortgages. Principal and interest are payable by the County Treasurer. Legality approved by Heller, Ehrman, White & McAuliffe, San Francisco.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

To the Stockholders of Los Angeles Union Stockyards Company and all others whom it may concern:

Office of Los Angeles Union Stockyards Company, 2100 East 38th Street, Vernon, California.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that by resolution duly adopted by the Board of Directors of Los Angeles Union Stockyards Company on the 8th day of January, 1923, a special meeting of the stockholders of Los Angeles Union Stockyards Company is hereby called to be held at 2100 East 38th Street, City of Vernon, County of Los Angeles, California, in the office where the Board of Directors usually meets, the 15th day of March, 1923, at ten o'clock a.m., for the purpose of considering the following purposes, and acting upon any or all thereof.

(a) Authorizing an increase in the common capital stock of said company from $10,000.00, par value, the present authorized amount, to $1,000,000.00, par value, or such smaller amount as such stockholders may specify.

(b) Specifying or authorizing the Board of Directors of said company to specify the terms upon which said increased capital stock may be issued from time to time.

(c) Authorizing an application or applications to the State Corporation Commissioner of California for authority to issue all, or any part of, such increased capital stock, upon such terms and conditions as the Board of Directors may hereafter prescribe.

(d) Conferring upon the Board of Directors of said company such other powers and discretion in the premises, and taking such further action in connection with any and all of the above mentioned matters as may be deemed necessary or advisable.

That the term "meeting," as herein used, shall include said meeting herein called to be held on the 15th day of March, 1923, and any adjournment or adjournments thereof.

The stockholders of the company are requested to be present either in person or by proxy at said meeting.

LOS ANGELES UNION STOCKYARDS CO.

ARTHUR G. LEONARD, President.
F. L. S. HARMAN, Secretary.

ITALIAN VINEYARD COMPANY
NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS TO CONSIDER PROPOSAL TO INCREASE CAPITAL STOCK.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that at a regularly called, noticed and held meeting of the Board of Directors of Italian Vineyard Company, a corporation having its principal place of business at Guasti, county of San Bernardino, state of California, held at the office and principal place of business of said corporation on January 2nd, 1923, a resolution was duly and unanimously adopted calling a special meeting of the stockholders of said corporation to be held on Thursday, the 8th day of March, 1923, at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., at Guasti, San Bernardino County, California, being the principal place of business of said corporation and the place where the Board of Directors of said corporation usually meets, for the purpose of considering and acting upon a proposal to increase the capital stock of the corporation from Five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) divided into five thousand (5,000) shares of the par value of One hundred dollars ($100) each, all of said stock being common stock, to Two million five hundred thousand dollars ($2,500,000) divided into twenty-five thousand (25,000) shares of the par value of One hundred dollars ($100) each, all of said shares being common stock, and for the purpose of transacting all such other business as may be necessary or desirable in connection with said proposal to increase the capital stock of the corporation, and for the purpose of transacting any other business in connection with the affairs of the corporation which may properly be brought before the meeting. The amount to which it is proposed to increase said capital stock is the sum of Two million five hundred thousand dollars ($2,500,000) divided into twenty-five thousand (25,000) shares of the par value of One hundred dollars ($100) each.

Dated Los Angeles, California, January 2, 1923.

By order of the Board of Directors.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Stocks took a downward turn yesterday on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, lower prices being recorded generally in the leading issues. General Petroleum common was halted in its upward advance, selling off 1 point to a close at 32⅝, and Union of California dropping a similiar amount at 107½. Standard Oil of California reflected the disappointment over the failure of the directors to declare a higher dividend on the new stock, and declined 2⅜ to 55⅝. Union Oil Associates was unchanged at 47. Union Oil was firm at 96 cents.

Mining stocks were active, but prices were off from the previous day. Tom Reed slumped 1 cent to a closing quotation at 94, and Telluride lost 2½ cents on a close of 26. Oatman United at 12 cents was down 1 and Oatman Combination was unchanged at 9 cents.

Globe Grain and Milling common was traded in around 75, but closed off at 73, off 2 points from the previous closing prices. Southern California Edison common pushed upward another ¼ of a point to a final price of 105¾, and San Joaquin Light and Power common was sold at 28 and the preferred at 90½. Twenty-nine shares of Security Trust and Savings Bank stock went at 287½ and a block of twenty shares of the First National Bank sold at 375.

BOND QUOTATIONS

Irregular Prices
[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Price movements in today's irregular bond market closely paralleled those in the stock market, speculative railroad mortgages following the stocks to higher ground, while oil-company liens declined in sympathy with the reaction in those shares on the "big board." Foreign bonds were irregular, some of the French municipals making good recovery from recent heaviness, while governmental issues showed no important changes.

Strength of tax-exempt securities, on adoption by the House of Representatives of a resolution to submit to the States a constitutional amendment prohibiting further issuance of entirely tax-exempt securities, was one of the features. Liberty 3½s, the only wholly tax-exempt war issue, advanced 52 points on $100 to 101.36, and the new 4¼s got back to par, but the other active United States government securities showed losses of 3 to 12 cents. Good municipals were also in demand.

Sharp recovery of the St. Paul and New Haven issues was the feature of the railroad list, St. Paul general 4½s advancing 3¾ points and New Haven 5½s, 2½, with other liens of those roads gaining 1 to 1½ points. Texas and Pacific firsts and Central New England 4s were among the few weak spots in that group.

Producers' and Refiners' Oil 5s, with warrants, which slumped 4 points, off 2 points, led the reaction in oil-company bonds. Lackawanna Steel 5s of 1950 and Goodyear Rubber 8s of 1931 also were weak. Chile Copper 7s, Cerro de Pasco 8s and Bethlehem Steel 6s were strong. Brooklyn Rapid Transit issues gave a good exhibition of strength, the 5s gaining 3¾ points and the 7s and stamped 7s 2¾ and 2 points, respectively.

Total sales, par value, were $11,323,000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Following are the closing bond quotations on the New York Stock Exchange. Furnished by Logan & Bryan.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

OTTAWA, Jan. 24.—Following a communication received from President Harding by Premier MacKenzie King, it was announced last night that the government of Canada would be ready at any time to consider the opening of negotiations with United States officials concerning the making of a treaty with the United States on the St. Lawrence deep waterway scheme.

PROBLEMS OF THE INCOME TAX

BY JOHN G. HENDRON, JR.

[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

Growth in the popularity of income insurance is well recognized. The insurance agent who most fully protects the interest of his clients and prospects, however, in selling them insurance should be familiar with one very important tax ruling concerning such insurance. The law specifically states that the proceeds of life insurance policies paid upon the death of the insured shall be excluded from gross income. It is, however, recognized throughout the tax law that the income one may receive from gifts, inheritances and so forth may be taxable, although the principal itself is tax-exempt.

There are three conditions under which a person may receive income from an insurance policy, according to the views of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

First, it may be provided in the policy that upon the death of the insured the beneficiary may elect to receive a specified principal sum or the income therefrom at a certain rate, the principal to be paid to the beneficiary's legal representative upon his or her death. In such event, the department holds that the beneficiary has elected to reinvest the proceeds of the insurance policy so as to yield a fixed annual return and that such an amount is income subject to tax.

Second, if it be assumed there is no option specified in the policy, but that upon the death of the insured the insurance company presented the beneficiary the choice of methods of payment, and that the beneficiary chose to receive an annual sum representing the income from the policy, with a further proviso that his or her legal representative should receive the principal, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has held that in this case the same ruling applies as in the first case.

Third, in the case of a policy so drawn that the beneficiary has no right to receive anything except a specified annual income on the principal sum, which principal sum will upon the beneficiary's death be paid to some designated person, it was held that the proceeds the beneficiary received were the proceeds of the policy and as such were not taxable. It is of importance to note that the Solicitor of Internal Revenue has acquiesced in this ruling, according to Law Opinion No. 995.

Under present law, neither an individual, partnership, corporation, estate, trust nor association receives any taxable gain upon the death of the insured from the proceeds of his or her life insurance policy.

If a person takes out an endowment policy on his own life he is not taxable on the entire amount of the proceeds, but may offset such proceeds by the full amount of the premiums he paid to the insurance company, but he may not add thereto any interest.

Whatever a person receives as a result of the payment of accident or health insurance is not taxable either to the insured, if he continues to live, or his estate in the event of his death. No Federal tax is permissible on any of the allotments, family allowances, compensation or death or disability insurance paid under the War Risk Insurance Act.

Pensions paid by the United States for service of the beneficiary or another in the military or naval forces of the United States in time of war is exempt from tax. Such forces include the Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Army nurse corps (female) and naval nurse corps (female.)

line will be completed within the next thirty days, according to an announcement made by the company yesterday. The construction of the bridge was necessitated by the action of the Los Angeles county flood control board in defining a new channel for the waters of the river.

The bridge has been five months in the process of building, and during the interval the Long Beach traffic has shunted off on a one-mile "shoe-fly" track. When the work is finally completed, it is expected that much better service will be available to the Long Beach patrons of the company.

The bridge, which is an all-steel structure, is being reinforced by twenty-eight steel girders to be put in place this week. Seven concrete piers have already been built and when the bridge proper is finished, the track will be raised five feet above the former level.

NEW LISTINGS

Action of the listing committee of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange in passing the applications of three new companies to list their stock has been approved by the board of governors, and trading in the new issues will begin Wednesday. The corporations whose stock was admitted are the Stewart Fruit Company, Mortgage Guarantee Company and the Gold Road Annex Mines Company.

The entrance of the securities of the three companies marks the beginning of a period of expansion for the local exchange. Applications are coming to the listing committee in unprecedented volume, although approval is given only after careful scrutiny on the part of the officials of the exchange. It is expected that several other issues, whose petitions are now pending, will be granted trading privileges in the near future.

The Stewart Fruit Company is capitalized at $1,000,000, of which $750,000 is in preferred stock, and $250,000 in common. Of the preferred, $350,000 is outstanding and all of the authorized common is in the hands of the public. The common only will be traded in on the exchange. W. H. Stewart is president of the company, G. A. Charters, vice-president, and F. H. Dindenspeil, secretary. The Stewart Fruit Company packs and markets all varieties of California fruits, owning packing-houses in various parts of the State.

The Mortgage Guarantee Company has a capitalization of $2,500,000 of authorized and outstanding stock, the rate on which is 7 per cent. The company has paid thirty-five dividends to its stockholders. Morgan Adams is president, Harry Lee Martin vice-president, George S. Seward secretary and Edgar G. Harkness treasurer.

The Gold Road Annex Mines Company is located near the old Gold Roads mines, from which a substantial tonnage of ore has been taken in the past. The new company is capitalized at $1,500,000 of common stock, all of which is outstanding. The par value is $1. The president of the corporation is Leonidas M. Hopkins, and the other officers are Charles H. Kertschman, vice-president; Frederick W. Perkins, secretary and treasurer.

NEW VICE-PRESIDENT

P. C. Turman has been elected vice-president of the Southwest State Bank, located at the Los Angeles Union Stockyards. The bank is showing a fine growth, according to officials, deposits advancing from $208,065.35 on the opening day, November 22 last, to $525,281.16 at the date of the bank call, December 29.

The newly elected executive has been in the banking business in California for seventeen years, and in Los Angeles since 1914. He has been an instructor in the banking classes of the American Institute of Banking and was for a number of years cashier of the Union Bank and Trust Company, and later with the Commercial National in charge of branch establishment. His experience is said to have been particularly broad in livestock financing.

MINING MEETING

Stockholders of the Yellow Dog Mining Company elected the following directors at the annual meeting held Tuesday: John F. Withers, Burt Fisher, Walter B. Kibbey and George Stoneman. Officers chosen by the directors are John F. Withers, president; Burt Fisher, vice-president; Ellis Mallery, consulting engineer. The properties of the company are located in the Mojave mining district, adjoining the townsite of Goldtown.

A Rule for Investors

When selecting an investment it is always a wise rule to choose a security whose dependability has been proven by the test of time.

Our Investment Certificates have stood this test for 36 years without a dollar's loss to any investor. In days of depression and panic their value has never fluctuated, interest has been paid promptly when due, withdrawals have been met in cash at par, strictly in accordance with the contract—a record equaled by few financial institutions.

These Certificates are issued at any time, for any amount from $100 up in even hundreds, and yield 6% per annum, payable semi-annually, free from all state and local taxes.

Installment Accounts, yielding 6%, may be opened for any amount from $1.00 up.

Each holder of capital stock of the new Cuyamel Fruit Company will, as evidenced by endorsement on his stock certificate, be entitled to a pro rata interest in the stock of Cortes Development Company, the entire capital stock of which company is to be held by trustees for the benefit of such Cuyamel Fruit Company stockholders, subject to the terms of a trust agreement defining the rights of the persons beneficially interested therein.

Information regarding this issue and the business of the company is given in a letter from Mr. Samuel Zemurray, president, from which he summarizes in part as follows:

HISTORY and GROWTH The new Cuyamel Fruit Company is to succeed to the business of the Cuyamel Fruit Company of South Dakota, which is engaged primarily the cultivation, transportation and marketing of bananas. This comp was incorporated in 1911 to hold and develop lands and concessions along the Cuya River in Honduras. The Cortes Development Company is a Honduran corporation wh was organized in 1919 to carry on that part of the business which could best be conducte through a local company. With the acquisition and development of other properties in Honduras and Nicaragua, the construction of railroad lines, wharves, etc., and the purchase of additional ships, the company's banana business has increased from 275,000 bunches in 1912 to over 5,000,000 in 1922; and conservative estimates for 1923 look for the handling of upwards of 6,000,000 bunches.

PROFITS: The net profits for the periods indicated below of Cuyamel Fruit Company, Cortes Development Company and subsidiary companies, after deducting all charges (including income and profits taxes paid by the American companies) except interest upon indebtedness equal to 6% upon the amount of new money provided by the present financing, as certified by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., public accountants, have been as follows:

Year Ending December 31, 1920—
Cuyamel Fruit Company	$ 480,705.54
Cortes Development Company	1,366,153.33—
	$1,846,258.87
Year Ending December 31, 1921—
Cuyamel Fruit Company	$594,593.43
Cortes Development Company	772,651.01—
	$1,367,244.44
*Eleven months ending November 30, 1922—
Cuyamel Fruit Company	$1,008,398.47
Cortes Development Company	493,404.38—
	$1,501,802.85

*This includes only nine months of the New Orleans-Bluefields Fruit and Transportation Co.

ASSETS: The combined balance sheet as of November 30, 1922, as certified by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., public accountants, after giving effect to the present financing, shows net assets of $13,658,760.03 after deducting all liabilities, which shows a book value of about $54.50 per share.

It is expected that the new company will commence the payment of dividends at the annual rate of $4 per share.

All legal matters in connection with this issue will be subject to the approval of Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell and Messrs. Guggenheimer, Untermeyer & Marshall, representing the bankers, and Messrs. Monroe & Lemann of New Orleans, representing the company, and this offering is made in all respects subject to such approval.

Stronger Tone Is Uncovered in Grain Mart

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—A favorable report on the foreign trade bill by the Senate committee combined with short covering, made a much stronger undertone in the grain markets. Pressure was less pronounced and sentiment underwent a slight change. Wheat closed ½c higher to ½c lower, the latter on September, while corn was up ¾@¾c, oats ¼c, and rye ½c.

There was some selling of wheat at the start by commission houses, which made an opening decline of as much as ¾c, but at no time did the market show pronounced weakness and there was persistent buying by houses with eastern connections on the dips and the local elements were less disposed to press the bear side despite a break of ¼d in Liverpool in the face of an advance here Tuesday.

Spreaders were active in selling May wheat at Minneapolis and buying here and there was also selling of July here against purchases at Winnipeg. May at Minneapolis closed ½c under Chicago, against ½c premium the previous day, and Chicago July went to 5¾c under May, against 4¾c on Tuesday. Export demand was rather inactive, although some hard winter afloat was sold abroad. A better cash demand was reported in the Southwest, with some inquiry for flour for export. Dry weather continues in Western Kansas and Oklahoma, with the forecast for more in the two States overnight.

Bullish sentiment in corn was somewhat more pronounced than of late, the government report on the number of hogs on farms with the foreign grain credit bill bringing in fair commission house and local buying and at the top May showed 9¼c over the low of the previous day. Country offerings are small and receipts here light. There was a fair export demand at the seaboard and New York reported premiums on cash grain 1c higher. Arrivals, 472 cars.

Cash and commission houses bought May oats and with only moderate pressure they showed relatively more strength than other grades. Shipping demand only fair. Considerable oats seeding has already been done in Texas, where recent rains were highly beneficial. Receipts, 65 cars.

Rye market was rather dull, and there was an absence of aggressive export demand, but with wheat higher an advance was attained. The two Northwestern markets received 125 cars.

PRODUCE MARKET

Trading yesterday was only moderate. The demand was lighter on account of the weather and some lines showed accumulations under heavy receipts. Most home-grown vegetables are in liberal supply and receipts of staple vegetables, especially potatoes, are in excess of daily requirements. Fruits generally are selling slowly with cooler weather. Imperial Valley lettuce of good quality and in the larger sizes is meeting with good demand, but the smaller sizes, although mostly firm and crisp, are selling at a heavy discount.

Actual prices obtained between 7 and 8 o'clock today by Los Angeles jobbers from their sales to retailers, peddlers, hotels, restaurants, cafeterias, etc., as compiled by U. S. Bureau of Markets:

PARTICIPATE IN THE PROFITS OF OIL REFINING

Seven Years of Remarkable Success

Are back of the Common Stock offering of the Rio Grande Oil (Refining) Company, operating refineries at El Paso, Texas, and Phoenix, Arizona.

This Company confines its operations to refining and marketing.

Each $1000.00 of the original investment (January, 1916,) has earned and the investor has received to date, $11,000 in stock dividends, and $4800 cash.

Present Invested capital over $500,000. Book value after paying the above dividends is considerably above par. Annual sales approximately $2,500,000.

For the purpose of building its third refinery, to be located in Los Angeles, a block of its Common Stock will be sold at par $100 per share.

The Company issues only Common Stock and it participates in the profits of all three plants.

The Directors have established a policy of Cash Dividends at the rate of 12% Annually (3% Quarterly,) and stock dividends as surplus accumulates.

DELAY IS URGED IN REFUGEE EXPULSION

POLES ASKED TO WITHHOLD ACTION WHILE VISES OBTAINED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—A request that the Polish government postpone execution of a decree effective March 1 for expulsion from that country of 10,000 Ukrainian Jews who have taken refuge there during and since the war was presented today to the new Polish Minister, Dr. Vladislav Trublevsky, by a delegation representing the federation of Ukrainian Jews.

The delegation asked that the refugees be permitted to remain in Poland until they can obtain vises from consuls of other nations where they might be admitted. It was urged that execution of the decree March 1 might force some of the refugees to return to Ukrainia and entail great hardship for them.

The delegation later called on Ambassador Le Breton of Argentina and asked him to urge upon his government that admission to his country of the Ukrainian refugees in Poland might be facilitated. He expressed sympathy for the refugees and informed the delegation that vises were being granted freely to them by the Argentine consuls in Poland.

FORD-FOR-PRESIDENT PETITIONS ARE SIGNED

PLENTY OF NAMES ASSERTED OBTAINED FOR STATE BALLOT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OMAHA, Jan. 24.—Officers of the American Economic League, which has opened national headquarters here, said that three times as many signatures as are necessary to place the name of Henry Ford, Detroit manufacturer, on Nebraska's Presidential preference primary ballot in 1924 has been obtained to petitions circulated through activities of the league.

The movement is said to be the outgrowth of the Nebraska Progressive party, organized in 1922.

Roy Harrop, Omaha attorney, and unsuccessful candidate for Congress on the Progressive ticket last fall, is president of the league, and E. E. Witham of Ogden, Utah, is secretary.

PARKER WARNS KLAN LEADERS

Threatens Martial Law if Witnesses Are Bothered

Troops to Leave Morehouse Parish This Week

Hooded Gang Hearing to be Concluded Thursday

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BASTROP (La.) Jan. 24.—With troops on duty in Morehouse parish in connection with the State's investigation into the activities of hooded men scheduled to depart immediately, and with the hearings expected to be concluded tomorrow, Adjt. Gen. Toombs arrived here today with a message from Gov. Parker to leaders of the Ku Klux Klan and officials of the parish. It was learned that if any State witnesses were threatened in any way between the conclusion of the hearing and the trial of persons who may be indicted by the grand jury, to which body the testimony obtained at the investigation will be presented about March 1, martial law in the parish would be declared immediately.

Gen. Toombs, refusing to deny or confirm this report, said cavalry units at Mer Rouge and Bastrop and the four automatic riflemen here would return home either tomorrow or Friday.

The hearing, which was to have been concluded today after having been in progress since January 5, struck a snag when the last witness telephoned that illness made it impossible for him to arrive here before tonight.

"MYSTERY WITNESS"

The absentee is the "mystery witness," Leon L. Jones, a traveling salesman of Moselle, Miss., who is expected to testify regarding the last known movements of the hooded kidnapers of Watt Daniel and T. F. Richard, whose bodies were found in Lake La Fourche December 22.

The salesman, it is said, told Marshal Mott, a student at the University of Mississippi, that while he was in his disabled car an automobile truck containing several masked men and two others, apparently prisoners, passed him bound toward the lake. Afterward, it was said he will testify, the truck with the hooded men, but without the prisoners, returned. Jones recently was located by agents of the Department of Justice.

H. H. Riordan, general manager in the Monroe district for the Southern Carbon Company, brought into court the time book and payroll records kept by Harold Teegerstrom, missing timekeeper of the company's plant at Spyker, who disappeared December 29.

T. Jeff Burnett, former deputy sheriff of Morehouse parish and an employee of the carbon company, it has been testified by several witnesses was recognized as one of the hooded men who kidnaped Daniel and Richard.

The timebook showed Burnett working the night of August 24 and according to the totals it showed he had earned $55.38 during the half-month period. The regular pay, according to the pay roll, was $62.40. Mr. Riordan could not explain the discrepancy. Examination of the check issued Burnett showed it was for $62.40.

RECORD SHOWS ERASURE

An erasure appears opposite Burnett's name on the pay roll but Mr. Riordan said no explanation had been made to him either by Teegerstrom or S. I. Bennett, superintendent.

Tom Robinson, a farmer, who was flogged by hooded men, told of that incident. Sunday, June 18, he said, he, his fifteen-year-old niece and young son had gone to Sunrise Church, where Robinson had charge of the choir. Before other members of the congregation or the pastor came, he said, several automobiles filled with hooded men appeared. He was ordered into one of the cars, blindfolded and taken some distance and placed across a log and beaten. His captors asked him if he would "quit this lawless gang, dip his cattle, be a man and not talk any more."

Robinson said he had received a note accusing him of blowing up dipping vats, the communication reaching him about three days before he was whipped. He learned later, he said, that on the day he was beaten the mob picked up Oscar Meek.

B. J. Peterson told of the hold-up on the Bastrop-Mer Rouge highway August 24, when Daniel and Richard were kidnaped. His story was similar to that of others who were stopped.

AGED SWINDLER AFOUL LAW

Charles Fischer Sentenced For Substituting Slug For Nickel

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Charles Fischer, 70 years of age, former head of an international band of forgers and swindlers whose operations netted them hundreds of thousands of dollars, fell afoul the law again today for substituting a brass slug for a nickel in a subway turnstile. He was sentenced to ten days.

Fischer, according to investigators, had led a life of crime since he was 12 years of age, and has spent many years in prisons here and abroad.

HAVANA STUDENTS IN HUGE DEMONSTRATION

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HAVANA, Jan. 24.—Striking students of the University of Havana made a big demonstration this afternoon in their campaign for educational and administrative reforms and to secure university autonomy. As the parade was passing the Presidential palace a commission from the students' foundation presented President Zayas with a petition asking his co-operation with the students. Numerous business houses closed their doors during the demonstration. There was no disorder.

An Experience of a Nurse

Mrs. A. Dixon, a well-known Brooklyn trained nurse, made the following statement regarding gray hair: "Streaked, faded or gray hair can be quickly turned black, brown or light brown, by the use of the following remedy that you can make at home:

"Merely get a box of Orlex powder at any drug store. It costs very little and no extras to buy. Dissolve it in 2 oz. of distilled or rain water and comb it through the hair. Full directions for mixing and use and a gold bond guarantee come in each box. One box will last you for months.

It is safe, it does not rub off, is not sticky or gummy and leaves the hair fluffy. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."—[Advertisement.

VOL. XLII. THURSDAY MORNING, JANUARY 25, 1923.—PART II. 20 PAGES. POPULATION [illegible]

REAPPORTIONMENT URGED BY REPUBLICAN GROUPS

Six Counties Are Represented at Conference That Demands Legislative Action

The Republican committees of six southern counties yesterday joined in resolutions urging the Legislature to make an equitable reapportionment under the last Federal census so that Southern California may enjoy its long-delayed constitutional rights of legislative representation according to its population.

City governments, civic societies, clubs and individuals in Southern California should address their letters or telegrams demanding our rights in reapportionment to their respective Senators and Assemblymen or to Senator Charles W. Lyon, chairman of the Southern California delegation at Sacramento, asking him to bring the matter to the attention of his colleagues.

The action was taken at a luncheon meeting at the Hotel Clark, called by Ralph Arnold as chairman of the Los Angeles Central Committee and was attended by chairmen of neighboring counties.

The spirit of the meeting was that all the south joins in demanding an immediate reapportionment as a matter of principle made imperative by the constitution, regardless of benefit, for some of the southern counties will not find their position bettered. They feel, however, that refusal by the Legislature to comply with the constitution in this regard would establish a dangerous precedent that would wreck the very foundation of the State government.

ATTITUDE OF MAYOR

"I like to feel," said Mayor Cryer, "that if I were a member of the Legislature I should vote for this measure even if my county lost by it. It is a matter of principle first. The Legislatures took an oath to uphold the constitution and I think that those that refuse to do so now come pretty near being laid open to impeachment."

The indignation against the brazen blocking of the South's rights grew yesterday in many quarters. The leading local civic organizations sent telegrams to Gov. Richardson congratulating him on his firm stand that the Constitution must be upheld in this and other regards. Local societies and individuals continued to express intolerance with the situation, whereby Los Angeles county is being taxed out of all proportion with her representation.

Under reapportionment based on the last census, as the constitution specifies must be done, Los Angeles county would have ten Senators instead of the present eight and twenty-one Assemblymen instead of the present fifteen.

REPUBLICANS' RESOLUTIONS

The resolution adopted at the meeting of Republican central committeemen yesterday read as follows:

"Whereas, conditions have arisen which seem to require prompt and immediate action on the part of representatives of Southern California in the State Legislature in order to secure proper reapportionment of the Assembly and Senatorial districts of the State in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution, and

"Whereas, there appears to be a disposition on the part of representatives of some districts within the State to utterly disregard their duties and obligations under the Constitution and to delay unnecessarily and unjustifiably such reapportionment,

"Now, therefore be it resolved by this committee representing Republican county central committees of certain counties of Southern California, namely Orange, Los Angeles, Imperial, Ventura, Inyo and Santa Barbara counties, that we urge upon our Representatives in the State Legislature that steps be immediately taken to secure such constitutional reapportionment.

"Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to each Representative from Southern California in the State Legislature.

"W. F. MENTON,
Chairman, Orange county.
"RALPH ARNOLD,
Los Angeles county.
"H. F. ORR,
Ventura county.
"F. H. SCHAUER,
Santa Barbara county.
"MAB COPELAND LINEMAN,
Los Angeles county.
"A. A. SHIRLEY,
Inyo county.
"JOHN ROBERT WHITE, JR.,

MANY OTHERS PRESENT

Others present who voted unanimously to demand a legal reapportionment were as follows: Arthur W. Eckman, Los Angeles Republican County Central Committee; T. B. Talbert, Huntington Beach, chairman Board of Supervisors, Orange county, Los Angeles Republican County Central Committee; W. H. Archdeacon, Pasadena; W. R. Kilgore, Los Angeles; R. F. NEW SCALE OF PAY FOR POLICEMEN

Tentatively Agreed to Start Them at $140 and Increase to $170

The new scale of pay for policemen, and perhaps also for firemen, will start at $140 per month, adding $10 a month each year till $170 monthly is reached, it was tentatively decided yesterday, following receipt by members of the City Council of copies of the resolution adopted Tuesday by the Crime Commission.

The Finance Committee will adopt the new schedule at its meeting Friday morning, it was said, and present it to the Council for action.

"We believe this increase will be sufficient to enable Chief Oaks to recruit the force up to requirements," a member said. "Whether the increase will produce this result ought to be evident in thirty to sixty days and it can then be determined what further action is necessary."

Accompanying the copies of the resolution were letters of transmittal signed by Walter E. Tuller, chairman, calling the Councilman's attention to the resolutions. This letter said in part:

"The commission feels that the responsibility properly falls upon the City Council to provide such a schedule of pay sufficient to recruit the necessary number of men of the quality required to adequately police the city."

Arbuckle Gets New York Offer for Stage Play

Despite the wave of protest against his re-appearance that is still breaking in various parts of the country, "Fatty" Arbuckle, now at work here on his first film since he was "pardoned" by Will Hays, has received an offer to appear on the stage in New York, it was learned yesterday.

The offer, it was said, came from Weber & Fields, well-known in the theatrical world, and would give Arbuckle a chance to appear in a revue. He is said to be considering seriously an appearance behind the footlights.

WARNING SOUNDED AGAINST WHITE-COLLARED BEGGARS "WORKING" IN LOS ANGELES

The following is an open letter to the business men and ministers of Los Angeles, issued yesterday by E. H. Hancock, district superintendent of the Public Employment Bureau:

Complaints have reached me that a number of able-bodied, high-brow, white-collar beggars are making a fat living out of the funds they are able to wheedle out of you on the grounds that they can not get work.

You are fostering a big menace to the City of Los Angeles and Southern California every time you give one of these vultures a nickel. You are helping to build up a crew of buccaneers who will not work.

Any time that one of these pirates gets into your office give him my address at 312 Tajo Building; then an hour later telephone me and see if me came to me seeking work. You can rest assured that 99 out of each 100 will not.

I will undertake to furnish a job to every one of these men who will come to my office and apply. It will not be any soft-handed, white-collar position. It will be a job, however, that will maintain them decently until they can get something better.

If you continue to feed them do not blame anybody but yourself and do not complain. If you will take a solemn resolve not to give these panhandlers another cent during the coming winter this city will be free from half the gentry that collect from you at the time you are passing a dark alley.

E. H. HANCOCK,
District Superintendent Public Employment Bureau. Telephone Broadway 6494.

ANGELENOS BUY FORTY THEATERS

Deal Probably Is Largest Ever Completed

West Coast Firm Takes Over Turner and Dahnken

Headquarters to be Located in Los Angeles

To Los Angeles comes the honor of housing the headquarters of the greatest chain of theaters in the world showing motion pictures.

The West Coast Theaters, Inc., announce the purchase of the entire Turner & Dahnken circuit in the State of California. This involves many millions of dollars and means a tremendous victory for the motion-picture industry in the West. Interested parties would name no specific sum, but it is known the deal involves more than $5,000,000.

Michael Gore, Sol Lesser and A. L. Gore, president, vice-president and secretary, respectively, of the West Coast Theaters, Inc., have been in San Francisco for several days conferring with executives of the Turner & Dahnken chain. Word over the telephone was received yesterday from Sol Lesser to the effect that a deal had been consummated whereby the West Coast organization will possess every theater on the Turner & Dahnken chain.

Local confirmation of this colossal theatrical transaction was obtained from Claude L. Langley, active member of the T. D. and L. circuit of the southland. Mr. Langley, who has just returned from San Francisco, was instrumental in the consummation of the deal.

INVOLVES FORTY THEATERS

More than forty theaters are involved in the transaction, which added to the sixty-two houses now on the West Coast banner, bring the total now controlled by Gore Bros., Ramish and Sol Lesser to more than 100.

In addition to this purchase, which in itself is probably the biggest outright deal ever made in picture history, the West Coast Theaters have obtained important franchises for all of Northern California. They controlled these releases in Southern California and Arizona prior to the transaction. The Educational Film Corporation franchise for the northern part of the State also becomes the property of this chain.

On the heels of this announcement comes additional word from local theater men in San Francisco that valuable franchises, including the Educational Film Corporation for the entire Sate of New York, also have been purchased. This in itself is of utmost importance to the film world, and to all its branches and means that the West Coast Theaters, Inc., and the many studio production activities, of which Sol Lesser is in charge, make the West Coast organization one of the strongest chains of its kind in the world.

Chief among the attractions involved are the Sol Lesser productions starring Jackie Coogan, Thomas H. Ince offerings in which players of the importance of Douglas McLean, Madge Bellamy, John Bowers, Milton Sills, Marguerite De la Motte, and others are features, Joseph M. Schenck productions starring Norma and Constance Talmadge, Edwin Carewe productions, B. P. Schulberg-Katherine MacDonald offerings and many others of equal importance.

EXPLOIT COMEDIES

Chief among those on the Educational banner that the West Coast will exploit on their screens are the Jack White Mermaid comedies, Lloyd Hamilton comedies, Kinograms and many one-reel subjects of merit.

Adolph Ramish, treasurer of the West Coast organization, who remained in Los Angeles while his associates went to San Francisco, is highly delighted with the news of the deal.

"It means," says Mr. Ramish, "that Los Angeles is forging ahead in the theater channel of industry as in all others. It means much to the film world in every department. It was only two years ago that our circuit maintained but seventeen theaters. Today we have more than one hundred—all doing an excellent business—all showing the highest class photoplays. With this latest annexation of the Turner & Dahnken circuit, I feel safe in saying that the West Coast Theaters, Inc., can be regarded as one of the greatest financial and motion-picture powers of the industry."

In speaking of the transaction Sol Lesser, vice-president of the company, stated this new affiliation, along with his production activities recently launched makes the theater chain able to function in all channels of the industry. Lesser is in charge of the production end of the industry. His new and elaborate studios have just been opened in Hollywood and under his guidance many of the coming season's screen classics will be created. It was Lesser who gave the film world the Jackie Coogan productions—all of them since "the kid" severed connections with Chaplin.

Chief among the theaters that have been annexed to the West Coast chain in this transaction are the big Tivoli of San Francisco, the Turner & Dahnken theaters of Oakland, Berkeley, Sacramento, San Jose, Salinas, Richmond, Watsonville, Stockton and many other northern cities.

In the Southland, Turner and Dahnken controlled interests in theaters in Pasadena, Huntington Park, Riverside, and other towns. The West Coast organization held the other portion of the holdings. With the announcement of this transaction, comes word that the Turner & Dahnken interests in these Southern California houses come under the sole ownership of the West Coast Theaters, Inc.

MINTER FAMILY AT PEACE

Mary Miles Will Not Sue Her Mother; Is Going East and Louis Sherwin Hopes She Will Marry Him

Things are turning out nicely for Mary Miles Minter. Her threatened lawsuit against her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Shelby, over an accounting for the $1,000,000 Miss Minter has earned as a Lasky star, has been abandoned. Instead of starting a court action she is planning to leave soon for the East to build a country home at Westchester, N. Y., to study music and perhaps to marry.

According to Miss Minter her mother has made a satisfactory accounting of the custody of her immense earnings. Also, Miss Minter asserts, she is not averse to becoming Mrs. Louis Sherwin after Mr. Sherwin, prominent dramatic critic, playwright and scenarist, had secured his divorce from his wife from whom he has been separated since 1914. Hollywood gossip has coupled the name of the twain for some time past and the rumor that they are to wed has been persistent.

TO SHERWIN'S HOME

Soon after Miss Minter admitted her Eastern trip would include music and perhaps matrimony, The Times' reporter yesterday afternoon accompanied her to Mr. Sherwin's home in Laurel Canyon where the playwright modestly admitted that he is again contemplating matrimony and that he aspired to the hand of Miss Minter as soon as the legal bonds binding him to Mrs. Sherwin and the three little Sherwins, now living at Oyster Bay, N. Y., could be dissolved in the divorce court. Proceedings will be instituted soon he intimated.

The Sherwins have been estranged for the past decade, the husband admits. His romance with Miss Minter is not a year old.

Frequent showers during the morning yesterday, accompanied by balmy breezes, brought spring weather in Los Angeles in midwinter. The rain resumed a few minutes after midnight yesterday and three small showers before daylight. Again at 9 a. m., the rain commenced to fall at intervals until noon.

The rainfall has been general over Southern California showing a gentle and beneficial fall of moisture at all points with no damage of any kind reported.

New heavy falls of snow are reported from the mountains in the northern part of the State, and rains have been general at all points north of Fresno. Indications for both Northern and Southern California are for more rain today.

John Fairbanks, Doug's Brother, Suffers Stroke

John Fairbanks, brother of Douglas Fairbanks and business manager of the motion-picture studios bearing his brother's name, was confined to his bed yesterday with a stroke of paralysis.

Mr. Fairbanks was stricken at 6 a. m. Dr. L. J. Huff and Dr. R. G. Brainerd were summoned to the Fairbanks home at 1725 Camino Palmero. The physicians reported Fairbanks condition as favorable later in the day and predicted he would be well enough to return to the studios soon.

University of Munich Man Will Lecture on Theories Daily for Fortnight

Dr. Arnold Sommerfeld, professor of theoretical physics at the University of Munich, arrived in Pasadena yesterday to lecture for the next two weeks at the California Institute of Technology.

Dr. Sommerfeld is considered one of the two or three leading physicists of the world. During the past semester he has been the Carl Schurz exchange professor at the University of Wisconsin.

In his lectures here Dr. Sommerfeld will discuss the most recent developments on the theories of quanta and relativity. His first lecture will be given in the lecture hall of the Norman Bridge Laboratory at 4 o'clock this afternoon. He will lecture four times a week, the days and hours to be announced. The institute extends a cordial invitation to all students of physics to attend.

After leaving here, Dr. Sommerfeld will deliver a few lectures at other educational institutions on the Pacific Coast.

VALENTINO IS SIGNED FOR KEITH

Cinema Star Will Dance on Vaudeville Circuit; His New Wife Also to Appear

Rodolph Valentino, cinema star, who has had a falling out with the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, and who is now under permanent injunction which prevents his appearing in motion pictures for any other firm until the Lasky contract expires about two years from now, signed a contract yesterday in New York to appear on the B. F. Keith vaudeville circuit.

The contract, signed with permission of the courts, specifies that Valentino and his wife, Winifred Hudnut, are to appear in a vaudeville sketch which shall include Valentino's famous tango scene from his screen success "The Four Horsemen of The Apocalypse." The star's salary is named as $4000 per week and his initial appearance in vaudeville will be week after next in New York City.

Before he became a motion-picture star, Valentino was well known as a cabaret and stage dancer.

DENBY FAVORS RODMAN PLAN

Secretary of Navy Approves Submarine Removal

Indorses San Diego as Site for Permanent Base

Future Action May be Put Up to Harding

That Secretary of the Navy Denby has approved the recommendations of the Rodman board on shore stations, favoring the removal of the submarine base from Los Angeles Harbor to San Diego, was the information received yesterday in telegrams from the Secretary of the Navy to Congressman Osborne and Councilman Langdon, chairman of the Harbor Committee of the City Council.

The Secretary's telegrams were in response to those sent by Councilman Langdon upon instructions of the City Council and Congressman Osborne that protests be forwarded to Washington against the removal of the submarine base and pointing out that Los Angeles has for years given and is now giving valuable space at the harbor for a temporary submarine base with the hope and expectation that the permanent base would be established here on a 169-acre site already set aside by the city for this purpose.

Secretary Denby's telegrams follow:

"F. C. Langdon, Chairman Harbor Committee, Los Angeles, Cal.—Your wire of eighteenth received. The Rodman board recommended in the interests of efficiency and economy that the base be consolidated with destroyer activities at San Diego. This matter has been given the utmost consideration by the department and I have approved the recommendation of the board."

"Congressman Henry Z. Osborne, Los Angeles, Cal.—Your wire of the nineteenth received. I regret you do not approve of the Rodman board recommendations for the removal of the Submarine Base from Los Angeles to San Diego. This matter has been given the greatest consideration by the board and the Navy Department. I have approved the recommendations of the board."

Both messages were received in the form of radiograms at the harbor from Secretary of War Denby yesterday morning.

COUNCILMAN'S STATEMENT

Councilman Langdon said: of the Navy Denby, in my opinion, does not settle the matter, for President Harding and Congress are yet to approve of the removal of the base, and I am hoping that eventually Los Angeles will win out in its fight to retain the station. Various naval boards have reported that Los Angeles Harbor is the best suited of all Pacific ports for a submarine base for the Pacific Fleet and the city has done so much for the Navy in depriving the municipality of space at the city's freight sheds and wharves in the outer harbor, in order to give the temporary base a headquarters here that I am confident that our gifts to the Navy will secure due recognition and that the base will stay and the permanent base be established here. HER TROUBLES NEVER END

Bertha Bennett Identified in San Francisco Court as Recipient of Nurse's "Christmas Pardon"

Bertha Bennett, Los Angeles beauty, arrested in San Francisco as a shoplifter, dope-user and bad-check passer, was identified yesterday as Betty Arnold, alias Maxine Bancroft, who escaped from the County Hospital jail ward here when she was given a "Christmas pardon" by Psychopathic Nurse Rosette Smith. Miss Smith was arrested and sent to the same ward for allowing the Bennett girl to escape.

The identification was made yesterday by Detectives Charles Maher and James Hansen when the case was to come up before Judge Daniel S. O'Brien in San Francisco.

"I know you'll go straight now, God bless you and keep you on the narrow path," said Miss Smith, the nurse, tearfully as she hugged the apparently penitent Bennett girl farewell and opened the door to freedom.

Miss Bennett has been "going straight" in San Francisco by living at the Palace hotel and paying her bills with bad checks, shopping lavishly with the same kind of paper, using and peddling dope, beating taxi bills, etc., according to the police complaint against her.

HELD FOR FORGERY

The Bennett girl was being held on a forgery charge here. She set fire to her bed by going to sleep with a cigaret in her mouth and was removed to the hospital.

When the nurse was faced with prison charges for aiding the escape, she said she felt sure Miss Bennett would return and get her out of the scrape.

The detectives faced the girl in the dock yesterday morning, paged a few of her aliases and told her they had the goods on her. She smiled sweetly and said: "Well, what would you do if you were in the stir and some one told you to beat it, and then showed you how? Well, what would you do?"

The girl, who admits she is a dope addict, says that since being in San Francisco, she has been friendly with a married couple, who are also addicts and that they had been stealing and passing bad checks and using the proceeds for narcotics.

She said she had a quarrel with a man recently and he turned informer and reported to the police she was wanted in Los Angeles.

Deprived of narcotics in the City Prison, the woman was on the verge of collapse and puffed constantly at cigarettes, lighting one after another. She said she had been an addict five months and had been taught the habit by her circle of companions in the underworld of Los Angeles.

JURY GETS MURDER FACTS

Indictment in Fritzi Mann Case Expected by Officials; Handwriting to Be Basis for Action

An indictment charging murder was expected late last night in the case of the tragic death of Fritzi Mann, popular San Diego dancer. The indictment, it was reported, would be based on the handwriting found on the register at the La Jolla cottage, where Fritzi spent the night with the man believed to be responsible for her death.

The impending grand jury quiz of the mystery was launched yesterday afternoon on the return to San Diego of Dist.-Atty. Chester Kempley. The San Diego official, with two detectives, has been conducting a quiet investigation in Los Angeles and Long Beach for several days. While in this city a well-known handwriting expert was employed. It is reported that on this expert's statement the indictment was to be asked.

The man who took Fritzi to La Jolla on the night of the 14th inst., registered as "Wm. Johnston and wife." San Diego chirographers stated that the handwriting on the register was similar to that of Capt. Louis L. Jacobs, who was held as a suspect for several days and was then released because of insufficient evidence.

Dist.-Atty. Kempley announced, after a conference with Chief of Police Patrick late last night, that he will call before the grand jury this morning all of the witnesses he has interviewed during the investigation. These witnesses will include Capt. Louis L. Jacobs, Roger V. B. Clark, Helen Whitney, Miss Billie Minor and A. E. Kearn.

Jacobs and Clark were arrested as suspects and later released because of lack of evidence. Miss Whitney was Fritzi's San Diego chum who furnished the authorities with information which led to the arrest of Dr. Jacobs. Miss Minor, a magazine writer, was mentioned by Dr. Jacobs as his assistant in a plan to have a delicate operation performed upon Fritzi.

earn is the proprietor of the Blue Sea Cottages at La Jolla, which Fritzi visited, on the night of her death, with a man whom police believe to be responsible for her death. Though he had only had a passing glance at the girl he immediately identified her as Fritzi Mann. He would not positively identify Jacobs as her escort, though he talked business with him and escorted him about his property.

While in Los Angeles Dist.-Atty. Kempley held several conferences with Dist.-Atty. Woolwine. On his return to San Diego yesterday afternoon he went directly to the grand jury room and, with Chief of Police Patrick and Coroner Kelly, was closeted with the jurors for some time.

Upon leaving the jury room he declined to discuss the nature of his visit, other than to state that it was in connection with the Fritzi Mann case.

Detectives Chadwick and Sears, who have been questioning many of Fritzi's acquaintances in this city, confined their investigation to Long Beach yesterday, where they again interviewed Bernice Edwards, Fritzi's chum.

Evans, vice-chairman Los Angeles County Republican Central Committee; Arthur A. Shirley, Inyo Republican County Central Committee, and Charles H. Toll, Los Angeles Republican County Central Committee.

In addition Mr. Arnold got a telegram from the chairman of the Imperial Central Committee saying his organization stood behind an equitable and immediate reapportionment.

All this took the wind out of the north's argument that only Los Angeles county is fighting for reapportionment, which the northern legislators appear to desire, shall go by default, without having any arguments against its legality or justice.

REVIEWS ENTIRE CASE

Mr. White, himself a former Assemblyman, gave a brief history of the reapportionment matter. He told how in 1910 a special session of the Legislature took up the matter, but got no farther than a compromise by which the south did not get its just due and San Francisco got much more than her due. Under a reapportionment now, he said, San Francisco was due to loose one Senator and one Assemblyman and "we find them combining with other counties to lock the south's efforts to get justice.

"However," said Mr. White, "I cannot feel but that no large or even small group of our legislators will fail to do their duty. The members from Los Angeles county have always tried to give their neighboring counties all that they ought to have. Sometimes there may have been selfishness on our part, that is only human, but what have you to expect from San Francisco?" he asked, turning to the visitors from other counties.

"We of the south must present a united front to get what the Constitution gives us. Orange county, I understand, is entitled to one Senator alone—she now shares one with three other counties, and San Diego is entitled to one more Assemblyman, making three. We must prevail on all members of the southern delegation to demand all that is justly due us, nothing more or less."

DUTY OF LEGISLATURE

"It is the duty of the Legislature and the people of California to support them in carrying out the provisions of the Constitution," declared Mr. Menton of Orange county. "We have had sufficient experience with San Francisco to know that for reasons of local loyalty or otherwise they will fight us and die fighting. There is always a feeling in the small communities that the large communities are trying to take something away from them, but in this case Los Angeles is not trying to take anything away from anybody in Southern California, only from San Francisco, and that only because of a right to it. We feel in Orange county that we should have a separate Senatorial district from Riverside and Imperial. We now have more than 60,000 population. But we are no dog in the manger, and we want to see fair play."

Mr. Schauer of Santa Barbara county said his county and Ventura were united in a Senatorial district, and because of their close relation did not want to be split.

"We wouldn't profit by a reapportionment," he said, "but we know that it is fair and that all the counties of the State must share alike under it."

Mr. Orr of Ventura said he had not gone into the matter with the citizens of his county but that he was sure Ventura county people would continue to co-operate with Los Angeles county because "what helps you helps us and we know you would help us if we were in need." Mr. Shirley of Inyo county, said he believed the Constitution should not be ignored; that as far as his county went it was linked in a district with Mono, Tuolumne and Mariposa and that the only feeling was that to be joined with more populous counties might reduce Inyo's representation.

Mrs. Lineman suggested that steps be taken to have speakers acquaint women citizens with the facts in the reapportionment matter.

"I am sure that, once advised, the women of the State will stand for strict justice, which is all that is asked," she said.

Mayor Cryer pointed out that the delay in making the readjustment of legislative representation in accordance with population was cumulative, since under the 1920 census Los Angeles was given 500,000 population; she now has more like 600,000, and that before another decade is passed and another reapportionment due the difference will be still greater.

"There is a feeling of antagonism toward us up in San Francisco," he said, "but such antagonism is not returned by us. I am proud of San Francisco as of any city in the State."

"It may be too bad we've grown so," commented Mr. Talbert of Huntington Beach, with a smile. He is chairman of the Orange County Board of Supervisors. "If we can't get our rights in a normal way we must carry our fight to the limit and demand all that's coming to us."

BACK GOVERNOR'S STAND

The Governor's stand was warmly applauded by those at the meeting. Earlier in the day telegrams indorsing it were dispatched by the Chamber of Commerce, Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, City Club and Real Estate Board. These bodies already have taken a stand against further delay in making the legislative reapportionment.

"Congratulations," read the Chamber of Commerce message to the Governor, "on your firm stand for reapportionment, in accordance with Constitutional dictates. Our organization and many others in this prosperous section are solidly behind you in your announced attitude and we stand ready to lend every energy to bring about adequate reapportionment."

F. J. Zeehandelaar as secretary of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association telegraphed the following:

"The Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of Los Angeles congratulates you upon your courageous determination to demand from the present Legislature compliance with the law in connection with the reapportionment of the State. The duty of the legislators is plain and defiance of the law is a violation of their oath to support the constitution which plainly provides and demands reapportionment under the Federal census of 1920. No compromise is possible and Southern California is entitled to and should receive representation in the Legislature according to that census. Local influences must be ignored and a fair and square adjustment of representation must be had no matter what section benefits."

C. A. Dykstra, secretary of the City Club, sent this message:

"The Los Angeles City Club heartily indorses your stand upon the question of reapportionment and hopes for a reasonable acquiescence by the Legislature in our legal rights."

The City Club some time ago adopted resolutions urging the southern delegation to make a firm fight for the rights of this end of the State and Mr. Dykstra yesterday received an answer from Speaker Merriam, who is from Long Beach. Mr. Merriam said he would "be pleased to cooperate with the Los Angeles delegation to get a reapportionment at the earliest possible date."

The telegram Edwin G. Hart as president of the Realty Board sent the Governor reads:

"The Los Angeles Realty Board heartily indorses your action in approving an adequate legislative reapportionment as provided by law. The board strongly opposes any compromise."

OPPOSES TIME CLOCKS

Councilman Sparks yesterday cast a lone, dissenting vote in the City Council on an appropriation to purchase time recorders for the engineering department, saying that he was opposed, upon principle, to employees being required to punch time clocks.

BUILDERS PLAN MEETING

Fourth Annual Convention to be Next Week; Wives Accompany Delegates to City

G. W. Buchhols, general secretary of the Associated General Contractors of America, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday morning to make final arrangements for the fourth annual convention of the organization which will be held in this city from the 29th inst. to February 2, inclusive.

Next Monday morning a special train from Chicago will arrive in Los Angeles, bearing many delegates and their wives from middle western and eastern cities. Nearly 75 per cent of the delegates, Mr. Buchhols said, are bringing their wives to the convention.

Los Angeles was selected as the convention city for the fourth meeting because the majority of the contractors desired to visit Los Angeles, and it was decided that the best way to see the city would be for the organization to hold its fourth convention here.

The special train, which left Chicago nearly a week ago, is making several stops en route, visiting Colorado Springs, Albuquerque, Santa Fe, Grand Canyon and Riverside. On the return journey a trip to the Yosemite Valley will be made.

Program arrangements, said Mr. Buchhols, have been practically completed, and the visiting contractors will be kept busy with conferences and meetings throughout the five-day session. Among the prominent speakers scheduled for the convention is Ed Mehren, editor of the Engineering News-Record, the largest publication of its kind in the country. Mr. Mehren will use for his text the word "skill," as exemplified in the association slogan, "Skill, Integrity, Responsibility."

The address of welcome will be made by Mayor Cryer. Arthur S. Bent, local contractor and president of the national association, will deliver his annual report, while Roy C. Marshall, general manager of the organization, will review the achievements of the body during the last year.

John W. Cowper of Buffalo, N. Y., president-elect of the association, will speak at the annual banquet to be held on Friday night, February 2, at the Los Angeles Country Club.

Industrial relations will be an important feature of the program, as will also the subject of immigration and its control. At the convention an attempt to define a policy for the association on the matter of immigration will be made. Toward this end the association, in conjunction with other national organizations, has framed a selective immigration law, which will be submitted to the delegates in attendance for approval or rejection. This law provides for regulation of immigration by a commission composed of the Secretary of Labor, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of Commerce and the Secretary of the Interior.

Solving the Floor-Problem

Whether you have much or little to spend for floor coverings is not so important as spending that much or little wisely. Your good taste is reflected in the harmonizing effects of your carpets and rugs. Sound value enters into the wearing qualities, combined with pleasing colors and designs. These are your interests by which we are guided when buying stock in great quantities. Every selection we make is as careful as your own. Discuss your floor-covering problems with us.

tees and others lend their utmost in support, co-operation and progressive administration during the year."

According to Collector Goodcell, Los Angeles led all the revenue districts in the United States, except North Carolina, in percentage of collections for 1922, as compared with 1921. The per capita income tax for the Sixth District, Mr. Goodcell stated, was $25.15, larger than any other district in the United States.

"There is not a blessing that you enjoy, there is nothing worth while in life," Collector Goodcell said, "that we do not owe directly or indirectly to the United States government. That's why I say, 'Smile when you pay your income tax.' This government is responsible for your being able to hold and enjoy all which belongs to you.

"From 1918 to 1922, the manufacturer's excise-tax receipts have increased for the Los Angeles district over 900 per cent. In 1918 Los Angeles paid $143,533.46 and San Francisco $377,552.30, while in 1922 Los Angeles jumped into the lead with $1,389,095.64 and her sister city paid only $954,-593.69. This figure for Los Angeles does not include any filmtax figures. The manufacturers' excise-tax receipts on automobile, tires and accessories were $784,-908.97, as against $159,272.13 for San Francisco.

INCREASE SHOWN

"Federal tax receipts for the first six months of the fiscal year ending December 31," Colector Goodcell continued, "indicate that the sales of the various classes of manufacturing plants in the Southern California District have increased from 45 to 91 per cent, as compared with the showing made for the corresponding period of 1921. The same gains apply to other lines of business and reflect general business conditions in the district.

"During this period oleomargerine tax receipts increased 45 per cent, sales of documentary stamps used on bonds, capital stock issues, conveyances and so forth showed a gain of 33 per cent. Larger theater capacity is needed. The special tax on seating capacity of theaters showed an increase of 35 per cent. More than 134,000,000 people went through the amusement portals during 1922, and this is not counting the $4,000,000 who attended the small five and ten cent shows where there are no taxes."

Collector Goodcell pointed out that the new Revenue Act had reduced Federal taxes in the Southern California district $15,-000,000 a year and that this shrinkage in tax receipts would have to be offset by taxes originating from new business enterprises, expansion of established industries and from increased income of individuals. In other words, business prosperity must take care of the tax reductions. The shrinkage in Pacific Coast collections for 1922 as compared with 1921, both fiscal years, showed a loss of only 12.1 per cent for Los Angeles and 35.2 per cent for San Francisco, Collector Goodcell said.

California corporations and individuals reported more income and paid Federal tax on it in 1921, than the combined income reported by the other twelve big Western states, according to Collector Goodcell.

Dr. Barnard came from Indiana to assist in the institution of "bread week" here, by whipping into shape a great organized industry all over the county, in 30,000 different establishments.

METHOD PRAISED

"The Los Angeles method of bread distribution is teh best in the country," Dr. Barnard stated, "and is pointing the way to bakers throughout the United States. Here in Los Angeles 450,000 pounds of bread are consumed every day. Bread is a great cereal food and an increase in its consumption from 40 per cent to 45 per cent would soon see enough money saved to take care of all our taxes. Breadmaking is a science now. It takes the training of a chemist to buy the right flour, to make up the best formulas and to adjust the best temperatures in the ovens and dough room.

"One pound of bread costs only 10 cents. Two pounds of bread contain all the food elements necessary for a full day's food. Bread is no longer a filler at meals. The war taught us that. Bakers only use the highest class of materials now in the bread."

Two guests were present yesterday at the meeting. They were Leonard S. Hussar, United States Attorney for China, and Alfred M. Lewis, president of the Riverside Chamber of Commerce.

February 6, at noon, the chamber will give a dinner at the Elite, 633 South Flower street, in honor of Admiral Eberle and officers of the United States Fleet, who are leaving February 5 for winter battle manuevers at Panama.

The R.O.T.C. orchestra of eight boys furnished the music during the dinner.

City Council, is now in Washington and will do his utmost to prevent the removal of the base. Congressman Osborne, from his sickbed here, has forwarded his protest and is at work on the matter and I feel optimistic over the final result."

In the meantime, it is said secret orders have been received from Washington ordering the removal of the base next summer. These orders, it is said, carry instructions to prepare for the transfer and put everything in shape.

News of the reports concerning the removal of the base caused considerable discussion yesterday among members of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the matter will be considered officially at noon today at a meeting of the chamber's board of directors. It is probable that a movement of protest will be started with the hope of having the order for removal revoked.

The Board of Harbor Commissioners is a unit in protesting the removal of the Submarine Base, it was stated last night by Chairman McKee.

OPPOSED TO REMOVAL

"We stand with the civic and other organizations which oppose its removal," Mr. McKee declared. "We are willing to meet Navy officials on a basis of co-operation and allow them the use of any lands at the harbor while the present base is being completed.

"I intend to confer immediately with my fellow commissioners asking that a decisive stand be taken in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce committee and the matter will come up at our meeting Friday morning. It will be indeed a serious matter if the City of Los Angeles loses one of its most valued assets and every effort to avert the loss should, and will, be made.

"Naval officers concede that Los Angeles Harbor has the quickest 'in-and-out' for rapid work in Naval maneuvers. The water outside the harbor is the clearest of any on the Coast, and the bottom of fine, white sand lends itself admirably to submarine practice. Add to this the fact that there is less fog and bad weather off the harbor entrance than any other and you have the reasons why Los Angeles Harbor is the most desirable and logical place for a battleship fleet base and a submarine unit base."

TEXT OF RESOLUTION

Mr. McKee stated that the following resolution, which was presented at the Harbor Commissioners' meeting of the 16th inst., will again come up on Friday, with other similar resolutions from civic bodies:

"Whereas, it has come to the attention of the Board of Harbor Commissioners from reports in the public press that the Submarine Base is to be removed from Los Angeles Harbor to some neighboring port.

"Whereas, Los Angeles city has always desired the Submarine Base be located in the harbor, and,

"Whereas, Los Angeles has by special election by a large majority donated a site of 160 acres in the outer harbor, in a most favorable location, according to the decision of Naval officials, said site being of the value of approximately $10,000,000, also over $600,000 being donated in free rentals to the Navy Department for use of the Submarine Base.

"Therefore be it resolved that the Board of Harbor Commissioners protest the removal of this base on the grounds that no reasonable excuse has been advanced for this action, also that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, San Pedro Chamber of Commerce, Secretary of the Navy Denby, Rear-Admiral Rodman and the City Council of Los Angeles."

POLICE AND DRY AGENT CLASH

apparently caused by a kick. Her face was bruised below the eye and on the right-hand side of her neck.

"She is soon to become a mother and also is nursing a baby. Wheeler insisted upon locking her up. I remonstrated with him and finally prevailed on him not to arrest her.

WOMAN GIVES VERSION

"Mrs. D'Aiuto told us she had several witnesses who saw Agent Wheeler kick her in the stomach. In the rear yard a number of residents angry over the treatment accorded the woman were on the verge of a riot. The treatment accorded this woman, so far as we could learn, was the direct cause of a riot call being sent to central station.

"We also learned Wheeler and his men went to the address to confiscate a still and place under arrest Joe D'Aiuto, husband of the injured woman whom they charge with operating the still.

"When Wheeler and I engaged in an argument over whether or not the woman should be sent to jail, he said: 'I don't give a —— if she is a woman—no one can interfere with the operations of my office.'

"The assault was one of the most brutal that ever came under my notice during my term on the police department.

"HARRY WILDE."

Following the riot and the arrest of D'Aiuto, Prohibition Agent in Charge H. H. Dolley made strenuous denial that Mrs. D'Aiuto had been ill-treated by Mr. Wheeler and said she had not been touched except to restrain her from injuring the four prohibition agents. He attempted, however, to withhold the name of Agent Wheeler from the public report of the affair because of the charges of assault already against him. He also stated that Dr. E. H. Anthony, physician in charge of Federal prisoners, had been sent to the D'Aiuto home to make an examination of the woman.

CHARGES ARE PENDING

The first charges against Wheeler were made by Bario Ferraro, 9 years of age, who stated that Wheeler handcuffed him during a Federal dry raid and then strung him up to a curtain pole. During the same raid other Italians charged that they were beaten with blackjacks and revolvers by the prohibition agent and seriously injured. One of them was treated in a hospital, according to the reports filed with the county authorities.

Wheeler came to this city to answer these charges, which will come up in Justice Court next Friday afternoon, and was not here on official duty when he took part in yesterday afternoon's raid which resulted in the riot and injury of Mrs. D'Aiuto.

Spanish Songs, Stringed Music and Lecture KHJ Features

George Freeman, steel-guitar soloist, gave enticing melody such as is born of the steel guitar only under the most skillful of fingers. Radioland keenly enjoys this type of music and Mr. Freeman's superb artistry earned for him the warm appreciation of listening thousands.

Interspersed through the evening's entertainment were many popular dance numbers given the real touch of syncopation by the College of Commerce Jazz Orchestra. These seven musicians scored heavily, for their particular brand of music was such as to set the toes tingling.

Another of the Bible readings which are Wednesday-night features in the children's forty-five minutes was given last night by Prof. W. H. Head, director of the public-speaking department of the Venice Union Polytechnic High School. Dr. Head contends that the proper reading of the Bible gains for the reader, or for the listener, a better understanding of its teachings, and the reports coming to KHJ from the radio family bear out this contention.

Harriet Hauge, whistler, artist pupil of the California School of Artistic Whistling, accompanied by Ella H. MacGlashan, gave the kiddies four whistling solos that were fine exemplifications of this art.

MUSIC FOR KIDDIES

John F. Knox, violinist, accompanied by H. C. Knox, participated in the kiddies' concert last night, interpreting two violin solos—"Romanza," by Rose Eversole, and "O Sole Mio," by Di Capua.

Another income-tax talk was given yesterday afternoon. F. F. Fichthaler, one of Collector of Internal Revenue Goodcell's staff, told briefly of allowable deductions in making out income-tax schedules.

The musical part of the afternoon broadcast carried equal honors for two members of the De Lara Grand Opera Company. Billie Corson, contralto, is one of the newer members of this organization, and is to sing the role of Lola in "Cavalleria Rusticana" tomorrow night at the Gamut Theater.

Miss Corson sang two selections — "Vale," by Russell, and "Stride la Vampa," from "Il Trovatore," by Verdi.

Henri Cantor, who sings the tenor role in "I Pagliacci," with the De Lara Grand Opera production, favored radioland with two songs. His voice is dramatic, resonant, and has earned for him many admirers in the musical world.

Cheney Tonal System

—The Cheney Phonograph's Tonal System includes a series of inventions which have marked a new era in musical reproduction. The relation of these famed innovations is shown in the accompanying illustration:

1. The Cheney Reproducer—which because of its special construction searches out those tiny vibrations which constitute overtones (the real beauty of any production.)
2. Tone-Arm, a series of 4 octagonal stepped air chambers. In this series of chambers Cheney Tones are purified further and needle scratch muted.
3. Series of stepped concentric rings.
4. Tone conveyor.
5. Upper cubical air chamber or throat.
6. Palate Bar.
7. Cubical air chamber. 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 make up the Cheney Acoustic Throat where tones are brought under perfect control.
8. Orchestral Chambers—where the entire range of sound vibrations is equally developed. Each instrument and voice is maintained in perfect balance with every other part of the production.
9. Violin Resonator—made of air-dried spruce, seasoned for a period of years, just as the wood is seasoned for fine violins.

NOURISHMENT NOTE

This may be bread week, but the big noise we hear is the folks out Sacramento way clamoring for pie.

FREE TO FIGHT

Ireland continues to be an armed camp with every Irishman taking pot shots at his neighbor when his shadow goes by. Glory be! Ireland is free and the Irish feel perfectly free to fight as a result. Liberty gives them liberty to quarrel with the first man who comes along—no matter whether it is the landlord or only Cousin Dennis.

CHEAPER MEN

One of the women investigators of the Voters' League in Illinois finds that it is now possible for a man to live on $2.48 a week. A year ago it cost $2.97. It seems that we are getting a cheaper race of men. In a little while they will get down to where any working girl can afford to have one. It is, however, a fine thing to know that a man may now live on $2.48 a week.

FOR IRELAND

No. 1 of a new Irish weekly declares that it stands for Ireland, "for an independent Irish-speaking Irish republic, an Irish Free State, a workers' republic, a nonworkers' republic, home rule within the empire, home rule without the empire, the six counties Parliament, partition, a soviet and many more and many others."

This looks like a return to normalcy in Ireland.

A RUM VISITOR

An English newspaper, commenting upon the visit of the governor of the Bank of England, Montague Collet Norman, D.S.O., to this country, says, "One wonders how this retiring and modest banker will preserve his reserve in America." "A pleasant fellow," said one of his friends, "with a rum nature."

If this estimate of the gentleman is correct, should not the Federal authorities prohibit him?

A DEAD KING'S NAME

In addition to the trouble in the Balkans it appears that there is now some controversy over the spelling of the name of King Tutunkhamun, whose mausoleum at Luxor is being opened. On his marriage certificate and on the doorplate of his palace the second syllable is set down as "tunk." In the Thebes city directory for B.C. 1349 and in his hunting license it is spelled "tenk." A good deal of feeling has been aroused as a result of the dispute and it may be necessary to mobilize the reserves. At present the "tunk" party is in the majority, but the "tenks" indicate growing strength. It would be fine if the League of Nations could settle this affair without the effusion of blood. It is believed by many that this Pharaoh Tutunkhamun was the original inventor of the game now known in sporting circles as faro. It was named after him, with the "Ph" silent, as in Phresno. When the archaeologists have combed Tutunk's sarcophagus to the bone they may be able to dispose of several doubts.

DEFY THE CONSTITUTION

It is a rather pitiful condition when thousands of citizens are trying to find a way to compel the representatives they elected to the Assembly to respect the provisions of the constitution. Can the court issue its mandamus ordering the Legislature to perform its duties? It is a shame that citizens should feel compelled to ask the question. The constitution lays down an absolute mandate. It declares in unmistakable terms that the Assembly shall apportion the representative districts of the State at the session following the census. The members have already violated their oath to the extent of permitting one session to pass without action. Now they are striving to repeat their defection. The members make solemn oath on assuming their seats that they will support the constitution and before the day is cold they turn and kick it out of the building. How can they expect the citizens to respect the laws they pass when they themselves are brazenly and flagrantly defiant of the constitution?

SAFETY AND SERVICE

According to garnered statistics there are fewer accidents with the one-man street cars than with the full-length regulation cars. It seems that there are only 1.31 chances of a man losing his thumb as against 1.98 while patronizing the standard pattern. There are fewer people maimed on the Griffin avenue and Angeleno Heights lines than on the other runs. That is because these branches are equipped with one-man cars. A man may not lose his life or leg as often, but he certainly loses his temper when he goes against a one-man car. The moral hazard is heavy. It is also possible that people are ashamed to report accidents when they are bitten or stabbed by a one-man car. It is a good deal like being licked by a smaller man in a fight. There is nothing to boast of. When a man is bumped by one of these dinky little pepper boxes he feels as if he had been attacked by a rabbit. The fact that they can indicate a greater margin of safety will not popularize them a particle. A man would rather be bowled over and skin by a real car than be tickled by one of these dwarfs.

THE FRENCH RUHR

By the occupation of the Ruhr district and its isolation from the rest of Germany France has dealt to her traditional enemy an economic blow that leaves her stunned and prostrate. The Germans must adjust their standard of living to the altered conditions. They can no longer man the industries that were the source of their power and wealth before the war, for they have now passed into foreign hands.

For the present the Ruhr is lost to Germany. The French have disannexed it and are establishing a customs cordon along the German border. By this process Germany loses about 3,000,000 population, which, under the circumstances, will be a relief, for Germany is overpopulated; but she also loses the industries that gave employment, directly and indirectly, to about 15,000,000 Germans.

France will operate the district for the present direct from Paris—it will be a military occupation. Employment will be offered to the Germans who formerly worked in the Ruhr; but, if it is not accepted by them, Poles, Czechs and Italians will be brought into the territory to work the mines and man the shops.

By one of her favorite coup d'etats France has become possessed of the economic wealth of the great Rhine Valley, over which Frank and Teuton have fought for 1200 years. France rests her title on conquest; and that is a title that is not likely to be disputed until Germany makes an economic recovery. Conquest, by the way, is the title by which the greater part of the territory in Europe, and much in our own country, is held.

As long as France holds the coal of the Rhine Valley and the iron deposits of Lorraine she can mock all Germany's attempts to regain her former economic superiority. She holds the advantage over the Teuton in 1923 that the Teuton held over the Frank in 1872. The seeds have been sown for a new war; but the French have no illusions about that matter and they will exercise due caution that the planting does not ripen into a bloody harvest. "Forewarned is forearmed."

How far we are from the emotional and idealistic days of the winter and spring of 1919! Force has come back and has banished abstract justice from the governments of Western Europe. It will not benefit us to bemoan what might have been if the free nations had united to make the League of Nations the arbiter of international disputes.

The French press and diplomats intimate very clearly that they are through with that "pleasant fiction." They say that France agreed to enter the League with the understanding that the United States would also become a member and that the defensive alliance between France, England and our country should be ratified. We elected to stay out of the League and to have nothing to do with the defensive alliance. France, in turn, has elected to seize by force the fruits to be gathered from the Allied victory of 1918.

Her invasion of the Ruhr was both carefully prepared and skillfully concealed. We learn from Washington that, as late as January 9, our government had received no intimation that France premeditated such a move. She took no one into her confidence; she gave no one warning. She acted on her own responsibility and is ready to accept the consequences. It is France's way of cutting the Gordian knot of reparations. She expects nothing more from Germany; will probably ask nothing more. She is in possession of the Ruhr "to have and to hold." What was once the German Rhine is the French Rhine now; and France has about 1,000,000 troops under arms to make her possession secure.

Another chapter in the violent history that began in 1914 has been written. Germany will have no further illusions concerning who won the World War; and it will be well for us to get rid as quickly as possible of our sentimental illusions concerning the triumph of justice when unsupported by force.

France has repaid Germany in her own coin; but even the best friends of France are viewing the process with anxious faces. For the dream of European disarmament is ended. France will remain armed to guard her conquered territory. Germany will begin to arm to attempt its recapture. She will prepare, perhaps for forty years, as did the French after 1871, for the great day when the German population of the Ruhr shall again be free from foreign domination. Other countries of Europe will arm for self-protection. The women will till the fields and the men will give three years of their youth to forced military service.

As far as our own country is concerned, we shall be compelled to exercise increasing vigilance to prevent this martial spirit from invading the Pacific area. America again becomes the guardian of the altars of justice. It is for us to keep the fires burning until the peoples of Europe learn by their folly that two wrongs cannot make a right.

BREAD AND DRAMA

This week the city pays homage to both bread and drama. While Bread Week is being celebrated by the city at large, Drama Week is being taken care of by the women's clubs. Man, the ladies remind us, cannot live by bread alone.

And perhaps it is significant that, while bread demonstrations are being given by professional male bakers, the ladies are flocking to hear how drama is made. Thus masculinity takes care of the body and femininity the intellect. Which is quite a change. It was not ever thus. Time was when the responsibility for the inner man—as distinct from the upper man—was almost exclusively in the hands of women, while man arrogated to himself the furtherance of the intellectual cults.

Indeed, in those remote days it wasn't even proper for the female of the species to participate in the drama at all—female roles being played by men. Incidentally, in those days the drama was not half as respectable as it is today.

On the other hand, bread was the accepted "staff of life"—it didn't need any special "weeks" to re-establish it in public favor. But now, we are told, bread has become the merest "et cetera" at the family meal—just as the drama used to be the merest "et cetera" in the family life.

Perhaps this week's dual celebrations will restore the balance. Taken together bread and drama may be said to form a "well-balanced meal"—especially if they are good bread and good drama. Enthusiasts on both sides seem bent upon upholding the standards. We note that the word "wholesome" is being generously applied to both articles; that nice distinctions are being made between "bread," "cake-bread" and "cake," as well as between "drama," "comedy" and "farce"—the best possible ingredients being demanded all round.

And we can't help feeling that a nation reared on good bread and good drama can't go far wrong.

LICENSED PLAYERS

There is a measure before the Massachusetts Assembly which provides for the licensing of professional ball players. It is even reported that Ban Johnson has given his indorsement to the act. Under its terms the regular performers on the diamond would have to pass an examination in which qualifications, character and responsibility would enter. Unless a southpaw shooter had read Emerson's essays and could locate Boston Common with the aid of a chronometer he would hardly be eligible for a certificate. He would be expected to be always courteous to the umpire and when that official gave a decision against him after sliding to the plate he would be required to arise, bow politely and exclaim: "Thank you, sir."

The Massachusetts measure is in consonance with the modern itch for regulation. Everybody must have a license or pass an examination. It provides some petty jobs for small-bore politicians and brings the individual into subservience.

The license idea is extending into every possible walk. It will soon be necessary for a man to have a license before he can go on the links or invite Mabel out to lunch. He will have to pass an examination and buy an embossed certificate before he can visit an Arbuckle film. The government will be selling stamps which entitle the holder to guess on the weather.

It will be necessary for a bush leaguer to pass an examination in Greek rooting and astronomy before he can play professional ball in Massachusetts if this law be passed. He will have to have a pedigree with a tang of Cabot or Lowell in it and he must needs be courteous and affable. He must swear to support the Constitution of the country and observe the Volstead Act. He must keep his heart pure, his nose clean and his nails manicured.

It is well that Bugs Raymond and Rube Waddell have flown. They would have marked Boston off their visiting list.

MAKING OF AN IMMORTAL

This is the birthday of one of the world's immortals. Yet a plain, blunt record of his career on earth is scarcely convincing. It certainly wouldn't impress the clerk at the desk of an employment bureau.

His father was a poor tiller of the soil in a poor country. Each year he grew poorer. Finally he died of discouragement increased by his disappointment at the uselessness of his "no'er-do-well" son.

The son in childhood had no schooling. His family couldn't afford it. At 13 he was a plowboy; he didn't hold the plow, he led the horse. At 16 he was a common day laborer, developing round shoulders.

At 20 he was a confirmed hard drinker. Thus alone could he escape the ills, mental and physical, from which he suffered. His nature made him careless and inconstant in his love affairs.

He was an unsteady worker and always hard up. The only job he stuck to was the very worst one society could have offered to one of his temperament. It was collector of revenue taxes on wines and liquors.

He had one hobby, however, one mistress he never deserted—and after his premature death at the age of 37 this mistress conferred on him the laurels of immortality.

Just two sayings of him would alone have placed his name in the never-to-be-forgotten list.

"Oh, wad some power the giftie gi'e us
To see ourselves as ithers see us."

And: "A man's a man for a' that."

Slow Business

[New York World]

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Nobody over here knows anything for or against the Duke of York or the Lady Elizabeth. To the people of Los Angeles they are entire strangers. Yet no sooner do these two people get themselves engaged than the news is flashed around the world and appears as a first-page story in the newspapers of the Pacific Coast. Even our movie stars don't attract more attention when they are engaged or married or get better press notices, though they are a thousand times more in the public eye.

KEEPING BUSY

There is a scarcity of work in many trades in Europe, but the cabinet makers seem to be working overtime.

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM

BY HERMAN J. STICH

More Poetry Than Truth

Rereading Gray's Elegy the other day it struck us that there is one phrase and one stanza in it which have probably done a great deal toward infesting people with the toxic germ "Self-pity."

The phrase is, "Some mute, inglorious Milton;" and the stanza:

"Full many a gem, of purest ray serene
The dark unfathomed caves of ocean bear;
Full many a flower is born to blush unseen
And waste its sweetness on the desert air."

This is more poetry than truth—as applied to men.

We have never yet met a publisher, magazine or otherwise, but was hunting feverishly for the brain children of genius, that could be clapped into covers and transmuted into kale.

"Mute, inglorious Miltons" are seldom mute and rarely remain inglorious for long.

The world is continually searching for ability and offering all sorts of incentives to make men prove they have it—ferreting for it as zealously as for gems "of purest ray serene," which, we might remark, what with our submarines and deep-sea divers, may soon be uprooted even from "the dark, unfathomed caves of ocean."

It is trite but right that there will always be all manner of difficult problems awaiting solution; so, worth-while, exceptional ability will always command a premium.

Of course, employers do not take a man's word for his talent or genius—they have seen too many twenty-two-caliber humans try to explode in forty-four-centimeter jobs; but experience proves daily that, no matter how slight the opening, a man usually has the opportunity to demonstrate what he is and has.

And if he is really "exceptional," energetic and industrious he will soon be recognized and he need lose neither sleep nor weight worrying that his ability will blush unseen.

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE YOUNG YEAR

The new year's young and tender and
Is indorsed by folk of every age and gender,
Who have observed its smoke; the old year hit the ceiling; the new one is revealing
All kinds of charms, appealing to every human bloke. New brooms are always sweeping with promptness and dispatch; new wigs are more in keeping than is the worn-out thatch; new shoes are neat and shining—yet sometimes I'm repining for those with shabby lining and heels that didn't match. New autos, gay and active, supplant the time-worn cars; new wives are thought attractive by sundry movie stars; new vows and new divorces, new ponies on the courses, new drinks from bootleg sources, new hay in cheap cigars.
Alas, but time is flying and new things soon are old, and brass we are descrying in goods we thought were gold; new trinkets oft seem gaudy, all beauties they embody, but soon we see they're shoddy and then our feet grow cold. But let us not be gloomy, let no sad words be sprung by prophets hoar and rheumy who long ago were young; it is the dotard's failing to spend his days in wailing, all modern things assailing, with bludgeon fiercely swung.
The year is bright and chipper, the year so fresh and new, I pledge it in a dipper of Volstead's sparkling brew; the new-year class is showing its sunny smiles bestowing and may it, in its going, bring only good to you.

PEN POINTS

The bean men led the chorus of thanksgiving for that generous rain.

The convicted murderess of McCullough Graydon certainly has a tough Roe to hoe.

Ex-Secretary McAdoo says that if the Democratic nomination is offered him he will accept. Mirabile dictu!

It was hardly to be expected that the session of the California Legislature would produce an earthquake at Sacramento.

It is proposed to establish Woodrow Wilson forums throughout the country. But the chances are that the ex-President would insist upon furnishing the questionnaire.

Stefansson says the Arctic regions are habitable and that they are rich in natural resources. We know of several folks who we imagine might do well up there.

An amendment to the California constitution is proposed, providing for annual sessions of the Legislature. Insatiate statesman, will not a biennial infliction suffice?

Commissioner Haynes says it will take ten years to test the dry laws. In that case it will be necessary to raise another crop of law violators and bootleg attorneys.

The body of an Egyptian Princess 4000 years old has been unearthed at Luxor. And there were princesses in that early day. We thought they were a modern invention.

It is reported that the penitentiaries at both Folsom and San Quentin are badly overcrowded and, at that, many violators of the law who ought to be there are still unwhipt of justice.

Ambassador Harvey denies the published reports that he and Secretary Hughes are not in accord on important questions of foreign policy. The report carried its own refutation. It simply meant that the campaign for 1924 is already on.

The proposed trial of Rev. Dr. Grant of New York on the charge of heresy recalls the famous trial of Dr. Briggs many years ago on a similar allegation. Dr. Briggs was a theological professor, if we recall, and just how it all came out nobody seems to remember. It is well to hold fast to the faith of the fathers in religion as well as some other things.

The violations of the prohibition amendment are making dishonest men out of some of those who are considered among our leading citizens. A few days ago a bootlegger delivered seven cases of bonded whisky to a business man. A check was drawn for the purchase price and then payment stopped. The bootlegger could not kick and the man had his whisky for nothing.

THIS IS THE DAY

Senator Robert Y. Hayne of South Carolina, in a tariff debate in Congress, delivered a speech on State rights and a defense of "Nullification" in the year 1830. The speech is famous as the best presentation of the affirmative side of State rights in American history.

NATURE SKETCHES

2. Wapiti and Moose

BY CHARLES L. EDWARDS, Ph. D.
Director of Nature-Study, Los Angeles City Schools

The wapiti, or American elk, is the largest and most majestic of the living species of true deer. It resembles the red deer, or stag, of Europe, while the elk of the Old World is more nearly like our own moose.

Grazing through forests fairly clear of underwood the wapiti takes grass, fruit, and seeds, especially acorns, or nips off leaves and tender twigs from the shrubs. In times of peace this beautiful animal walks or trots along the trail, seeking good pasture. When frightened by a hunter the wapiti runs or gallops swiftly away from danger to some secluded dell, remaining concealed by day and feeding after nightfall. Usually silent, yet when alarmed or fighting his rivals for the possession of the cows at the mating season, the bull utters shrill cries, in a high-pitched voice, followed by a number of grunts.

In the pioneer days of the gold hunters the herds of the California species of wapiti numbered many thousands. They were slaughtered for food and murdered for the fun of it until today only a last surviving small band is found in Kern county. Discarding the gun, pioneer Spanish Californians mounted upon strong, well-trained horses would dash wildly after these elks and skillfully threw a lasso over the animal's branched antlers.

Relentlessly persecuted, everywhere in America, the wapiti have been driven from the States as each in turn gave homes to settlers and on into the most remote refuges of the wildest mountain regions. With each further retreat this wary animal has become sharper sensed and more clever in hiding itself and avoiding men, his chief enemy.

MOOSE

The great moose of America, with long arms and legs, exaggerated Roman nose and flattened, spreading antlers, is like the European elk. The moose is the largest and most resourceful of the deer family which, besides wapiti, includes reindeer, caribou, white tail and black tail or mule deer.

Moose grow rapidly in the first year, and reach maturity at six years. They are ash-colored, often intensified to black. The bull moose has a prominent dewlap, sometimes a foot long, hanging beneath his throat. The oldest, with broken teeth and nose fringed with gray hairs, attain an age of about twenty years.

Like the wapiti, the moose, fleeing before the white man and following the deserted trails of their former enemies, the vanishing Indians, found an ever-widening refuge in British Columbia. Aided by extraordinary senses of smell and hearing, the keen mind of the moose is generally able to find a way to escape from hunters and wolves.

THE BLACK BORDER

BY DOROTHEA MOORE

When books are copyrighted nowadays there is the usual list of places or tongues whereat or wherein the taboo of translation extends and it ends with the cryptic phrase—"including the Scandinavian."

This has now become a matter of humorous allusion to express the farthest verge of anything in any direction. I have found a paraphrase of it extremely diverting and revealing.

Personally I love and admire all brown-skinned peoples—a purely personal predilection due to having lived in early childhood on the edge of Kentucky, where one of the bright spots was that sparkling rascal, Allen Rose, who "took cah" of our family horse and stirred my mother's wonderful huckleberry jams and "Ole Kitty Crismun," who brought me such marvelous mauve-colored kittens with behavior all ready prepared for the drawing room.

Later, I added to this love by a year's teaching on the black belt of Mississippi, to Mexico, to Spain and the Hawaiian Islands. To me all white faces are futile and meager and all white actions and movements dim beside the fiery motivation of those who possess more Malpighian corpuscles.

And therefore I am pleased to test my friends who claim an equal admiration. Sitting on the deck of the boat bearing me to Honolulu, with a bishop's daughter, we fell into talk about the darling darks of the approaching island. The lady was overful of rapture and did protest too much of her broad sympathies, I thought. "Of course, you include the colored people at home, too?" I said imploringly. "Mercy, no! I don't mean them!" she exclaimed. It's a nice little test. Try it on your Coue.

All this really leads up to the fact that when I read about a book called "The Black Border," recommended by a John Bennett, who was once a small boy in my town, I sent for it to South Carolina, where it is published, and as I expected, it is a treasure. First for the ethnologist and then for the lover of fresh, quick, strange speech.

Under the left shoulder of Africa lies the Slave Coast. "At dusk that look'st on Senegal, at mora America." Out of this armpit of the Dark Continent came the first black bondsman to curse the western world. John Bennett, who has been gathering data for twenty years, says that the Gullahs (or Angolas) came from Liberia. Suffice it for us that they have impressed their speech deeply upon the border of South Carolina and have retained it there in its full flavor, with insertions of words that have pleased the ear from many sources, biblical and Shakespearean.

"The Black Border" is a book of tales written [illegible] rect English [illegible] It has a s[illegible] after a short [illegible] of that, may be [illegible] ease. REVUE GROWS IN POPULARITY

Huge Money Prizes Will be Eagerly Contested

"Book of Plays" Demand is Swamping Offices

Requirements for Entering Are Very Simple

The Play-goers Revue, now running in The Times, with a daily change of program, is attaining such a sweeping popularity among play fans that the $5500 in prize money offered to those who pick the best titles to thirty puzzle pictures promises to be more eagerly contested for than any similar event ever known within the history of southwestern newspaperdom.

The demand for the "Book of Plays," which contains hundreds of theatrical titles to guide participants, is the measure by which the tremendous interest in the revue is being gauged. Incoming mails are growing heavier every day as eager title pickers storm the box office for their copy of the guide to rich awards in this fascinating pastime.

Every effort is being made to mail out the books promptly and participants are asked to be patient if they do not receive their copies by return mail.

DEMAND IS GROWING

The demand is growing likewise for copies of the first pictures that appeared in The Times, as in many cases people are just now hearing of the Play-goers Revue and the offer of seventy bountiful prizes to be given in return for the best sets of titles submitted at the close of the revue.

Nearly everybody who could use an extra $2500 is plunging into the fun of studying the daily pictures and either calling to mind the titles of well-known plays they think would fit the pictures best, or else selecting them from the handy "Book of Plays."

One thin dime, or its equivalent in postage stamps, is all it costs for a "Book of Plays." It will be mailed postpaid anywhere upon receipt of that amount, or may be purchased at either The Times main office of branch office.

PICTURE COPIES FREE

The copies of pictures already printed in The Times are free of charge and it is necessary only to ask for them by telephoning, writing or calling at The Times. The necessary title coupon accompanies each picture.

Picture No. 5 appears elsewhere in The Times today, together with full details of the novel Play-goers' Revue. The advertisement explains clearly just how to go about picking titles for the daily pictures and also contains a convenient coupon in sending for the "Book of Plays."

The prizes number seventy in all, divided into two classes. Each set of titles submitted at the close of the revue, when accompanied by a three months' paid-in-advance subscription to the Los Angeles Daily and Sunday Times, will be judged in Class A. The prizes in this class are ranged in the following order: $500, $250, $150, $100, $50, ten of $25 and twenty of $10.

Where a twelve months' subscription accompanies the set of titles it will be judged in Class B. These prizes are as follows: $2500, $1000, $750, $500, $250, ten of $100 and twenty of $50.

REQUIREMENTS FEW

This is the only requirement to qualify a participant in the revue. The subscription may be either a new one or a renewal, by mail or carrier, for delivery anywhere.

Present subscribers who are paying by the month must pay in advance for either three months or twelve months. The money is to be sent to the Play-goers' Revue, so that the judges are enabled to properly qualify the sets of titles.

While the subscription money is sent direct to the Play-goers' Revue, The Times, old subscribers may rest assured that their carriers will lose nothing by doing so. The carriers and agents receive their compensation as usual and simply cease to collect from the subscriber during the period that the subscription is paid in advance.

Where it is desired to send in the subscription now this may be done. Simply ask for an "auxiliary receipt," which will be mailed immediately upon receipt of the subscription. This receipt is to be returned with the set of title coupons at the close of the revue, thus crediting the participant with the required subscription when the committee of judges starts the task of selecting the best titles and deciding the prize winners.

NINE GIVEN SPEEDERS' SENTENCES

Three Go to Jail; Heavy Fines Meted Out to Six Other Offenders

Police Judge Crawford continued yesterday his mtahod of making the punishment for motorists fit the crime by handing out heavy jail sentences for speeds in excess of thirty miles an hour and fines of $5 a mile for excess speeds of less than this rate. He imposed a fifteen-day sentence on one speeder and ten days each on two others, while the least he offered in the way of a fine was $40.

Whether because of this policy or whether it was just coincidence, there was a decrease in speeders yesterday, only nine being present to greet him when he opened court. Judge Crawford declared he would be particularly severe on motorists accused of speeding across street intersections.

"Failure to cross intersections at moderate speed is the cause of nearly all the accidents, in my opinion," Judge Crawford said.

For thirty-three miles an hour Harry Walker received a straight jail sentence of fifteen days. R. Houle and John F. Sanderson for the same speed also drew the wrath of justice for ten days.

Mort Finch, $45 or nine days; T. A. Hewey, $40 or eight days; C. C. Rushing, $50 or ten days; A. L. Metz, $40 or eight days; H. L. Sweeney, $50 or ten days, and L. E. Olsen, $45 or nine days, made up the remainder of the list.

People and Their Troubles

THE LAST WORD.

BY ALMA WHITAKER

IN A TURKISH BATH

If you have never taken a Turkish bath you have missed a unique experience. It is there that we know each other as we really are, there that we are shorn of our sartorial and physical deceits. No woman who has shared a Turkish bath with you could ever successfully snub you again. You know exactly what she amounts to, minus the aids and accoutrements of milliners and drug stores.

One feels somewhat expose oneself. The first item on the program is to discard every stitch of clothing and wrap one's self more or less artistically in a sheet—quite a small sheet. Then one sallies down a couple of corridors, slightly self-conscious, but gratefully assured that none but one's own sex is liable to intrude. One enters the hot room and takes a canvas chair, in the company of eight or ten other naked females. An attendant places one's tootsies in a footbath of warm water, and wraps a cold wet towel round one's head.

After that one gazes around upon one's fellow bathers. Most of them fat—and here in the fond hope of reducing. Some of them nervous—and hope to relax. One or two of them merely luxurious and lazy.

As we get warmed up, we begin to exchange confidences. "I only weighed 160 pounds for years," sights one immense chunk of feminine avoirdupois. "Then I started putting it on something fierce. Would you believe it I weight 212 now—and me only 34."

I may say it is very difficult to tactfully sympathize with a lady under those circumstances. You gaze at her amazing ankles and recall what Penrhyn Stanislaws said about fat ankles. But your sympathy with her is tempered with contempt. She looks such an extraordinarily indecent insult to your sex. And she relaxes her grip on the corner of the sheet and you perceive the mountainous folds and crevices—all woman.

"Oh, I'm just taking it off my hips" chips in another oddly-shaped person with a thin face, skinny arms, but much too much to sit upon. "Funny, but I never put it on anywhere else. I've tried just everything."

"Try running up and down stairs" offers the mountain. "Oh, I can't run myself," she adds, conscious of her futile example, "my ankles are too weak."

"I was just a little nervous myself," explains a reasonable looking young woman, who has fixed her sheet a la the Samoan islands (quite a trick, this.) "I only take the baths to relax" and you can sense how she relishes her superiority.

"Oh, I just love these baths. I don't really need them for anything, but you feel so clean," giggled a young woman with bobbed hair, who did not look well with it straight.

Then, just to blast the hopes of the super-fat, a mountainous attendant comes in, a perfectly enormous person, with a wide acreage of corporation, and arms like a prize fighter. She too, is adorned in the sheet, tightly drawn round her to expose every bulge. If Turkish baths could take "it" off, what is this lady, who works here, doing with so much of "it" on? She relieves our now super-heated stress with iced water in pannikins.

Then two sumptuous sirens join our company, with amazingly coiffed head-dresses—marcels and puffs galore. So astonishingly formal at the top, with their make-up still on, so ridiculously informal below the neck. But the attendant soon reduces them to our level. The wet towel does awful things to their coiffures. The heat does ghastly things to their complexions.

"Say, I'm sweatin' just fine now," confides the mountainous female. "It always takes me about fifteen minutes to get started."

The two sumptuously coiffed dames gaze at her with curious distaste. But one naked lady cannot snub another. The mountainous lady grins cheerfully. "Mightly sensible of you, my dear, to take it in time," she sighs to one of them. "Putting it on a bit round the midle, ain't you? That's just how it began with me. Why, I only weighed 100 pounds for years."

After the hot room, the slab. The mighty attendant just slaps you down on it, rubs you all over, spanks what she considers the too-well-endowed spots, squirts warm water over you, scrubs you with soap and brush, turns you over like a pound of steak, scrubs and pounds some more, rubs you down with salt and pushes you into the steam room, with a cold wet towel to hold over your face. Anyone can see you undergoing these ignominies, but nobody cares.

After the steaming—as long as you can stand—another water squirt, another rub down—and then, if you are courageous, you may take a dip in the swimming pool. This is where you begin to restore your amoure propre. Only the healthy and athletic can dive into that pool and show off their swimming—and incidentally swimming in the nude has it all over a one-piece bathing suit.

Then the mighty attendant dries you—and you wonder whether there will be any skin left on. She gives you a clean sheet and sends you to bed. A long sound sleep, a shampoo, a beauty treatment, a manicure, a pedicure, a hair-dress—and your clothes restored, and you walk out once again a normal female. And you feel so clean that you just radiate superiority.

And then you see some of the others coming forth clothed and in their right mind. You are staggered to observe that the mountainous lady departs in a limousine with a liveried chauffeur and several thousand dollars worth of furs. You are astonished to discover that the hipful lady is a club-president. You perceive that the little bobbed haired giggler is a famous society debutante. And you recall that the marcelled sirens are celebrated beauties. And behold, the nervous lady is a stylish woman lawyer. You would never have guessed you had been in such interesting company. Particularly no one looks impressive in the nude.

And when that mighty attendant also sallied forth in her street clothes, after a marcel wave, duly corsetted, sartorially chic, you would certainly have mistaken her for a suitable aspirant for a national federation presidency, so utter impressive was she. And to think that I had dared to tip her half a dollar! And she said "Thank you, ma'am. There's some as I might mention never thinks of it. Come again, dearie."

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES"

Does Divinity Matter

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21. — [To the Editor of The Times:] The recent assertion by the Rev. Percy S. Grant of New York that he does not believe in the divinity of Christ has been given much newspaper space, and will doubtless result in much heated controversy. A great deal of heat might be removed from controversial utterances if debaters will ask themselves one question: Would the Christial religion be in any sense a failure if Christ had not been divine? In other words, does his divinity matter?

Christ promulgated a wonderful system of ethics, neither before his time nor since has any better system ever been given to the world. If any man or woman in this universe could live according to the principles set forth by Christ, that person could face an hereafter with a conscience white as snow. Suppose, then, that Christ was not divine, but was merely a most remarkable, godly man; is a single truth that he uttered invalidated? Would his lack of divine origin mean that we should cease following his example, or stop loving our neighbor as ourselves.

The success or failure of the Christian religion does not rest upon the moot question as to whether or not Christ was divine. Its teachings are basically true; its face is set toward good and not evil; its gentle ethics conquered barbarism. On these facts are built its success. In the era when Christ lived and during the time that followed, his disciples, in order to spread his teachings, found it necessary to insist on his divinity. In those days of polytheism, in a time when miracles and divine origination had to be postulated in order to command a hearing, the followers of Christ adopted the methods they deemed best to impress their audiences. One consequence of this was that within a comparatively short time after the death of Christ his teachings were half buried in a mass of ceremonials, rituals and customs mostly borrowed from older pagan religion. It has taken nineteen centuries for us to gradually struggle back toward the light of the inner truths that he spoke so plainly, but which have become so obscured by the wranglings of different denominations. Whether or not he was divine or merely human, we shall never positively know. But we can know and recognize that he spoke nothing but goodness and truth. And on that common ground we can all meet and agree, and so forever do away with the petty differences of denomination.

PERTH GORDON.

New Species of Insanity

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21. — [To the Editor of The Times:] Elihu Root, once Senator from New York and one of the wisest politicians and lawyers in the United States, I think you will agree, told the American Bar Association at Washington, D. C., in a set address in 1914, that "We make too many laws."

Just to show that he wasn't fooling about it, he quoted statistics which he had obtained from the highest government authorities to the effect that in the five years from 1909 to 1913, inclusive, there had been 62,014 statute laws made in those years by the States and nation, and 65,379 final decisions rendered by State and national courts of last resort, these latter having the effect of statutory law in the trial of cases.

This makes a total of over 127,000 laws and legal opinions for every man and woman and near adult to read in that time in order to be decently well informed of even those new laws of States and nation, let alone the old ones also existing and which voters are supposed to be fairly conversant with. Besides these, there were all the city, county, township and secret society laws to be kept up with.

Taking just these 127,000 new laws and legal opinions in five years, let us see just what that means as to their assimilation by the people. It means 25,400 each year to be read by every man, woman and near adult, and by them to be understood in their relations to all other laws, remembered, and obeyed, for "ignorance of the law excuses no one." "Do you wonder at crime?" as the old query used to be. That is 2100 per month, or nearly 80 per day. Going some, eh? And then, after they have read them and understood them and recembered them, they can't tell, nor the lowyers either, what the decision of the courts would be if one of them should happen to be infracted. Add to this still more law ground out by the cities, etc. In Los Angeles there are already 44,000 city ordinances of the new series. That gives some idea of how the cities are getting along in this line.

Can you wonder that so astute a political observer as Mr. Root called upon his feliow-lawyers to help him stop this sort of thing, and a good many other evils than mere multiplicity, which he mentioned in connection with it? Is the parliamentary system of government a species of insanity?

PHILOS COOKE.

Another Challenge

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In your issue of this morning there is a letter signed by one calling himself Tom Mason anent the misuse of space in news columns for purposes of moving-picture publicity. Particularly does it seem to irk him that certain employees of a film company here have decided to fight a duel. His opinion is that they should do so on the quiet and kill each other in some unknown spot.

Such insane remarks cannot possibly come from one who has the least sense of either newspaper publicity values. The greenest copy boy knows better than to force on the public something it does not wish. The public wants such things for reading matter and it is the duty of the newspaper as a public servant to give to the subscribers just what they wish.

It has been conclusively proved that the so-called press-agent stories in the daily sheets are devoured avidly by a great percentage of the readers both young and old. Further they have an added merit here in that they tell the world the glories of the film industry, one of the largest in the world and one that has put Los Angeles in the enviable position of being known as the country's white spot. In the face of such irrefutable evidence can Mr. Mason do aught, but deny his asinine remarks? In the name of common sense I can answer for him.

If he should chance to read these remarks and take violent objection to them I hereby challenge him to continental duel with blunderbusses or broadswords; he can have his choice.

JOHN S. McDOWELL.

NOTED DANCER TALKS TO CLUB

Paul Swan Tells Women of His Art

Community Playhouse Pleas Heard by Ebell

Three Arts Founder Reviews New York Plays

BY MYRA NYE

"There are too many moonlight artists. There are too many half-way artists in dancing." Drama is a phase of the dancing art. It should be primitive, essential, fundamental, Walt Whitman-like. I endeavor to ban from my dancing always and eternally, the lure for that is feminine. I want the virile, the strong, the primal."

These crisp sentences of Paul Swan, the young American dancer who has created such a stir in European countries of late by his art and who will appear at the Philharmonic Auditorium in the benefit entertainment of the California Art Club, were spoken yesterday at the Ebell Club guest luncheon. The many who had come to see his Greek beauty were more impressed with the strength of his ideas as he tells of his art.

Mrs. Grantland S. Long, president of the club, who was one of the few present who had seen him dance, said in introducing him that it was like a flower coming into full blossoming.

"Oh, no," said Paul Swan as quickly as he rose to his feet to speak. "Dancing is not a flower. But I am glad it seems like that to you. Dancing is a channel through which great forces go. A dancer who is endeavoring to make his muscles and his whole body convey a mental and spiritual theme to an audience is the spokesman of a dumb race as all artists are. Artists say the things that people have been struggling to say through the ages and only as the artist does this does he completely satisfy his audience.

Mr. Swan does not agree with the idea of that master of acting, Joseph Jefferson, who said that an actor must not feel what he depicts, does not after the first even need to think it, but he must seem to feel it. He must seem to think it.

"The moment I cease to think of the message of my muscles, that quickly do I lose my contact with my audience. I never cease in a dance to think the things my dancing is saying. If I do I lose power," said Mr. Swan who dances originally, having never studied dancing of any one, not even ballroom dancing, much less the ballet.

Each one of his dances he has originated, worked out and perfected himself. For seven years he has devoted himself to this one of the arts. He is a sculptor also, having executed some notable pieces in marble. Two of his paintings were on exhibition last year at the Paris Museum of Art and on the walls of the Ebell Clubhouse as he spoke yesterday hung four remarkable portraits distinguished among them being one of Anthony Anderson, the art critic.

Mr. Swan's program tomorrow night will include "The Legend of Narcissus," "To Heroes Slain," "The Will of the Wisp," "Chanson Indoue" and the "Legend Egyptian."

Claude King, actor and soldier, who has appeared in every country where the English language is spoken in plays of the Anglo-Saxon people, who has the character of Dr. Isaacson in "Bella Donna," just being filmed, the play from the novel by Robert Hichens in which Pola Negri will star, was another speaker at the luncheon, making a powerful plea for a community playhouse in Los Angeles.

"The world over there are no more wonderful audiences than the American," said Mr. King. "Nowhere else does the actor receive such spontaneous, intelligent and enthusiastic support, but the dramatic art is in danger of becoming merely a real estate proposition.

"Art ought to pay commercially of course. But a community theater may pay and pay well if the proper team work is done by actor, author, producer and director alike, never forgetting the co-operation of the people. The Moscow Art Theater, year after year, finds every seat for the entire season sold before the curtain rises the first night. This can be done in Los Angeles if sufficient interest is aroused and the movement is allowed to culminate in action.

Mr. King told of a certain theater in New York which was leasing for $3500 a week. When he went to the lessee with a proposition the reply was: "Let me see, I must clear above that $1000 so I must ask at least $4500 and after that we will divide."

The Savoy Theater in London rented for $600 a week before the war and the year after for $2500. This, said Mr. King, is one of the big factors that is working against the proper presentation of drama in the United States.

Miss Margaret Goetz a member of the club, the founder of the Three Arts Club, who has just returned from New York, was the one to start the ball rolling in regard to a community theater for Los Angeles. She had been asked by Mrs. Long to speak on "The Drama in New York," but she was impelled to speak on the subject "Drama as it May Be in Los Angeles."

"I come home with the firm conviction that until I die I shall work for a community theater for our city," she said.

Miss Goetz reviewed briefly the plays she had seen: "Insects" "He Who Gets Slapped," "La Tendresse," and "Blossom Time."

Mrs. Moira Peery, president of the Drama League was the fourth speaker presenting the purpose of drama week and the aims, also of the Drama League in general. She, too, spoke strongly in favor of a community theater in Los Angeles.

SOCIETY

To the Orient

Miss Janet Prendergast, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Prendergast, 2214 Wellington Road, will leave Saturday for another trip to Honolulu. She will be with Mrs. Cora Kroh and her daughter, Miss Evangeline Kroh. After a tour of the most important islands of the Pacific they will go on to the Orient, and are expecting to be away about three months.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Jefferson and their daughter, Miss Suranne Jefferson of Pasadena, left yesterday for a tour of the world. They will sail from New York on the Samaria.

From South America

Mrs. Elizabeth Barraclough of Rampart Boulevard has just returned from a tour of South America. She was accompanied throughout the trip by Mrs. Augusta E. Garesaga of Santa Barbara. They left San Francisco last June, going first to Mexico then to Central America, where they stayed for several weeks. In South America they visited many important and and fascinating places. Mrs. Barraclough has friends in almost all of the cities in which they stopped and they were the complimented guests of many distinguished people.

In Compliment

Mrs. Ardine Winter (Dextra Baldwin) and Miss Winifred Jones are giving a tea at Bel-Air, Kenneth Road, Glendale, on February 2, complimenting Mrs. Harold O'Rourke (Helen Iten) and Miss Amelia Hogan, who is to be married on February 7 to George Benjamin Hull. There will be masses of pink roses and the pink will be carried out in the decorations.

Mr. Van de Vere Hogan, 840 West Adams street, brother of the popular and attractive bride-to-be, Miss Amelia Hogan, will give a dinner for the bridal party on the evening of the 31st inst.

Friday evening, February 2, Mr. and Mrs. William Kenyon Young will entertain at dinner for this much-feted young lady and her fiance.

Announced at Tea

Mrs. R. V. Foster, 7032 Lanewood avenue, gave a tea yesterday afternoon and announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Louise Foster, to Richard Lionel Vincent. Mr. Vincent is the son of Mrs. R. W. Vincent of Santa Monica. The announcement cards were cunningly concealed in the little red paper hearts on the tea plates. There were 125 guests. Those assisting the hostess were Mmes. Richard W. Vincent, John Owens, Elmore Bushnell, William B. Lindsey, Seward Cole, Parker Foster, Creighton Brown, Arthur Well, James T. Holmes, Ralph Bell, Gordon Geltz, Beverly Scott and Miss Frances Foster.

For Her Sisters

Mrs. Joseph Heindl, 980 South Oxford street, has asked twenty ladies for luncheon today to meet her sisters, Mrs. Oliver Johnson of Seattle and Mrs. Rhoda C. Hawker from New York. After luncheon they are anticipating a game of "auction."

Luncheon and Shower

Miss Peggy Hoyt entertained at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. Edward Thoroughgood, 832 South Kenmore avenue, with a bridge luncheon and a shower for Miss Genevieve Dunn, whose marriage to Mr. Edward Joseph Duke will take place at St. Vincent's Church Monday morning, the 29th inst. The bride-elect was presented with a tea wagon laden with beautiful gifts.

Miss Hoyt was assisted in receiving by her sister, Mrs. Thoroughgood. The guests were Misses Mirelle Crowley, Gayle Miley, Betty Ball, Lucy O'Sullivan, Violet Mota, Ruth Mathisen, Jean Ball, Florence Serowinsky, Catherine Ball, Kathleen Fagan, Mary O'Sullivan, Mayme Ball, Jean Darling, Veronica Ball and Claire Bahnke.

Motored to the Woods

Several parties spent the last week-end at the Lake Arrowhead Club and enjoyed the crisp "bitsy" air of Arrowhead woods. There were Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Bornot, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Carter, Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Kaufman, L. H. Kastner Lusty, Mr. and Mrs. Meisser, Mrs. Florence Davison, Mrs. Fred S. Lyon, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard S. Lyon and Leonard S. Lyon, Jr., from Los Angeles; Wallace Bradshaw, Mansfield, Wash., Lieut.-Commander O. A. Ireland and wife of Sydney, Australia; Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Mapus, Mr. and Mrs. Syeve Kennedy, Miss Geraldine Kennedy, Riverside; W. Parker Lyon and wife, Pasadena.

Musicale

Mrs. Guy Bush, whose hospitality does much for the pleasure of her friends, is giving a musicale and buffet supper on Monday evening in honor of Hallet Golberta, the well-known composer. The following are the guests: Mr. and Mrs. Gilberte, Mrs. Katherine McNair, Mrs. Gail Mills Dimmitt, Estelle Brown Mills, Mrs. Nell Gathold, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Whiting, Mme. Ines Briceno, William Berrian, Blanche McTavish Smith, Mr. F. H. McTavish, Mme. Diana Martinez Millicus of Mexico, Dr. A. H. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Biandin, Mrs. Frances Betts, Miss Frances Betts, Miss Edna Lowe, Nellie Peck Saunders and Eva Woodbridge Victor, Detroit; Dr. and Mrs. Walter Wessels, Mr. and Mrs. S. Cohen and their son, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bole and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Pickell of Detroit.

Honor Their President

The Matinee Musical Club will give a large reception at the home of Mrs. Ross K. Finkerton, 2400 South Gramercy Place, on the afternoon of February 5, from 3 to 5 p.m. The club has planned this interesting event to honor their president, Mrs. J. Spencer-Kelly.

For Bridal Couple

Miss Abigail Holmes will have twelve guests for dinner Friday evening at her home, 944 South Oxford street, complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gaylord (Ruth Swindell.) Sweet peas will predominate in the table decorations. After dinner the young people will play bridge.

Social Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Murphy, 2026 West Adams street, returned yesterday from Pebble Beach, where they have been for two weeks.

Lieut. Merritt A. Bettinger and his bride have gone to San Diego where the young naval officer has rejoined his ship. They have been guests here of Lieut. Bettinger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Bettinger of 852 North Wilton Place.

Mrs. Henry Bosch of Chicago gave one of the week's very attractive affairs when she entertained with a luncheon at the Ambassador Cocoanut Grove. Covers were marked for eighteen guests. Mrs. Bosch is living at the Ambassador.

Mr. and Mrs. Lex Miller of Yakima are among the guests at the Ambassador. Mrs. Miller is having a small coterie of friends for an informal luncheon on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Bardsley and their daughter, Miss Ruth, are traveling through the East and will spend a couple of weeks in New York.

Mrs. W. M. Howard has gone east to be near Yale University for a few weeks, where her son, Frances Howard, is a student.

Mr. Louis and Mrs. Estelle Heartt-Dreyfus will occupy the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Simons while they are away, at 201 South Plymouth Boulevard.

Finn Haakon Frolich is giving a soiree for the members of the Norse Studio Club, and a few friends. The affair will take place on the 28th inst., at 8:15 p.m. There will be an interesting program and a buffet supper.

TARNISH FROM EGGS

Rub a little salt on the spoons tarnished from eggs and then wash in soap and water, drying on a soft cloth. All tarnish will be removed.

CLUBS AWAIT GIFTED VISITOR

Comedian's Wife to be Welcomed

Lady Lauder

WOMEN'S Clubs of Los Angeles are eagerly anticipating the arrival here of Lady Lauder, wife of the internationally famous Scotch comedian, Sir Harry Lauder. They are scheduled to be here within a few days.

Lady Lauder is a gifted speaker and is greatly sought after by women's clubs of the United States and Great Britain. She accompanies the irrepressible minstrel on his tours of the globe. Being an unusually keen observer Lady Lauder has amassed a fund of amusing and interesting topics and anecdotes during her travels through Europe, India, South Africa, Australia and other places.

Sir Harry's tours do not permit him and Lady Lauder to spend much time at their home at Dunoon on the River Clyde. But it is the spot they love most.

"I travel with Harry because he needs me," says Lady Lauder. "Who could take care of his health and mend his woolen hose and keep his kilts in order like the wife frae home?"

THE NEW IN STORES AND HOMES

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS

By Olive Gray

UP-TO-DATEST

For the little dresses which simply will not yield sartorial first place in milady's wardrobe the new crepes are a delight. In colors and patterns simulating their humbler sister challis, these newly popular silken fabrics are irresistible.

For the debutante frocks, which in every line are expressive of the dance, taffeta has first call. The full-skirted, many-frilled lovelinness of these terpsichorean beauties spells youth, gayety, colorful delight.

Spring Budding

Like the outbudding of soft, green willows by the brookside, taffeta always seems to ally itself with the first vernal glimpsing of new frocks. Each spring season, no matter how firmly relegated to the ranks throughout the preceding months, taffeta comes boldly forth, claiming attention by its crisp freshness, its sibilant rustle, which seems to whisper of the new in nature—her waving grasses, her newly burgeoning leaves, branches ready to burst into bloom. Clever taffeta, to thus ally itself with nature's most alluring epoch! Many of the taffeta frocks shown in local shops depend upon self-fabrics for trimming, the frills being shaped into plaques, quaint designs and nun tucks, edged with narrow frills. Of course, lace plays some part in the completion of many of these delicious little dress confections.

About Bertha

Her name is bertha and bertha is legion—in the world of dainty neckwear. Bertha she is sure to be if selected to bedeck the rounded neck of the frock for afternoon or theater; bertha for the finish of the simple dinner dress; bertha for the ornate blouse; bertha for wear underneath the coat or jacket where the vestee disports itself, for even this long-favored accessory has been obliged to yield at last in some degree to the charms of bertha. Whether bertha be formed from a mere flounce of lace—possibly an heirloom—or fashioned specifically for bertha-ing, this most popular of dress complements is certain to shine forth, sign manual of the latest mode.

Feathering the Chin!

I cannot say I like those latest veil fads, of which Gladys sent me a picture from Paris. Veils edged with feathery fronds of ostrich sound rather interesting, but I recall having seen a veil edged with fringe which, when passed rather closely along the neck, below the chin gave an effect of—I really hesitate to say it—of those Irish whiskers sometimes seen in vaudeville and owning to the name of "sluggers!" I would hesitate to adopt a veil which might be even suspected of lending an effect so bizarre, not to say ridiculous.

Organdy Gains New Ground

A new apotheosis of organdy is coming about, with the use of this fabric in bright coloring as accessory to the frock or dress of heavier weave. For daytime wear the neckpiece, the vestee, the dainty cuffs, may be of organdy in striking contrast; for afternoon and evening the same delicate material may serve to harmonize and to lend a lighter effect by way of bertha or frills in unexpected touches. At a leading store, out Seventh street, a lovely dinner dress in one of the violet tones, was characterized by a wide bertha in fine organdy, of a lighter shade, the diaphanous fabric bound with the silk of which the gown was made.

Helmets and Hat Pins

Like small bayonets at rest, the double hat pins chosen to trim the popular helmets, are placed conspicuously together, at one side of those severe and somewhat trying hats. If the helmet resembles the headpiece of the Roman soldier, these beautiful implements of decoration seem lying in wait for possible deadly service in case of war-like impulse on the part of the wearer!

To Keep in Going

If you have ever watched the phonograph, ready to jump when the last notes of the record sounded; watched, jumped and jumped again, until threatened with nervous prostration, you will welcome that device which makes for continuous repetition. So simple is this appliance that one wonders why it was not thought of long ago. Inexpensive, too, costing less than a bottle of nerve tonic for the results of ever-alertness lest the needle run away from the disc.

FASHION'S INTIMATIONS

One unique girdle has a long drapery which is caught to the right cuff, while another steel-beaded affair has a little purse hanging at the left side.

A dainty frock of white silk has a gay printed design in orange colored flowers. Three ruffles trim the skirts and an orange bandana is tied around the hips.

A coat and dress suit of white canton crepe features box-pleating in the coat sleeves.

Sleeves are more interesting than ever; often they are long and fitted, with shaped fullness below the elbow, or showing deep cuffs that fall over the hands.

Charming dance frocks of taffeta have slim bodices and long, full skirts. Some have bertha collars and perhaps a fine lace petticoat showing below the scalloped skirt.

Cotton frocks for the coming season will show buttons as trimmings. One tiny button of Japanese pearl with self shank has bits of bright painted stripes on the top surface.

A nappa sports hat of helmet shape had a double brim effect. Tiny suede flowers of bright hues peeped from between the two brims. A chin strap and a small leather bow underneath the brim completed it.

The smartest afternoon slipper is of bronze, with a Spanish heel and a buckle.

Bands of sable trim the quaintly puffed sleeves of a frock of green crepe Roma.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Mrs. R. P.—You will have to have some dental treatments for your pyorrhea. It is a very difficult thing to cure. Research on animals and man is showing more and more that diet has a great deal to do with the condition of the teeth and gums.

Are you getting sufficient green stuffs for your vitamins and essential salts? Two green salads a day are not too much and you could get with benefit the equivalent of a quart of milk a day, for its large amount of calcium and other minerals. Not all of this need to be drunk. You can take some in the form of cheese and custards, on cereals, etc.

"Dear Doctor: I am a girl of 15 years, height five feet, two inches, and weigh 142 pounds. Will you tell me just what I should eat for breakfast, lunch and dinner in order to reduce? What quantities? I know you tell the ones who want to gain, to eat the same things as you do those who want to lose, so will you please write me and tell me just what I should eat morning, afternoon and evening and between meals; just how much candy and just what fruits that would make me reduce rapidly.

"Oh, doctor, please have pity on me and answer this as soon as possible as I am getting so fat that I shall be ridiculous. Any boys that I shall meet will say, 'Gee, but you're fat.' And I cannot bear to hear that from a boy.—J."

Dear girl, it is impossible for me to write individual menus for the class. You can modify our general directions to suit your requirements, I know.

The reason we give approximately the same things to those who are trying to lose as to those who are trying to gain, is because one must have a balanced diet of varied foods to get the elements necessary to maintain health in both cases. Of course, those who are trying to gain simply eat more of them.

As you have not yet reached your full growth, you must be sure not to omit in your calories at least a pint and one-half of milk, better a quart. Whole milk is 20 C's an ounce, so a quart would be 640 C's. Skim milk is one-half that number. If you take the whole milk you could omit butter (one level tablespoon 100 C's.) If you take skim milk you should not omit butter, for you need the vitamins of the cream.

For your age and your height you should weigh from 110 to 118 pounds, so you are twenty-seven pounds overweight. You can see that the boys have a basis for their remarks. A really polite boy, of course, would not make such a remark, but boys are not noted for politeness.

While it is perfectly normal and right for you to think of the boys' opinion, I am glad that you want to reduce because you will have better health as well as better looks.

Any work that keeps you on your feet, and active, will give you more exercise and therefore help reduce your weight. If you find that you are losing more than two pounds a week, then you must eat more than the 1200 C's which we advise. As for candy, the best way is to cut it out entirely; but if you find you can't, take 100 to 200 C's for dessert. You can compute its value from the fact that three full cubes of sugar are approximately 100 C's.

There are no fruits nor any foods that are reducing. All foods have energy or calorie value. Fruits for the same weight, because they have much water in them, have less value than concentrated foods. Of fresh fruits two moderate-sized apples, a large orange, a small grapefruit, a large pear, all have approximately 100 C's each: while of dried fruit, four good-sized prunes, three good-sized figs, about one ounce of raisins are 100 C's each.

It is better for you to have fruits for dessert than candy or other rich desserts because they have the vitamins and essential minerals needed.

PLASTIC RITUAL IS CONDEMNED

Head of Episcopal Diocese Exhorts Delegates

Swing From Rigid Methods Found Overdone

Bishop Johnson Honored at Club Banquet

"After years of uncertainty as to what the Episcopalian prayer book is likely to become as a manual of devotions of our corporate life, it seems to me that we have reached a time when our service book is treated with scant reverence."

This opinion was voiced at St. John's Episcopal Church yesterday by Rt.-Rev. Joseph H. Johnson, bishop of the Los Angeles diocese, in his annual address given before nearly 1000 delegates to the twenty-eighth annual convention of the clergy and lay delegates of the diocese.

"I am aware of the fact that in former days our methods were too rigid, and as a consequence that the church suffered serious loss in its appeal to great masses of men," admitted Bishop Johnson. "Our services were often unyielding to the natural demands of men who, in a missionary country, had been strangers to our system, but in these days the church has become so plastic that a churchman is never quite sure of the character which will be given to the services when he enters the church building.

"This situation arouses protest," said Bishop Johnson. "I have carefully considered the subject and after correspondence with the presiding bishop, who assents to my judgment upon this question, I state my judgment to be as follows: The church, to stabilize her worship, provides a series of offices for prayers and praise, and these are in eminent domain for the clergy at all times, in all places. If at any time relief from the normally fixed rules should be needed, the relief is to be found as provided in canon law, in the prescription of the bishop."

ACCOMPLISHMENTS TOLD

Bishop Johnson briefly reviewed the work and needs of the various institutions supported by the diocese, calling special attention to the Home for the Aged at Alhambra, and the need for greater provision of food there, the Seamen's Institute at San Pedro and the Neighborhood Settlement. Speaking of the latter institution, the speaker said:

"If you want a thrilling experience take the Huntington Park car to the intersection of Ninth and Mateo streets and walk a block west to the intersection of Ninth and Wilson streets, and there you will find clinics and school playgrounds, libraries and a chapel that are actually turning immigrants into American citizens."

That true progress is a matter of spiritual perception and the transformation of the inner life, to the end of unselfish service, rather than a result of the accumulation of material possessions and relative knowledge, was one of the points emphasized by Dr. W. B. Stevens, bishop-coadjutor, in his address which followed that of Bishop Johnson.

"Oh, valley of bones that we are! Who will prophesy for us to the wind, that it may blow upon us?" asked Dr. Stevens, quoting a bishop of the early days of the church in America. "Come, Blessed Spirit, and shed abroad the love of God in our hearts.

"The whole question of human progress is much to the fore in these days," said Dr. Stevens. "Is there such a thing—or is it true, as Goethe said, that 'mankind, is always advancing, but man always remains the same'? There are many who hold the latter view. Progress, they say, is only by accumulation and not by inward transformation. There is an appearance of progress but it is only apparent. Men seem to be wiser and better than their ancestors because they have a store of accumulated knowledge and experience to profit by, but actually, man himself remains the same.

"It is needless to say that such a view is diametrically opposite to everything that Christianity teaches. Christianity teaches a Divine purpose for humanity, a providential guidance of the life of man, moral growth and, above all else, the work of the Holy Spirit, the continuation of the redemptive process inaugurated by the incarnation of Christ, the initiation of humanity into the higher spiritual life, for which the whole previous history of the human race was a preparation and education.

"Nevertheless, there is always the possibility of thwarting and delaying God's program, there is always the possibility of quenching the spirit by our sinfulness and willfulness—and there is always the possibility of overdependence on human agencies and programs."

PURCHASE URGED

Speaking of the improvement in the status of the missions of the diocese, Dr. Stevens stated that sixteen missions have become independent churches within the last year. He pleaded for a constructive missionary policy for the advancement of Los Angeles and other urban communities.

"We have sufficient data to enable us to determine approximately where the centers of population will extend, and our task is to 'buy up' the church future of this great city," said Dr. Stevens. "We cannot afford to miss the opportunity to acquire property when it is cheap. Ten years from now we shall be either commended for our farsightedness or blamed for our lack of policy."

Purchase of the Witmer Homestead, at 1422 West Third street, by the Girls' Friendly Society, to be used as a home for girls, was announced yesterday morning. More than $5000 toward the equipment of the home has already been raised by the members of the Girls' Friendly Society and an effort will be made to secure $12,000 within the next thirty days. Checks should be made payable to Dr. W. V. Chalmers-Francis, treasurer of the Lodge Board, Story Building, Los Angeles.

The Girls' Home, which will probably be opened by April 1, is a well-built house containing fifteen rooms, and the garage is also to be altered and converted into sleeping quarters. Fifty girls can be accommodated at the home and the fee will be made as low as possible for working girls.

Bishop Johnson was the honor guest at the annual banquet of the Men's Diocesan Club of the diocese at the Elite last evening. Preceding the banquet, Bishop and Mrs. Johnson and Coajutor Bishop W. B. Stevens and Mrs. Stevens were tendered a reception by laymen and delegates, among them being Mayor Cryer, Chancellor Frederick Valentine, of the local diocese, and Rev. John D. H. Browne of Santa Monica, the oldest priest in point of service in the diocese.

Bishop Stevens was toastmaster and was introduced by President Merton Albee of the club. The bishop told pleasant anecdotes about the Johnson clan, and then introduced Mayor Cryer.

"I deem it an esteemed honor," said the Mayor, "to be a guest on this occasion. I feel keenly how appropriate it is to honor such men as Bishop Johnson in life. Too often we are wont to honor the departed. How much kinder and better it is to do honor to those we really care to associate with and honor in life. I am proud to claim our distinguished guest of the evening friend. I love him as I know every man, woman and child in his great diocese does. He is a wonderful inspiration not alone to his church but to the city of Los Angeles and the State of California."

Rev. Browne feelingly called attention to the difficulties under which the church struggled before Bishop Johnson was secured, now some twenty-seven years ago.

HISTORY RECALLED

"I am probably the oldest church man in this diocese," said Rev. Browne. "I am nearly 80 and I have been engaged in parish work in and about Los Angeles for thirty-nine years. The church was small in following when I began. It was difficult to secure bishops a quarter of a century ago. Some of our stanch believers went into the East. We found Bishop Johnson in Detroit; he said he would come to us and brave the fight. He came and he has remained. He is beloved by all who know him. He has more than blazed the trail; our church has grown in larger proportions than our great city under his wonderful hand of guidance. May God spare him to us many years to come."

Rev. Browne referred to the assistance being rendered Bishop Johnson by Bishop Stevens.

Bishop Johnson responded to the various toasts and thanked the guests and members of the club for the kindly sentiments.

During the evening telegrams of regret were read from many church dignitaries, unable to attend.

Included on the program of entertainment during the evening were solos by Miss Kennedy of Hollywood and a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Hassler of Pasadena.

DOPE FILM MAN TWICE IN TROUBLE

First, Bad Check Charge; Next, Woman's Charge That He Kicked Her

As James Calney stepped from Justice Follette's court yesterday, where he had appeared in answer to a charge of passing checks without sufficient funds, he was placed under arrest on charges of assault with intent to do great bodily harm and taken before Justice Baird, who held him under $3000 bail. His hearing was set for the 30th inst.

Calney's troubles began when he is asserted to have kicked Mrs. Angela C. Kaufman with both feet last Thursday during an altercation. He had been employed by Mrs. Kaufman as manager of a film production known as "The Greatest Menace," based on the drug evil, and the quarrel between them arose over his interest in the production.

Following this, Mrs. Kaufman had refused to make good a number of checks said to have been issued by Calney. His arrest followed.

"TIMES" RECIPE CONTEST

Readers of The Times are invited to participate in a series of culinary contests in which this journal will pay cash prizes for the best recipes submitted. There will be six contests, each lasting two weeks. In each contest the best recipe submitted will win a first prize of $10, the next best $7.50 and the third best $3. In addition to these there will be two special prizes of $10 and $5 for the two best recipes for Spanish dishes. These Spanish-dish recipes may be submitted at any time during the twelve weeks, or until April 7. All other recipes must be submitted before the end of the two weeks allotted to the contest in which each is intended as an entry.

The first contest began January 13, and closes Saturday, January 27. It is a contest for the best recipe for a soup or an appetizer. The winners will be announced in The Times on Saturday, February 3.

The second contest, which will be for the best recipe for preparing fish or a fish sauce, will begin January 27 and close February 10. Winners will be announced February 17.

The third contest will be for the best recipe for preparing meat or a meat sauce. It will run from February 10 to February 24. Winners will be announced March 3.

The fourth contest, to run from February 24 to March 10, will be for the best recipe for the preparation of vegetables. Winners announced March 17.

The fifth contest, March 10 to March 24, will be for the best salad or salad dressing. Winners announced March 31.

The sixth contest will run from March 24 to April 7. It will be for the best recipe for a dessert. This may be cake, pastry or frozen or moulded desserts. Winners in this and in the special Spanish-dish contest will be announced April 14.

Honorable mention will be given worthy recipes which do not win prizes.

The Times reserves the right to print any recipe submitted in its columns or in book form. In such case the name of the author will also appear.

Recipes must be written on one side of the paper only, must be legible and plainly marked with the name and address of the author.

No manuscripts will be returned.

It is not necessary to be a subscriber to The Times to compete. Anyone may enter any or all of the contests, submitting as many recipes as desired.

Originality, economy and adaptability to Southern California conditions will be considered in judging the recipes. Contestants should submit only recipes that have been thoroughly tested out in their own kitchens.

Specify exact amounts of ingredients, using level measurements. Do not use trade-marked names of ingredients.

Recipes should be sent in as early as possible. A recipe may be sent in before the actual start of the contest in which it is entered but in this case the fact must be noted at the top.

Address all recipes to The Times Recipe Editor, Times Building, Los Angeles.

Why Corns?

Just say

Blue-jay

to your druggist

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in a colorless clear liquid (one drop does it!) and in thin plasters. The action is the same.

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 15c and 30c.—[Advertisement.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—[Advertisement.

LAST RITES FOR NOTED LAWYER

Body of J. H. Shankland Will be Buried Tomorrow

Native Tennesseean Lived Here Many Years

Will Conduct Services in Los Angeles Home

Funeral services for James Horton Shankland, distinguished lawyer who died at his home, 715 West Twenty-eighth street, early yesterday morning, will be conducted at the home at 10 a.m., tomorrow. Dr. George Davidson, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, will conduct the services, and burial will be in San Gabriel Cemetery.

The deceased was well-known throughout the city and State as a lawyer, and was one of the founders and an early president of the Los Angeles County Bar Association. He also had been a director of the Security Trust and Savings Bank for many years.

Death came after a brief illness. He leaves a daughter Elizabeth, wife of Jefferson P. Chandler; one son, Fowler; a sister, Mrs. Sarah E. S. Shankland, and five grandchildren.

NATIVE OF TENNESSEE

Mr. Shankland was born in Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 12, 1846, the son of Alexander and Sarah E. Shankland. He received his education in Crocker's Academy, near Nashville, and Brown University, Providence, R. I., receiving his degree from the latter institution in 1869.

He was admitted to the bar at Nashville on June 6, 1870, and moved to California in 1874. The same year he married Louisa, daughter of Joseph E. Fowler, United States Senator from Tennessee during the administration of President Johnson.

Locating in San Francisco he practiced law there in partnership with A. W. Thompson until appointed attorney for the Board of Trade of that city. This position he held until his removal to Los Angeles in 1888, when he formed, with J. A. Graves and H. W. O'Melveny, the law firm of Graves, O'Melveny and Shankland. This partnership was dissolved in 1904, Mr. Shankland continuing his practice of law, however, until his death.

He died at the home he built and had occupied continuously since 1895. He was a member of the California Club and Theta Delta Chi, college fraternity. The body is at the George A. Fitch undertaking parlors, 1201 South Hope street.

DOPE DEN AND GAME ARE RAIDED

Police Find Armed Chinese Running Lottery; Narcotics Seized, Arrests Made

A dope den and lottery, conducted jointly and presided over by a Chinese guard with a revolver, were uncovered yesterday by the police narcotic squad in a raid on a home at 553 Seres avenue. The officers seized $800 in bindles of morphine and cocaine and arrested the Chinese guard and five asserted the players.

Quan Bing, 60 years of age, said by police to be one of the most notorious dope traffickers in California, also was arrested and charged with violation of the State Poison Law.

Detective Sergeants Littlejohn and Hamilton and Inspector Earl had been "tipped off" that drugs were being sold at the Seres avenue house. Upon their arrival they found Bing in front of the house and placed him under arrest.

Searching the house, the officers entered the rear rooms. Here they said they found a lottery in operation. Wing Bing, revolver in hand, conducted the gambling tables, the officers said. He attempted to conceal the weapon, but it was wrenched from him by Detective Hamilton, according to the officers. Wing Bing was arrested and charged with conducting a lottery. Five other men, John Conley, W. J. Smith, Jesus Celaya, George Ross and S. J. Flarsty were arrested and charged with visiting a lottery.

Resuming their search of the house, the officers found the hidden bindles of morphine and cocaine.

Earlier in the day, Patrolmen Segar and Armstrong arrested Ramon Alvarado on suspicion. He was taken to the police station and searched. The heels of both his shoes were found to be hollow and in one of them was found a bindle of morphine.

SAID HE COULD "FIX" POLICE, FOUND GUILTY

Conviction of L. M. Johnson for grand larceny of $300 in Judge Reeve's department of the Superior Court yesterday proceeded from his representations to J. J. King, proprietor of a soft drink parlor, that he could fix protection with police for the sale of hard cider, it was brought out in testimony. King surrendered the $300 which Johnson said would be turned over to Officers Dillon and Weaver. When King's establishment was raided shortly thereafter he protested that he was entitled to immunity. Officers Dillon and Weaver, discovering that their names had been used in the case, effected Johnson's arrest. Dep. Dist.-Atty. Orme prosecuted Johnson.

BROKER ARRAIGNED

W. D. Bradnock, a broker, was arraigned before Justice Scott yesterday and held under $2500 bonds on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses. He was arrested by Deputy Constables McCullom and Waybright on a complaint issued by Dep. Dist.-Atty. McClelland and sworn to by Walter A. Mayr, who said that Bradnock obtained a loan of $1000 from him after representing that he owned far more than this sum. Mayr says he later found that Bradnock had no money and had misrepresented in order to obtain the loan.

WILL PUSH LIQUOR AND DOPE FIGHT

Chiefs in Both Divisions in Los Angeles Looking Over the Field

Sam F. Rutter, State Prohibition Director, and Harry Smith, Divisional Narcotic Chief, who came to Los Angeles with Roy A. Haynes, National Prohibition Commissioner, left for the North last night. Both men accompanied Commissioner Haynes through Oregon, Washington and California, but left the party when it left for El Paso. Commissioner Haynes will address the Texas Legislature at Austin tomorrow, and from there swing back to Washington.

While here Mr. Rutter got in touch with the proceedings already instituted in the local Federal Court to enforce the "padlock" provisions of the Volstead Act against persistent violators. He will return when the cases against Harry Margolis, the Central avenue "Rabbi," is called in U. S. District Judge Bledsoe's court, in March. Mr. Rutter says the Margolis case is but the beginning of a drastic program aimed against the bootleggers in this city and vicinity.

In San Francisco it has been successfully used, and several hundred of the best known cafes in that city are locked up with the sign, "Closed for violation of the prohibition law," in plain view. Scores of other dealers who have been fighting prohibition in the Bay City are selling out and quitting the business, being unable to stand up under the fusillade of prosecution by prohibition officers.

There is to be a further tightening of the enforcement lines in this city, but there will be no additions to the present force of officers until better and more commodious quarters are furnished by the government.

Divisional Narcotic Chief Smith had an important interview with U. S. District-Attorney Burke, yesterday, on the question of the enforcement of the Miller-Jones law, and increased activity will be in evidence from now on. In the dope department, as in the prohibition local establishment, there is a shortage of operators, a situation that will soon be remedied.

NEW RATES TO COAST ANNOUNCED

Sweeping Slashes Made on Freight From Middle West Points to California

Announcement of sweeping rate reductions from Chicago and points west to the Pacific Coast was made here yesterday, by H. P. Anewalt, general freight agent for the Santa Fe Railroad, with offices in the Kerckhoff Building. Under the new rates, Mr. Anewalt asserts, the California market will be opened to the manufacturers of Chicago and the Middle West. Present advantages afforded to the manufacturers of the eastern coast by the low water rates through the Panama Canal will be practically eliminated, he says.

A period of forty-five to sixty days will elapse before the new rates go into effect as they must first be printed and filed for one month at the points named.

The Santa Fe is taking independent action, according to Mr. Anewalt, who says that the rates will go into effect regardless of the action of roads east of Chicago and of other roads to the West Coast.

Among the list of articles to be affected are the following commodities: drugs, chemicals, soda, caustic, linseed-oil in barrels, baking powder, lime, refrigerators, plate and common window glass, talking machines, pianos, organs, paints, soap, heating apparatus, canned goods, starch, pipe fittings and connections, roofing paper, a large assortment of paper goods, such as binder boards, bags cups, boxes, school and composition books, wall paper, blotting paper, tissue paper, bond and ledger paper and copper wire.

JURY FINDS LOVE CULT MAN GUILTY

Charges of Young Girl Are Upheld; Cohen to Learn Fate Monday

Harry Yanca Cohen, operator of a love cult at 705 West Sixth street, was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, Mrs. Alleen Hildreth, 17 years of age, by a jury yesterday in Judge Hahn's court. He was denied bail and ordered to the County Jail. Sentence will be passed on Cohen, who is also known under the cognomen of Rev. Charles Newman," at 10 a.m. Monday.

Cohen's attorney, Lucas Smith, shortly after the verdict was returned, declared he would file a motion for a new trial. The motion will probably be denied and sentence will then be passed. The maximum penalty is two years confinement in the County Jail.

The verdict of guilty returned yesterday ends an investigation of many months of Cohen's activities here and in other parts of the United States by Detectives T. W. Cochran and John Douglas of the Nick Harris Detective Agency.

WEDDED BLISS LASTED TWO WEEKS, SHE SAYS

Asserting that Joseph B. Williams, Jr., vice-president of the Bankee Corporation of America, a profit-sharing project, began to treat her cruelly two weeks after they were married, Mrs. Mildred M. Williams yesterday filed suit for separate maintenance. They were married in October, 1921, and separated on the 18th inst.

The defendant's monthly salary was given in the complaint as $500, of which Mrs. Williams asks an equitable portion. Her attorneys are Earl C. Peck and Francis D. Adams.

MAYOR HAS HAT PUZZLE TO SETTLE

And He Does It by Easy Method of Taking One From Rack That Fits Him

Some absent-minded, shortsighted or dishonest—or maybe all three—person walked off with Mayor Cryer's hat from the Clark yesterday. Mr. Cryer was attending one of several luncheons on the second floor of the hotel. Hats were hung on a line of hall trees in the corridor. When the mayor left he couldn't find his. So he picked out one that fitted and looked something like it.

The Mayor would not tell how much he paid for his hat, its size or where he got it. It is said that all mayors are alike in that they won't tell the sizes of their hats any more than most women will their ages, and that they (the mayors) pull the size marks out of them (their hats.)

Mr. Mryer is by no means sure, however, that he got the hat belonging to the man who got his—there were lots of hats on the hooks. Maybe somebody stole the Mayor's hat, so the other luncheon guest would find none at all.

On the other hand some guest might have taken the Mayor's hat inadvertently, but the Mayor might have taken the hat of some other than the man that took the Mayor's hat. All this puzzles the Mayor, who has an old-fashioned New England conscience.

But the Mayor picked out a good one, coyly making the remark that one hat was just about like another hat in his eyes. The hats involved are shaggy, sorrel hats.

camera for the last time. The completion of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," early this week marked the termination of a contract signed with Adolph Zukor which is reported to have netted her more than $1,000,000. As a consequence she says she yearns for a New York home and eventually a return to the stage.

She says she is "through" with motion pictures. And this, despite the fact, that since early in the week the representatives of one of the leading photoplay producing concerns have been camping on the doorstep of Miss Minter's Argyle avenue home with a contract calling for her appearance in a feature film which will consume five months in the making.

WEARY OF POLLYANNA

Miss Minter admits their proposition is most attractive financially and that she would welcome the opportunity to appear in a silent drama in some role other than that of a "Pollyanna." But she declares her desire to return to the theater, occupied with her dreams of a Long Island home of her own, renders her far from enthusiastic as to her further appearance as a motion-picture star. She would not divulge the identity of the company which is desirous of starring her as her plans of continuing her work in pictures she characterizes as being entirely "too nebulous."

The film company's representatives were closeted with Miss Minter for the greater part of yesterday afternoon but departed toward twilight with their contract still unsigned and pocketed for further dickering today. She declares the terms of the contract are satisfactory save in one particular—that calls for her costarring with a rising ingenue who has not yet attained the eminence in the shadow world to which Miss Minter has risen.

Her decision to go East, at her earliest opportunity is based upon her desire to study music and take up voice culture. She declares the timbre of her voice has suffered through her last three year's association with the silent drama and must be restored to its pristine power before she can again appear on the legitimate stage.

Her resumption of stage roles, Miss Minter hopes, will occur this coming midsummer. Her departure for the East will be hurried on that account providing her terms for the proffered film contract are not met, she averred.

In discussing her plans Miss Minter declared she is delighted at the prospect that the silver screen will know her no more. She described it as a sort of "one dimension life" which is not as satisfactory as the legitimate stage. She also intimated that her Lasky screen roles were not the sort for which, on her entry into pictures, she hoped she would be cast.

But of all her plans the thought of building a home of her own in the East is the one most prized. And a home means a husband and more than a fence running around the house. She admits that, and says she adores children.

Tokio Editor Inspects Plant of "Times"

J. Harada, city editor of the Tokio Asahi, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday on an inspection tour of the United States to make a study of American journalism. He visited The Times Building yesterday afternoon and watched departments at work. He was interested particularly in the operation of the mechanical division and declared that he was surprised at the extent of The Times' equipment.

Mr. Harada is in charge of the editorial department of the Japanese paper and has a special social section which he edits on the side. He states that the Tokio Asahi has a circulation of several million and is the largest newspaper in the Orient. Mr. Harada will leave in a few days for Chicago.

COMMERCIAL BOARD DIRECTORS ELECT

Officers of the Commercial Board of Los Angeles were chosen yesterday for 1923, at a meeting of directors at the City Club. John Reid was elected president for a third term; Percy V. Hammon was named first vice-president; Charles T. Butts, second vice-president; Joe S. Barry, treasurer; E. D. Stacy, secretary and general manager. The directors were elected at a meeting of the board a week ago.

BUSY TIME FOR LIVE-STOCK MEN

Convention Here to Combine Business and Pleasure

First Session at Music and Arts Hall, January 30

Governor and Mayor to Greet Hundreds of Visitors

A continuous three-day round of business and pleasure is in store for the delegates to the twenty-sixth annual convention of the American National Live-Stock Association, which is to be opened by the welcoming speeches of Gov. Richardson and Mayor Cryer at Music and Arts Hall, Los Angeles, on the 30th inst.

It is expected that more than 600 delegates from all points west of the Mississippi will be in attendance and many hundreds of other men interested in all kinds of live stock are expected to be present at least part of the time.

Although the convention does not formally begin until January 30, the executive committee will meet at headquarters at the Rosslyn on the 29th inst., as will the presidents of the various live-stock associations which are members of the national organization to lay their plans for the coming year.

MANY VITAL ISSUES

During the convention many issues of vital importance to the live-stock industry will be considered and among those which will probably call for the most discussion and action are the agricultural credit bill which is now before Congress, the Transportation Act and the proposed packer merger.

It is only in the last few years that the live-stock men have been organized sufficiently to make their influence felt in national legislation to the degree that the value of their interests and invested capital warrants and from present indications it will not be long before they will form one of the most influential factors in the country.

The leaders from all over the country will be present and among the notables who will address the convention besides President Fred H. Bixby and Attorney Sam H. Cowan of the association, are Thomas E. Wilson, president of Wilson & Co.; Edward Chambers, first vice-president of the Santa Fe system; W. B. Greeley, United States Department of Agriculture, who will speak on "Stabilizing the Use of Public Ranges;" James E. Poole, noted market expert, and James Callan, ex-president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association.

AT LONG BEACH RANCH

On the second day, January 31, the convention will adjourn at noon to the Long Beach ranch of President Bixby, where a home-like ranch dinner and barbecue will be served the visiting delegates. After the barbecue an open air session of the association will be held.

Many social events are being planned for the ladies during the convention session and their days and evenings will be filled with auto rides, sightseeing trips, teas and receptions at the country clubs.

A large banquet is being planned after the convention is over. This promises to be a gala event where business will be entirely forgotten and the night given over to hilarity and mirth.

The Transcontinental Passenger Association authorized reduced fares for those attending the convention and this, together with the fact that the meeting will be open to the public, with undoubtedly draw many who are not members of the association.

VALENTINO IS STILL RAGE

Creates Usual Sensation at Nazimova Opening

Hayakawa Stage Play Flivs at Atlantic City

Peggy Joyce May Marry Duci de Kerekjarto

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—This has been a breathless week for film folk on Broadway, a week of terrific ups and downs. There was the shocking news of Wallace Reid's death, rumors of a company bankruptcy and reorganization; there was Valentino's court victory over Famous Players which permits him to engage in work other than acting in motion pictures, pending trial of their suit for a permanent injunction; there was a marked rise in attendance in theaters.

Now that Valentino has won the right to go to work—so long as it is something other than a motion-picture actor—he has plenty of offers to choose from. It is expected that he and his wife will go into vaudeville with a dancing act and it is said they will receive $5000 a week. He has also been asked to write about dancing for immediate publication.

At the opening of "Dagmar," Nazimova's new play on the speaking stage, the Valentino family caused even more than the usual sensation. There were many motion-picture people in the audience, most of whom were as gracious to him as the nonprofessionals. Leaving all discussion of the play to stage critic on Sunday, I pass on to the audience which was one of the most brilliant of the season. Mary Alden was there, of course, and Alma Rubens and Betty Blythe—all of whom looked strikingly beautiful.

Everyone is honestly sorry for Seesue Hayakawa because it was hoped that he would have a big Broadway success. But his play "Tiger Lily" never even reached Broadway. It died in Atlantic City last week having cost its producers about $20,000.

Likewise, it is doubtful if Pauline Frederick will reach Broadway this season. Her play, "The Guilty One," which I glimpsed in Chicago, seemed to me inept stuff and no improvement on her last film offerings. She will continue it on the road.

The most sensational success in the New York theaters is the Moscow Art Theater, and it is good news for the rest of the country that they will not entirely miss these masters of the art of acting.

Four films made in Russia by the Moscow Art Theater Company are to be released here shortly. They are controlled by the Intercontinental picture agency and the first one to be shown in this country will be "Polikushka," from the novel by Tolstoi. Let us all pray that they will not be edited to conform to the ideas of what motion-picture producers think the public wants.

PEGGY JOYCE AGAIN

There is talk of Peggy Joyce marrying Duci de Kerekjarto, the Armenian violinist, who plays a violin in vaudeville. There is talk also of Richard Dix coming East to make a picture for Paramount. There is much talk of Richard Dix and Mae Busch since the private showing of "The Christian" at the Capitol Theater. Their work was highly praised in all quarters. I'm considering sending Mae a bill for a new pair of French kid gloves that I wept on and they split clapping. But I had a lot of fellow-sufferers so I guess we hadn't better all move against her bank account at once.

George Barnes, too, who photographed "Peg o' My Heart," is having his day of fame, because he succeeded in making Lauretta Taylor look so young and unwrinkled. "If he can do that for her," said an unidentified voice in the audience, "just think what he could probably do for Elsie Ferguson."

"Peg o' My Heart," which is being shown at the Capitol, got the most enthusiastic reception of any picture in New York in a long time. Everyone is captivated by the dear little Irish girl whom Miss Taylor plays so cleverly. Personally I am as tired of Peg as though I'd played her every one of the thousand—or is it a million?—times that Miss Taylor has. And yet I rather enjoyed the film.

Coincident with the well-substantiated rumor that Richard Walton Tully is about to leave for the Coast to supervise new film productions, his "Omar the Tentmaker" opened at the Strand. Oh, bitterness and woe! What can be expected of a man who allowed—no, even encouraged—Guy Bates Post to act for motion pictures? Harriet Underhill remarked in the Tribune that if anyone feels that he knows a single good reason why Guy Bates Post should be a screen star she wishes he would enlighten her.

CALLED MATINAPES

"Omar the Tentmaker" at the Strand is imaginative and beautiful but a little slow. The matinee flappers, who are coming to be called "Matinapes" in these parts, would gladly exchange all the footage in the picture occupied by Guy Bates Post, for just one more close-up of Lefty Flynn. And I don't know as I blame them.

There is a picture called "Milady" at the Cameo, one of those French affairs that are one grand muddle. You never can decide whether the French directors allow them to get that way or if it is the fault of American re-editing. The picture purports to commence where "The Three Musketeers" ended. Perhaps it does so far as the plot is concerned, but otherwise Douglas Fairbanks's "Three Musketeers" leaves this way behind.

Dorothy Dalton in "Dark Secrets" is at the Rialto. She triumphs over a silly story by her naturalness, and Jose Ruben gives her admirable support. It is one of those things where the heroine has to work hard to keep the sympathy, the villain is so attractive.

Speaking of the Talmadges, Constance is to have a first rate vehicle if a deal goes through that is under way. "Dulcey," a deft satirical comedy by Marie Connolly and George Kaufman, is just the sort of thing that seems ideal for Constance, and Joseph Schenck is negotiating now with the authors for the screen rights.

She'll Help to Make "June Madness" Merry

Who will be starred in new comedy next week at Loew's State Theater.

UNIQUE RACE

PICTURE STARS TO RIDE AT EXPOSITION PARK

By Grace Kingsley

Just to show you that when a picture star plays a jockey role, it isn't the bunk, but is the sincere stuff, a unique horse race, with three picture stars riding is planned at Exposition Park in the near future, the proceeds to go to some charitable organization to be designated later. Informal announcement of this plan was made yesterday.

The three stars who will take part in the race are those who have been recently playing the roles of jockeys in three pictures. They are Jack Pickford, who has just completed "Garrison's Finish," a horse racing screen story; Regina Denny, star of the Universal feature "The Ketnuck Derby," and Douglas MacLean, star of the Ince feature, "The Hottentot."

The race we are assured, is to be entirely on the level, the horses will be blooded stock used to the track and the colors of the three jockeys will be selected by certain fair picture stars.

Gareth Hughes Comes Home

Gareth Hughes has returned from New York, following his engagement with Lionel Barrymore in "Enemies of Women," which was made in Europe. The actor is ensconced in his Hollywood home in Laurel Canyon.

Just now he is absorbed in building dog houses for three canines which he brought from Europe with him. These are French dogs.

He also brought a German police dog over, but as he couldn't speak a word of German to the animal, and as the dog objected to being addressed in French, as well as trying to start the war all over again with the French dogs, Hughes has had to give him away.

John Davidson Soon

John Davidson, well-known screen and stage star, has gone into vaudeville, following a several months' sojourn in New York. He will be among us on February 12, appearing at a local vaudeville house.

Gillingwater in It

When "Three Wise Fools" goes into production at the Goldwyn studios it will have Claude Gillingwater in the same role which he created in the stage version. Another of the bachelor cronies will be played by Alec Francis, and Brindley Shaw will portray one of the crook parts. The remainder of the cast is not yet chosen.

"Climbing" Will be Filmed

The Wilkes success, "Climbing," in which Mary Newcomb is starring at the Majestic, is to become a film. The rights have just been purchased by Louis B. Mayer, and John Stahl will direct.

Arthur Hull Signs

Arthur Hull, who played in the original New York cast of "Going Up," has been signed by Douglas MacLean to appear in the role he created on Broadway in the screen version of the comedy, which MacLean is filming as his first independent starring vehicle for Associated Exhibitors.

Other members of the supporting cast include Marjorie Daw, Hallam Cooley, Francis McDonald, Edna Murphy, Hughie Mack, John Steppling, Lillian Langdon, Wade Boteler and Mervyn LeRoy.

Dave Butler Falls

The old gas house gang had better not get a flash at David Butler, that's all! Though in fighting trim and weighing 200 pounds, age 25 years, David is now in the clutches of the golf disorder, and wears all the scenery. He took the first downward step on Tuesday when he hit the ball for the first time, and immediately threw down the mashie and romped downtown to order the suitable gleeful garments for the game.

Young Wants Wandering Girl

James Young is having a hard time finding a wandering daughter! One means it literally.

The director is to make as his first Rork-Young production a story called "The Wandering Daughters." This girl heroine must have an almost unbelievable combination of qualities. She must be a fine actress, a wonderful swimmer and horseback rider, an accomplished dancer. And, oh, yes! She must be a beauty and she must be very young!

Lovely girls are flitting in at the United Studios gate by the dozens these days. But so far Jimmie Young hasn't selected anybody. Some can swim, but can't dance. Others can dance, but don't "look;" others are too fat or too thin, too light or too dark.

So "The Wandering Daughters," therefore, cannot start to wander yet awhile.

Universal Head Today

Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, is expected in Hollywood today, arriving from New York. He is to pass on new productions and survey those underway.

One matter which will claim his attention is the signing up of a new serial star, due to the growing popularity of the Universal serials which have assumed tone since going into the historical class.

Jack Hoxie is rumored to be the man who will sign on the dotted line, but on this matter Irving G. Thalberg, when questioned, refused to commit himself.

So great his become the personal popularity of Reginald Denny in Wilwer's "The Leather Pushers," and Jack London's "The Abysmal Brute," that he is to be taken out of the fight dramas and put into pictures where personal appeal and fine acting ability take higher place than in the black-and-blue stuff.

To be exact, he will play the lead opposite Virginia Valli in "Up the Ladder," which Hobart Henley will direct. Others in the picture will be Lucille Rickson and Noah Beery.

Mr. Laemmle will also see to the launching of "Merry-Go-Round," which Rupert Julian has just completed, and to the making of "A Lady of Quality," "Drifting," and "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

The sets for "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," are bigger and more varied and complete, probably, than any heretofore built for any picture. They are exceedingly beautiful, as well. Work on the feature is progressing, with the interior scenes and some of the exteriors now being directed, but with the main exterior scenes awaiting the completion of the great square of buildings built around a court and covering many acres.

Orchestra of Women Plays Beethoven Work

The Woman's Symphony Orchestra gave the first of their concerts this season last night at the Philharmonic Auditorium. The program opened with the Beethoven Symphony No. 2, which received a very satisfactory interpretation. In the first Allegro a splendid rhythm was established, and the strings especially brought out the development. The Beethoven Symphony was indeed one of the highlights of the program, for it showed an assurance and positiveness lacking at times, in other numbers.

The three shorter numbers given by the orchestra were Debussy's Arabesque No. 1, Schumann's Allegretta Grazioso (Octave Canon), adapted for strings, woodwind and tympani, by Mr. Schoenefeld, the conductor, and the Mendelssohn overture to "Fingal's Cave." Of these the Schumann number won for Mr. Schoenfeld much applause for his skilled arrangement of this bright composition. The Mendelssohn was alike well played, and of a style with which the players were familiar. The Debussy Arabesque, which is really a pretty number, was interpreted in a rather classic manner, which is not the way this composer's soft and subtle music should be played.

Mr. Schoenefeld has developed a really good orchestra from a miscellaneous array of talent. In certain passages the French horns were somewhat flat, and there were other deviations from pitch and rhythm that are not present with an orchestra which spends more time in rehearsing. Regarding the orchestra as a professional organization, one could find some fault, but considering it as a student symphonic society, one could only praise its serious efforts and attainments. The violin section is very good, and the 'cellos and basses are pleasing. Sometimes the brasses and horns were muddy sounding, but certain of the passages by these same instruments were rendered with much charm.

Carl Gantvoort, baritone, was the soloist for the evening. His first aria was "It is Enough," from Mendelssohn's "Elijah." For his second group he sang "Nature's Love," by Van der Stucken; "Traum durch die Daemmerung," by Strauss, and "Ogier le Danois," by Augusta Holmes. Mr. Gantvoort possesses an excellent voice of smooth quality. His aria from "Elijah" was one of the most beautiful numbers on the entire program.

FROM PAPER TO PICTURES

Paul Powell, who has just finished directing Agnes Ayres in "Racing Hearts," is the only man in history to have stepped straight from a newspaper editor's desk to a motion-picture director's chair. "But there's nothing remarkable about that," he explains. "I took the step in the days when no technical training was needed to become a motion-picture director."

PLAYDOM

DIX SIGNS WITH LASKY

WILD STAR FOR PARAMOUNT ORGANIZATION

By Edwin Schallert

A sudden transferring of the interests of Richard Dix looms on the horizon. Featured in "The Christian" and other Goldwyn pictures, he has, according to announcement from New York, just signed a long-term contract with Famous Players-Lasky. The understanding is that he is to divide his time between starring alone and appearing in so-called all-star casts.

Dix first won recognition on the stage at the Morosco Theater, playing second leads. Later he went to New York with a production. After remaining there for several years he returned to California and made his first picture about two years ago. Almost immediately he was engaged for a Goldwyn feature, and has remained at the studio practically ever since. He made one picture at Lasky's some time ago in which Betty Compson was the star.

His most important picture role to date is John Storm in "The Christian," which is to show here next week.

Salisbury in Mission Play

The Mission Play will open its twelfth season at San Gabriel the afternoon of February 3. The role of Fray Junipero Serra will have a new portrayer, as Frederick Warde has retired from the cast after four years' association with the part.

Successively the role has been played by Benjamin Horning, George Osbourne, Wilfrid Rodger, Tyrone Power, Norval MacGregor, and then Mr. Warde. Mr. Salisbury until recently has been starred in pictures.

Harry Lonsdale is another newcomer in the cast. To the singers have been added Helene Peabody and Wilbur Herwig. Julita Ruiz, the Spanish dancer, as well as Juanita Vigare, Juan Zarraquinos and others will return to the cast.

Add Stars to Cast

The cast of the film version of "The Rear Car," has been increased by the addition of Johnnie Walker, Alice Lake, Lionel Belmore, Frank Elliott and George H. Reed. Both Mr. Walker and Miss Lake have been starred in pictures.

Ballin Undecided

Hugo Ballin will make another picture for the Goldwyn organization but has not yet been able to select his story. He has about six in mind. Four of these have a historical background and two are modern in theme. Mr. Ballin has just finished "Vanity Fair."

Community Theater

The Hollywood Community Theater organization will break a long silence and present its first performance of the present season tomorrow evening at the Woman's Club in Hollywood. The program will include four plays: "Moondown," by John Reed; "The Camberly Triangle," by A. A. Milne; "Dragon's Claw," by Grant Carpenter, and "The Marriage Glint." The theatrical organization has no home as yet, owing to the closing of the Ivar-street playhouse, and their presentation will be limited to one evening. It is expected that they soon will have permanent quarters in, which to resume their very successful productions. The plays are given under the direction of Miss Neely Dickson.

Among the players who will be seen are Ann Pittwood, Audrey Anderson, Theodore Von Eltz, Boyd Irwin, Wheeler Dryden and Bridgetta Clark.

LATE TRAIN SAVES SHOW FOR COMPANY

A late train saved the show when the Kolb and Dill Company, presenting "Now and Then," played at Evart, Washington, recently.

According to the callboard, the train was due to arrive at 11 a.m. But Allen Connor, juvenile lead with the company, misread the callboard and arrived at the station at noon. It so happened that the train to Evart was one hour and ten minutes slow, otherwise the Kolb and Dill company, now playing at the Mason Operahouse, would have arrived at Evart minus one of the leading characters.

CAREWE RETURNS

Edwin Carewe returned yesterday from Zion National Park, Utah, where he has been for several days looking up locations for his forthcoming production of "The Girl of the Golden West." Actual production is scheduled to start within a few days.

RED HOT WILSHIRE SNAP.
$22,000 FOR $15,000.

Here's an unbeatable bargain in a strictly modern, unusually well-built, 2-story, 7-room colonial home; heated by 3 ever-ready coeds in the midst of fine homes.

The living and dining—no ers are very spacious. You'll find tile and breakfast-rooms; dark old ivory finish with walls tastefully decorated; a mighty convenient kitchen, maid's room and bath; upstairs are 3 very large, well-ventilated bedrooms and an elaborate tile bath. There's a good basement, a gas furnace, fireplace and garage.

The lot alone is easily worth $12,000, and in 2 years it can be used for a choice site for flats. The house is in excellent condition and worth that less than $15,000.

$15,000 takes it on easy terms. Owner will carry mortgage. Better hurry quickly. Call R. M. TORREY, Wil. 1484.

FOR SALE—

THREE ABSOLUTE BARGAINS.

PRICE $15,000.

This is less than $450 per front foot.

PRICE $21,500.

Northeast corner of FIFTH and BEAUDRY, 125 by 125 feet. MAY vacant. Half improved with brick residence.

This is much under value.

PRICE $50,000.

$975 FRONT FOOT. STOP AND THINK. Are you aware that the northwest corner of Fourth and Olive recently changed hands and big improvements contemplated on that corner? I quoted 53x165 ft. now used as parking station on the same side of the street, just south of corner, between Third and Fourth. Do you realize that this 53 ft. is the last large, close-in vacant, and at this time, marketable low figure? Only one block from Hill st. and one and one-half blocks to Pershing Square, the new Biltmore Hotel and other contemplated improvements, where the values are as high as the sky line. There is big future profit in this piece of ground. Property clear. Courtesy to brokers. W. L. BEACH, 212 S. Grand Ave. Phone 63586.

MOONEY GAINS 15 LBS. ON IT

States Tanlac Built Him Up Wonderfully

Ended Biliousness, Headaches and Dizziness

Feels Like a Brand New Man, He Declares

F. R. Mooney, 1714 Arapahoe St., Los Angeles, Cal., is still another who is enjoying a wonderful appetite, perfect digestion and robust health as a result of the use of Tanlac. Mr. Mooney's own statement follows:

"What I needed was an all 'round building up and Tanlac has done that very thing. For a year or more I had been run-down, without energy, and that tired feeling was on me all the time. My nerves wouldn't let me sleep half the night and my appetite had failed me so completely I couldn't eat a bit of breakfast. I was also troubled with constipation, headaches, biliousness and dizzy spells, and felt 'all in' most of the time.

"Tanlac helped me almost from the very day I began taking it. I have a wonderful appetite now and have gained fifteen pounds. In fact, I'm just the same as a new man and I believe Tanlac will help anyone."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.—[Advertisement.

Los Angeles.—"Before my retirement I was for 24 years a druggist and during that period sold many thousand bottles of Dr. Pierce's remedies. I could always feel perfectly safe in recommending a medicine put up by Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., and it is a pleasure for me to state that during all the years I sold medicine I never had a single complaint regarding Dr. Pierce's remedies, but have had hundreds of people tell me how much good they have derived from them. I had, and still have so much confidence in these medicines that when I need a tonic I take the 'Golden Medical Discovery' which clears my system of all unfavorable symptoms giving me a tone and feeling of perfect health.

"When my bowels and liver become a bit sluggish I take one of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, for there is nothing I know of that will so gently and thoroughly relieve the body of digestive disturbances."—Louis B. Clark, 1611 E. 29th St.

Recovers From Croup

"My boy had a very bad attack of croup. Tried everything but nothing did him much good. Then I used Foley's Honey and Tar and he not only recovered quickly but he has had no trouble since," writes Mrs. Williams Sims, Burlington, Wyoming. Coughs, colds and croup quickly relieved with Foley's Honey and Tar, the largest selling cough medicine in the World. Free from opiates—ingredients printed on the wrapper. Stood the test of time, serving three generations. Refuse imitations and substitutes. Insist on Foley's Honey and Tar. —[Advertisement.

HERE IN TIME THOUGH TRAIN IS LATE

Eastern Jazz Exponents Come for Opening of Playhouse

Cross Continent to Play Here

Warings Pennsylvania Orchestra, when it arrived here yesterday to play at Grauman's Metropolitan Theater.

THOUGH their train was two two hours late yesterday, Waring's Pennsylvanians arrived in time to fulfill two engagements—one at the Soldiers' Home at Sawtelle next Wednesday morning, the other at Grauman's Metropolitan Theater tomorrow night.

Waring's Pennsylvanias are declared to be the finest jazz band in the United States. Everyone of the number is a college graduate, either of Pennsylvania State College or of Toronto University, and everyone is a versatile musician and a vocalist as well.

The engagement at the Soldiers' Home is by arrangement with The Times for the benefit of the veterans. The concert, which will take place at 10 a.m. will make Sawtelle fairly ring with patriotic and jazz music.

The Pennsylvanians have just closed a fourteen-week engagement in Chicago. Sid Grauman, who brings them to Los Angeles, says this is the longest run ever played by a musical organization of the kind. Waring's Pennsylvanians are known favorably, he says, in New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Missouri.

BUS PLAN TO BE OUTLINED

Board of Public Utilities Will Meet Today to Hear Proposal of Eastern Capitalists

The Board of Public Utilities will hold a special meeting this morning to consider the application presented by former Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, as counsel for E. F. Simms, former Congressman Joseph L. Rhinock and other eastern capitalists for a permit to operate double-deck passenger-carrying motor busses over thirteen routes in various parts of the city.

It is expected that Richard W. Meade, who organized and managed the Fifth avenue bus line in New York City, and is to have charge of the Los Angeles system, will appear this morning before the board to explain the purposes of the company. The members of the Board of Public Utilities are Walter F. Leeds, president, and John P. Kennedy and E. F. Bogardus. The latter was recently appointed by Mayor Cryer to the commission.

When the application for a permit for the new $2,000,000 bus line was filed with the City Council unexpectedly on Tuesday morning, it was read and then referred, as is usual with such applications, to the Board of Public Utilities for a report and recommendation.

THIRTEEN ROUTES

It is expected that after this morning's special meeting of the board, the application will be referred to Chief Engineer H. Z. Osborne Jr., of the commission for an engineering report and recommendation as to whether the application should be granted; and whether the motorbus line operation in Los Angeles is practicable, feasible and desirable. The board will then either recommend to the Council that the application be granted or denied, and then the application will be sent by the Council to its Public Utilities Committee, of which Councilman Sanborn is chairman, for a report and recommendation. The power to grant or deny the application rests with the City Council.

The thirteen proposed routes for the double-deck motor busses are largely in the western and southwestern part of the city, and outside of the downtown congested area, inside of which passenger-carrying motor busses are now prohibited, as a result of an ordinance enacted several years ago after the war against the "jitneys."

The new company's application states that it will be impossible for the new bus lines to give the public maximum service without some operation in the congested area, though most of the bus lines would operate outside of this area.

ORDINANCE IN WAY

"It would be strongly in the public interest," the motor bus company's application states, "to permit these busses to operate through and across the heart of the business district." If the City Council takes this view of the matter, it will then be necessary to amend the "antijitney" ordinance.

The fare proposed to be charged on the busses will be ten cents and in some cases, fifteen cents, the application states, and if the application is granted, the organizers of the company stated it is proposed to place in operation over the thirteen routes at least 125 double-deck busses.

WOMAN HELD AS FORGER

Charged with having passed more than a dozen worthless checks, Ellen Courtney, 25 years of age, was held by Justice Follette yesterday under $2000 bail. Eight checks ranging from $10 to $30, and said to have been forged by the woman, were introduced as evidence.

Dr. Eugene Francis Storke, lecturer, will talk on "Robert Burns and His Influence upon Humanity." News Items.

IDENTITY SOUGHT

Injuries sustained by an unidentified Mexican late Tuesday when he was struck by an automobile driven by George G. Gillet of 1542 West Fifty-fifth street, proved fatal yesterday, when the victim died of his injuries at the Pacific Hospital. The body was removed to the Ivy Overholtzer mortuary. Police are trying to establish the man's identity. A crucifix tattooed on his left arm and the initials "D. D." on his right arm are the only clews.

SUSPECT SAYS CRIME TAUGHT

That he is a graduate of a "crime school" in Los Angeles, which taught him burglary and other arts of the underworld, was, the police say, the declaration of Albert Thomas, 19 years of age, when he was brought in from Venice by Detective Sergeants Kaizenberger and Williamson. Thomas, the detectives declare, gave them the name of his asserted instructor and a search is being made for the man.

Thomas also said, the police assert, that Louis Gargano, employed in a pool room at 133 East Third street, told him he would need a revolver in his new business and sold him one. Gargano was arrested by the police, charged with selling a pistol without a permit.

Thomas was arrested by Detective Captain Frank Watson of the beach city on a description furnished by the local police. It is asserted Watson entered a room in the Leland Hotel, 116½ East Fifth street, on Dec. 28, 1922, and stole several articles of small value. Thomas told the police, they say, he had committed several burglaries, using a screw driver as his only tool. He entered places, the police declare, by unscrewing transoms and wriggling over them, having learned agility in the Navy.

POSLAM OFTEN ENDS PIMPLES IN 24 HOURS

Folks who know what Poslam can do don't worry any more about pimples!

Whenever any of these annoying eruptions appear, they just dab them at night with that gentle, healing ointment. It is so concentrated that by the next morning the pimples have sometimes dried away. If they aren't all gone then, touch them again with a bit of Poslam. This seldom fails to do the trick, and it is so nearly flesh-colored that it is hardly noticeable on the face.

Washing the face with Poslam Soap and hot water helps the treatment wonderfully, and the regular use of Poslam Soap tends to KEEP the complexion clear. For trial sample, send 10¢ to POSLAM, 245 W. 47th St., New York.
